Pennsylvania All-American Filled With Shows, Sales

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS) is one of the nation's largest dairy shows with over 2,200 entries. PAADS always affords Pennsylvania breeders an important opportunity to compete against the nation's best exhibitors and animals, with $73,735 in premiums up for grabs this year.

For the third time, all six dairy breeds are holding their national shows in conjunction with PAADS. These shows include the Eastern National Ayrshire Show, Eastern National Brown Swiss Show, National Guernsey Show, Eastern National Holstein Show, Mid-Atlantic Jersey Show, and Eastern National Milking Shorthorn Show. Four breed sales and four national junior shows complete the PAADS all-star lineup.

Once again, the State Holstein Fall Championship Show is being held in conjunction with the All-American on Tuesday, September 27, featuring as many as 250 animals that are also eligible to participate in the Eastern National Holstein Show on Thursday.

Many opportunities are on the agenda for young exhibitors at the All-American, including the Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest, Junior Dairy Management Contest, 4-H and FFA Judging Forum, Careers and Opportunities Night and Junior Dairy Show.

PAADS Judges From U.S., Canada

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Organizers of the Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show (PAADS) have announced the judges who are to be working the show rings during this coming week of dairy shows.

Held in the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, the PAADS is one of the largest dairy showing events under roof in the East and features several national shows, regional shows and the annual 4-H state show, in addition to large sales, and special events and exhibits.

State Jr. Show

The 1994 Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show is to be held Monday, Sept. 26, in the Large Arena of the Farm Show Complex.

The Holstein, Milking Shorthorn and Brown Swiss shows begin at 8 a.m.; Guernseys at 9:30 a.m., Jerseys at 10:30 a.m., and Ayrshires at noon. More than 850 animals are entered for this year's competitions.

Judging the Holstein's will be Brian Garrison, of Tiffin, Ohio. Showmanship judge is Thomas Barley, of Elizabethtown. The Brown Swiss and Jerseys will be evaluated by Jeff Myers, Westminister, Md., with Irene Benner Osborne, of Greencastle, making the showmanship awards.

Fowler Branstetter, of Edmon-

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative Names Quality Award Winners

SOUTHHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative will present its 1994 Quality Premium Award to 69 members who earned the cooperative's quality bonus all 12 months of the 1993-1994 fiscal year.

"This award recognizes members who consistently produce high quality milk for the cooperative," said Don M. Breiner, Atlantic's quality and field services manager. "We commend these producers for their commitment to quality."

During the past fiscal year, which ended July 31, Atlantic paid out $2.3 million in quality milk bonuses. On average, 46 percent of the cooperative's membership earned the extra payments throughout the year.

Begun in 1987, the quality premium program provides a financial incentive to members to produce high quality milk. Members must meet a series of seven quality standards set by the cooperative to obtain the bonus.

The 69 award winners will receive a plaque during their local and district meetings this fall and next spring.

Altantic Dairy Cooperative represents more than 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

District 1

Samuel W. Morris, Pottstown.

District 2

Stephen H. & Herbert W. Jones, Medford, N.J.

Poultry Notes In This Issue, Also All-American Highlights

As part of this issue of Lancaster Farming you will find a special supplement entitled "Poultry Notes." Along with features and news of interest to poultry producers, the section includes messages from advertisers and the schedule and floor plan of the Northeast Poultry Show in Lancaster this week, starting on Tuesday.

Also, the All-American Dairy Show activities start in Harrisburg today with the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant. We have highlights, a schedule of events, and commercial messages for this national dairy show too.

Printed Early

Because of the street fair in the town of Ephrata where our offices are located, this issue of Lancaster Farming was printed a day early (on Thursday). Several late-week markets and a few late-breaking news stories were not available at press time. In addition, advertising deadlines were early too. We appreciate your effort to help us meet these deadlines.

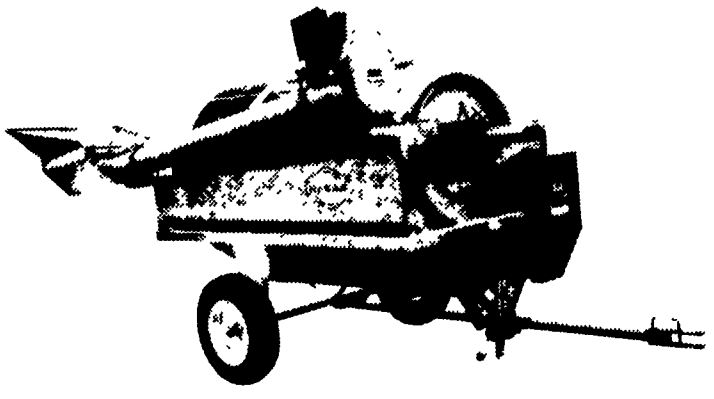
CLEANING GRAIN SAVES MONEY



You save more than drying costs, dockage, and aeration costs!

Grain cleaning also reduces the risk of grain spoilage or insect infestation by removing the fines and trash which are the main cause of problems during storage.

DMC's full line includes four HI-CAP Grain Cleaners to meet your cleaning needs at any capacity. Screens are available for most grains.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Tuesday, September 20, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds varied from plant to plant, but was slowing overall. Offerings were generally limited on the under 3 pound sizes and fully adequate on the heavier weights. Live supplies were moderate, occasionally heavy; weights were in a full range and mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Trade sentiment was mixed in a range of barely steady to fully steady. In the parts complex wings were in best balance. Inquiry for other items was slowing and supplies were at least adequate from most shippers.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.
Tuesday, September 20, 1994

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY: WHEAT PRICES EXTENDED GAINS, TUESDAY, AFTER EXCELLENT EEP WHEAT SALES RE- PORTS AND THE LARGER WEEKLY EXPORT INSPECTION FIGURES. CORN PRICES FINISHED MOSTLY HIGHER ON FORECASTS FOR RAIN AND COOL WEATHER WHICH WOULD SLOW HARVEST PROGRESS. SOYBEAN PRICES ARE MIXED. WHEAT 2 TO 5 CENTS HIGHER. CORN MOSTLY UNCHANGED TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM UNCHANGED TO 1 CENT HIGHER. SOYBEANS MIXED. SUBSTANTIAL EXPORT ORDERS FOR WHEAT SUPPORTED PRICES WITH EGYPT THE NUMBER ONE BUYER. FUND BUYING ON THE BOARD CARRIED OVER FROM MONDAY WITH A BOOST FROM MONDAY'S LARGER WEEKLY INSPECTION REPORT. THERE'S NO SET ASIDE ACREAGE FOR WHEAT THIS YEAR AND PRODUCERS ARE PLANTING IN A DUST PILE. MUCH NEEDED MOISTURE IS FORECAST FOR PARTS OF THE COUNTRY. ACTIVE HARVESTING OF CORN AND LARGE YIELDS REPORTED, LIMITED PRICE ADVANCES. HOWEVER, REPORTS OF RAINS AND COOLER TEMPERATURES MOVING ACROSS THE MIDWEST INTERJECTED LIGHT SUPPORT TO CORN PRICES. CORN PRICES ARE DOWN ABOUT TWENTY CENTS FROM HARVEST TIME LAST YEAR. SOYBEAN PRICES RECEIVED SOME STRENGTH FROM SOYOIL PRICES AND FUND BUYING ON THE BOARD. HARVEST PRESSURE LIMITED SOYBEAN PRICE INCREASES. SOYBEAN PRICES ARE AROUND $1.00 CHEAPER NOW THAN HARVEST TIME LAST YEAR.

Whatever your dairy nutrition program is missing, Crystalyx® has a supplement to fill the gap.

From birth to dry off, Crystalyx® brand supplements, available from Agway, plug the nutritional gaps in your dairy production cycle. Mineral-rich Dairy-lyx enhances feed intake and helps prevent lameness throughout the life cycle. Dry Cow for cows already in your herd aids in reducing metabolic disorders and rebreeding problems. Anionic salts and chelated trace minerals in Close-Up Dry Cow help reduce the risk of milk fever and transition stress during pre-calving. To meet the protein and energy needs of your growing heifers, while enhancing growth and performance, choose Replacement Heifer. To improve breeding and appetites during high-stress situations, use Brigade. Crystalyx supplements are a hard, crystallized blend of molasses solids, protein, vitamins and trace minerals. They dissolve slowly with licking, and are naturally self-limiting.

To learn more about how Crystalyx® supplements "plug all your herd's nutritional gaps" contact your local Agway Feed Sales Specialist, Agway store, or representative.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

SEPT. 26-OCT. 2, 1994

GOOSE DAY, SEPTEMBER 29.

CRUSADER WITH A DRAWING PEN

September 27 is the birthday of Thomas Nast, the father of American political cartooning. Born in Germany in 1840, Nast immigrated to America when he was six years old and got his first job as an illustrator at age 15. From 1864 to 1884 every presidential candidate Nast supported was victorious. He used his politically pointed caricatures to expose corruption and to work for civil rights for immigrants and minorities. It was Nast who gave us the Democratic donkey, the Republican elephant, and our modern conception of Uncle Sam and Santa Claus. In fact, Nast not only drew the Santa we all know and love today, he also conceived and created Santa's North Pole home and workshop.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARTHWISE

In many parts of the country, the season of drying laundry outside on a line is coming to a close. Short, dark, cold days make us glad we've got an electric dryer to turn to. Keep these rules in mind to keep energy use to a minimum. When possible, use the dryer during off-peak hours. Always dry a full load, but not stuffed full, or the dryer will have to run longer to dry the clothes.

HOT POTATO SALAD

- 6 slices bacon
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 5 medium potatoes, boiled, peeled, and sliced
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 2 cups water
- 1/4 cup green onion
- salt and pepper to taste
- 3 hard-boiled eggs, sliced

Fry bacon until crisp; drain, reserving 4 tablespoons of drippings. Blend sugar, flour, and mustard into drippings. Stir in vinegar and water; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour over hot potatoes. Mix in onion, crumbled bacon, and seasonings. Top with eggs

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

Oklahoma City, Okla.
Wednesday, September 21, 1994

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY: Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers $1.00-$2.00 lower. Demand for feeder cattle light to moderate. Steer and heifer calves $3.00-$6.00 lower. Demand light for calves as farmers busy themselves planting wheat. Bulk of calves in fairly fleshy to fleshy condition and unweaned. Fall weather beginning with warm dayin mostly medium flesh. Weigh-ups ranged from gaunt to full on yearlings and mostly gaunt to average on calves. Slaughter cows weak to $1.50 lower. Slaughter bulls weak. Packer demand moderate at lower levels. Demand for bred cows and pairs moderate at best in light of Monday's lower calf market. Receipts this week 8,800; last week 9,415; last year 8,335. Supply consisted of 61 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs.; 34 percent calves under 600 lbs.; 5 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

OPINION

Big-Time Events

Along with many local and county fairs this week, farmers have two other major events to attend: the All-American Dairy Show in Harrisburg and the Northeast Poultry Show in Lancaster.

The invitational youth dairy cattle judging contest brings 4-H, FFA, and Collegiate teams to the small arena at the Farm Show complex on Monday. The All-American starts with the new Pennsylvania dairy princess to be crowned tonight. And throughout the week every major dairy breed will have national, state, and regional shows and sales. And on Thursday, the supreme champion is selected at the climax of the show.

At the Northeast Poultry Show in the Host Resort, the program consists of exceptionally appropriate subjects of interest to all producers. Subjects include talks on commodity price outlook, biosecurity, and effective rodent control on Wednesday. And special conferences for broilers and turkeys; eggs are scheduled for Thursday. Schedules for both these shows are found in this issue.

Often the work at home makes farmers think they don't have time to attend these educational events. But the conversation with other farmers and producers is often quite valuable. And this conversation is in addition to the programs and shows that are scheduled.

If you have an interest in dairy or poultry, this is your week for some big-time events.

To Pick Up Farm Show Entries

The 1995 Pennsylvania State Farm Show Premium Lists have arrived in the county cooperative extension offices.

The premium lists contains details on all the classes at the Farm Show, rules and regulations, entry deadlines, and entry forms.

The 1995 Farm Show will be held in Harrisburg from January 7 to the 12. Remember, many classes have a November 3 entry deadline.

Pick up your free copy of the premium list and make plans to attend and participate in the 1995 Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

To Be Safe

Over the past three years I have written many articles on farm safety. Last week this newspaper printed an editorial on farm safety. However, we continue to see far too many farm accidents and deaths.

Worker safety is becoming a bigger issue. As farms increase in size and require hired employees, farmers need to become more concerned about safety.

Farmers need to take time and review safety rules and operating procedures for all farm tasks before having an employee perform them. There needs to be a period of direct supervision before the employee is permitted to work unsupervised.

Checks need to be performed to insure all safety rules are being followed. Special care needs to be followed with children. Make sure they are old enough to do the job.

Agriculture needs to do a better job of policing ourselves in the area of farm safety. If we do not start implementing safety programs for our farms voluntarily, government rules and regulations will be extended to all farms.

Now is the time to take control of safety on your farm and make it a safe place to work. Your goal should be no accidents every year!

To Control Rodents

With fall coming, many mice will be migrating from fields into barns.

Now is the time to beef up your rodent control program. Check your barn for openings mice may enter. Patch holes along the foundation and around fan housings. Seal around doors.

Remove old rodent droppings and watch weekly for fresh droppings. Place baiting stations around the barn where you see rodent activity.

One and one half inch PVC pipe cut in one foot sections makes excellent bait stations. In confinement housing, these stations should be placed every 8 to 12 feet.

Bait stations should be checked weekly and serviced with new bait.

Rodents are carriers of many diseases, including Salmonella enteritidis. Rodents eat and destroy a lot of feed and even kill young animals while doing structural damage to buildings and electrical wiring.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Team work: The fuel that allows common people to attain uncommon results."

Farm Forum

Editor,

I want to remind people of the danger of farm machinery and especially of farm disks. My small son was standing near one, and forgetting it was there, he turned and walked against it. Since he was wearing shorts he got several substantial scratches and a cut that required four stitches. I am thankful he did not fall against it with his hands or face.

I want to know if other people have had similar experiences. Andrew's accident happened at a busy county fair. Is that a wise place to display a farm disk?

THE CHOICE IS OURS

Background Scripture:
Joshua 24
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 116:12-19

The great assemblage of the tribes of Israel at Shechem under Joshua probably took place more than 3,000 years ago. That's a long time no matter how you tally the years. Without a doubt, anything that happened that long ago is ancient history.

Yet, ancient history though it may be, what happened that day in Shechem is as contemporary in its importance as your daily newspaper and the six o'clock news on television. The historical and situational circumstances have changed radically, but human nature has not. And I am confident that 3,000 years from today this story will still be relevant.

Joshua assembles the people of Israel and reminds them of what God has done with and for them. From the beginning of their history up to the present moment, Joshua is able to trace the presence of God working in their lives. Instead of asking them to subscribe to a carefully phrased creed or set of theological propositions, Joshua directs their attention to what God has done. When they look at what he has done, it is more than enough to inspire them to covenant with God.

IN MY LIFE

Too often in our church life we speak generally of what God does without specifying what it is that we ourselves have experienced, either individually or corporately. Some Sunday morning during worship I'd like to hear, instead of a recitation of the Apostles Creed, one or more testimonials of what someone has experienced of God in his other life. For we cannot actually covenant with God solely on the basis of a set of intellectual propositions. If you cannot find any point in your life when you have experienced God or his providence, then you have no basis for a personal relationship. The problem, I'm convinced, is not that we haven't all encountered God, but that we are not all aware that we have. As Joshua was saying to the Israelites, remember when we captured Jericho, that was the Lord that enabled us to do that, so we need to remember things in our own experience which are attributable to God—from daily bread to windfalls, from deliverance to transcendence.

How contemporaneous these words are: "I gave you a land on which you had not labored, and cities which you had not built, and you dwell therin; you eat the fruit of vineyards and olive yards which you did not plant" (24:13). Is there anyone who could answer, "Not me, Lord!"? All of us, no matter how well or poorly off we may think ourselves, have received grace upon grace. No matter what our circumstances may be, there are more blessings to count than any of us can manage. It is on that basis, and that basis alone, that we are challenged to "choose this day whom you will serve" (24:15).

FAR BE IT

The reply of the people of Israel is a bit amusing to me because it is so like our own self-delusions: "Far be it from us that we should forsake the Lord, to serve other gods" (244:16) and even after Joshua explained how hard it was to follow the Lord, they replied with enthusiasm: "Nay; but we will serve the Lord" (24:21). Is that not us as well? We take our vows of membership and we are confident that we will keep them. But how easy it is to say them and how difficult to keep them. That hasn't changed either.

Joshua makes a very strong case of the people of Israel to vow to serve the Lord, reminding them of what God has done for them in the past and of his promises for the future. He tells them of the choice that he and his own house have made. But there is no compulsion at Shechem; Joshua does not force the people to make their covenant. When all is said and done, it is their choice as it is ours every day of our lives: "Choose this day whom you will serve."

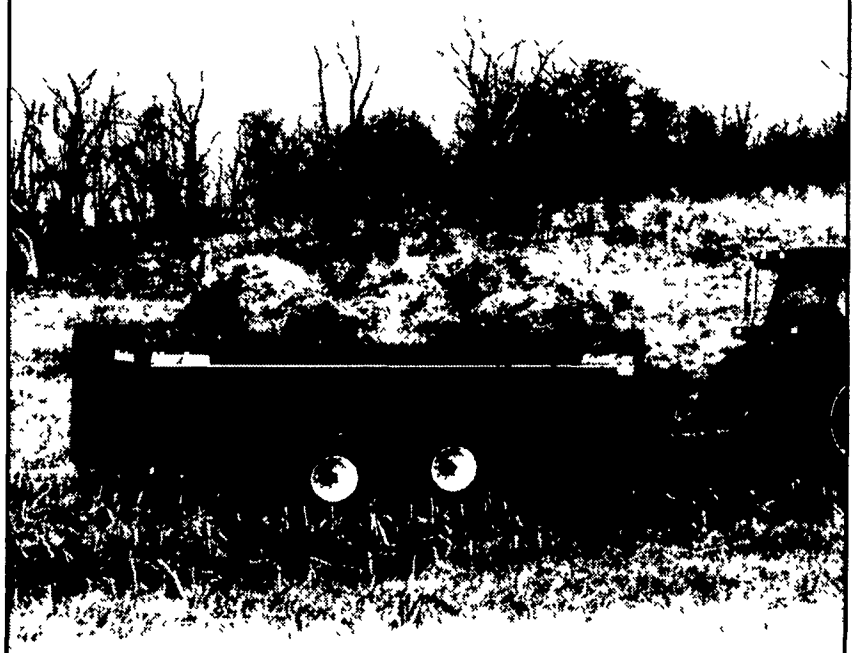
Tough Shredder

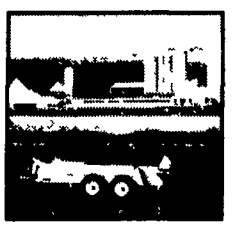


SideKick spreaders power through even the toughest manure.

With a new SideKick 3200 series side-delivery spreader, you'll power through tough manure when others shudder.

The planetary drive system and twin augers power through all types of manure from slurry to heavy pen pack to dry feedlot to gritty poultry litter.

The unique vertical expellers shred manure for a fine application. And the hydraulic expeller door makes the rate easy to control, too.



New Idea 3600 series box spreaders have earned a reputation for a long-life and an exceptional spread pattern

See your dealer or call 1-800-767-3221 for information.

MARKET COMMENT: THE MARKET TONE WAS STEADY. DEMAND COVERED THE FULL RANGE AND WAS MOSTLY MODERATE. OVERALL, RETAIL MOVEMENT HAD SLOWED FROM THE PREVIOUS TWO WEEKS. SUPPLIES WERE ADEQUATE OR AVAILABLE, AND THE DISTRIBUTION BETWEEN UNGRADED AND GRADED EGGS BECAME BETTER BALANCED FOLLOWING THE PREVIOUS WEEKS' ATTEMPTS TO RESTORE POST-LABOR DAY GRADED FLOOR STOCKS. BREAKING STOCKS SUPPLIES WERE ADEQUATE UNDER A STEADY TRADE SENTIMENT. LIVE HEN OFFERINGS REMAINED ADEQUATE TO AMPLE FOR THE LIGHT DEMAND. A EXTRA LARGE .67-.69, LARGE .65-.67, MEDIUM .56-.57.

Somerset Fall Classic Nets $69,095

Gay Brownlee
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Some 44 animals consigned for sale at the Somerset Fall Classic, brought a total of $69,095, about $4,500 less than the 1993 total when 42 animals were sold at the Classic.

Eighteen milking animals sold for a total of $31,392, or an average of $1,744. Seventeen bred heifers averaged $1,559 for a total of $26,503.

Open heifers averaged $1,425 a piece totaling $9,975 for the seven animals. Two calves under three months were sold, one for $850 and the other, $375. Total was $1,225 and the average was $613.

Fred England from Williamsburg was top buyer. He bought eight animals, but the total spent by England wasn't disclosed.

Todd Lohr from Hooversville paid the top price of $2,450 to consignors Paul Kinsinger and Henry Kinsinger of Oakland, Md. for Triple-Silo Mark Miranda.

Born January 5, 1992, Miranda due September 3, 1994 to Pacalamar Astronaut, had a "tremendous pedigree and beautiful udder," according to Oren Bender, pedigree expert.

A Chief daughter, her dam is Triple-Silo Jake Margaret, GP, 82-2y11m; 3-3, 307, 21670, 3.4 742, 3.1 666; 2-3, 296, 17610, 3.3 584, 3.1 540; 4-3, 209, 16050, 3.5 563, 3.2 584.

Milos Sinan paid 2,075 for Hillmont Leadman Smooth-ET, born January 7, 1991 and consigned by Kirk A. Hillegass of Hillmont Famrs, Berlin. Sinan, from Home, Pa. paid the second highest price for an animal.

A daughter of Tradition, she is GP, 81-3y6m. PTA +1719M, +66F, +50P. DHIR record 2-6, 334, 20630, 4.2 857, 3.3 683.

Dam Hillmont Klark Sibyl is VG, 85-3y; PTA +1210M +62F +43P; CTPI +808; DHIR record 2-2, 365, 21520, 4.4 946, 3.5 756.

It was a good night for the Somerset County Junior Holstein Club which is raising money to attend the National Holstein Convention in Pittsburgh that's coming up next summer. Thanks to some seven consignors, the junior club received some $1,400 at the sale, 15 percent of the $9,600 total grossed by animals donated to help the kids.

These included Ron and Linda Kling, Accident, Md.; David and Connie Welch, Berlin; George C. Stahl, Somerset; Philip Beachy, Salisbury; Lewis and Barbara Berkley, Berlin; Mark and Helen Mishler, Hollsopple and Kirk Hillegass whose one-yr. old brought a high of $1,700 for the juniors.

Mark Sipe of Rockwood hit upon a great idea to help the kids. He donated a saw on which he had painted rural scenery and farm

York Junior Dairy Show Crowns Supreme Champion

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.)—A four-year-old Holstein took back-to-back York Fair junior dairy show champion honors for New Freedom 4-H'er Brad Walker.

"Warns Sexy Lady," by Ocean-View Sexation capped off her win over the fair's youth division Holstein breed show by earning the judges' nod over five other breed winners for the Supreme Dairy Champion. Lady is scored VG-88 and has won the senior 4-H member several first-place and champion honors.

Judges for the six-champion runoff were Jeff Myers, Westminster, Maryland, and Steve Wilson, Parakton, Maryland.

Representing the Ayrshire breed was the winning senior two-year-old "Triple-J Valu Julie," exhibited by Jason Stambaugh, Spring Grove. Heather Crowl, Airville, exhibited two breed champions, the Brown Swiss junior two-year-old, "Joyel Cassidora," and the Milking Shorthorn winter yearling, "Spruce Hill RC Bubbles."

The junior calf exhibited by Todd Morris, Fawn Grove, "Moracre Perfecto Idabelle," was chosen champion over the Guernsey breed competition. "FHF Princess," a summer yearling exhibited by Kathleen Jenk-

Holstein Aged Cow Wins York Supreme Title

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Though admittedly tired, Jeff Roche wore a broad smile on his face as he milked the family show string at the close of the York Fair's dairy show, on September 15.

Just a few minutes before, the family's aged cow, "Unicorn Kayel Alice," had won the Rutter Dairy Memorial Award, presented annually to the fair's Supreme Dairy winner in memory of M. Ebert Rutter.

It was the second time the EX93-2E cow had won the Supreme honor, earning her first year-long ownership of the revolving plaque in 1991. She calved in July, after completing her six-year lactation records of over 23,000 milk and 800-plus fat.

Alice has earned several high placing awards for the Jeff and Mary Kay Roche family, New Oxford, on the show circuit so far this season. She was first in her aged-cow class at the Southcentral District Holstein Show, first and senior champion honorable mention at South Mountain Fair and seventh at the state Holstein show.

Chosen as the Reserve Supreme Champion was the Jersey breed champion "Top-O-Hill Admiral Precious." Precious is a junior-two-year-old, bred and exhibited by Mildred Seeds, Downingtown. As Reserve Supreme winner, the exhibitor of the stylish Jersey entry was presented a special plaque awarded annually by the William Everhart family in memory of Beatrice May Ball and Catherine May Kurtz.

York Fair dairy judges Jeff Myers and Steve Wilson, both from Maryland, teamed up to make the selections of the Supreme and Reserve supreme winners from the fields of six competing dairy breed champions.

Roy Coale, Felton, exhibited the champion in ayrshire competition, winning with his three-and-four-year old dry cow, "DVC Jasmine Mo Zart."

Winner of the Brown Swiss top title was "Joyel Blaster Heidi," a senior two-year-old bred and exhibited by Glenn and Gary Crowl, Airville. The Crowl brothers showstring also included the Milking Shorthorn breed champion, "Three Spring Erin EXP," a dry three-and-four-year-old.

Miller, A First-Year Exhibitor, Captures Reading Sheep Championship

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — Holding onto "Reba," a Southdown yearling ewe, Amanda Miller, 9, Mertztown — in her first year of showing 4-H — won supreme champion ewe at the sheep show on Monday afternoon at the Reading Fair.

Amanda, daughter of Joan and Ron Miller, Mertztown, is a first-year member of the Berks County Sheep Club. She is in the third grade at District Topton.

Amanda's ewe, showing the structural soundness and breed correctness that would allow it to "go a little further" in more difficult competition, showed the overall "total balance in size and breed" necessary for other competition, according to Tim Hall, Dalmation, show judge.

Hall, a Suffolk breeder, picked Bruce Snyder's Southdown spring ram as supreme champion ram at the show. Bruce, 19, son of Forrest and Lorraine Snyder, Kutztown, won his fifth supreme ram title in six years of showing at the fair.

Hall said the ram exhibited the "correctness and overall balance" necessary for the ram to do well in heavy competition with its breed.

Showmanship champion was awarded to Kelly Glaser, 13, Limekiln. Kelly showed her Corriedale fall ewe, Dandelion. She is a ninth grader at Exeter Junior High.

Champion fitter was awarded to Stephanie Bowman. Stephanie, 17, daughter of Roger and Nancy Bowman, Lenhartsville, showed her Dorset spring ewe. She is a senior at Kutztown High School.

In all, there were a total of 38 market lambs, 75 breed sheep, and 26 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

Land Trust To Hold Harvest Fest

YORK (York Co.)—The Farm and Natural Lands Trust will hold its fourth annual Harvest Fest on October 22-23 at Brown's Orchard and Farm Market in Loganville.

The Trust is the only private, non-profit land preservation organization working to protect and maintain the rural and natural landscapes that make York County a desirable pace to live and work. Proceeds from the festival will go to further the efforts of the Trust.

This year's Harvest Fest will offer expanded hours, running from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday and from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Events offered include continuous all-day entertainment, a celebrity Farm and Field "Gladiator Contest," straw maze, clowns, face painting, pumpkin painting, and Halloween masks; displays and demonstrations by York County Parks, York Wildcare, and Rehabitat; and horse-drawn wagon rides, pony rides, raffle and campfire.

Entertainers include Penny Royal-Celtic music; modern Icons-progressive folk; Contra Dancing by the York Folk Dance Association and accompanied by Bob Buckingham and the Contra Rebels (Ann Fallon, caller, instruction provided, public invited to participate); Pam and Don Geiselman; and the Haliwa Saponi Native Indian Dancers.

Great food will be available both days with roast beef and pork sandwiches by the York County Pork Producers and Cattlemen's Association, Mr. Bill's Quarterdeck Seafood, Bricker's French Fries, hot dogs, fresh apple cider, and pumpkin pie.

For more information regarding Harvest Fest, call the Farm and Natural Lands Trust at (717) 843-4411.

Farm Products Show Commission are proud to host an event as big as the All-American. The improved and enlarged Farm Show Complex has extra space, new lighting, ventilation and sound systems to provide first-class support to a world-class event.

If you have never visited the show, and each year you plan to go but some how never get there, make it a point to go this year. The 31st edition of the Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show promises to be tremendous.

The schedule is loaded with six national breed shows, cattle sales hosted by four different breeds and includes the Pennsylvania Holstein Fall Championship Show. In addition, hundreds or youth will be competing in judging contests, dairymen contests, and in the show ring.

Sunday night Sept. 25, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council in cooperation with the All American will host Careers and Opportunities Night in the Front Lobby of the Farm Show Complex.This college career night gives dairy youth a chance to meet faculty from over 12 different colleges and universities.

Monday Sept. 26, Pennsylvania youth will parade the tanbark competing in the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show. Teams from across the nation will be on hand testing their judging skills at the invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. At 2 p.m. the small arena will host the invitational Milk Shorthorn Sale.

Tuesday is an action packed day. The Pa. Holstein Fall Championship Show will start promptly at 9 a.m. Brown Swiss breeders from across the mid-Atlantic states will present their finest for public scrutiny and evaluation at the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show. Later in the afternoon, the Eastern National Milking Shorthorn Show takes center stage. The first pound of the sale gavel will fall at 7 p.m., as the Pennsylvania Elite Ayrshire Sale parades around the sale ring in the Small Arena.

Also on Tuesday, several hundred youth will participate in the PA Dairy Judging Forum sponsored by Sire PowerInc., or test their dairy industry knowledge by participating in the Dairy Management contest. The Dairy management Contest is sponsored by Pfizer Inc. and Church and Dwight Co. Arm and Hammer Ag Products.

Wednesday is Guernsey and Ayrshire day. The Large Arena will be bustling with activity all days the National Guernsey Show and the Eastern National Ayrshire Show contestants compete for the coveted grand champion titles.

Buyers can head towards the Small Arena, because at noon on Wednesday, the Top of the Harvest Jersey Sale will be taking the finest bid.

In the afternoon, the Pennsylvania all American will host the annual "Herdsman's Buffet" This feast will focus on fellowship and recognize those exhibitors who win the "Herdsman Award" for cleanliness, creative presentation, and the educational value of their display.'

Following the buffet, the Eastern National Holstein Sale starts at 7 p.m.

The Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show and the Eastern National Holstein show will highlight the events on Thursday in addition to the selection of the Supreme Champion Female of 1994 PA All American Dairy Show.

The four breed sales add purchasing opportunities to the All American. For more information regarding the breed sales, contact the following individuals: Ayrshire, John Rogers, Belleville, Pa (717) 935-5242; Milking Shorthorn, Christine Young, New Enterprise, Pa (814) 226-2678; Jersey, Don Stonerook, Martinsburg, Pa (814) 795-3059; Holstein, William Nichol, State College, Pa (814) 234-0364.

All week long, there will be a carft show in the upper concourse of the large arena. Crafters from the Mid-Atlantic region travel to Harrisburg to vend their wares. It is a great time to your get Christmas shopping done.

Dairy Promoters Integral To PAADS

HARRISBURG, (Dauphin, Co.)—Bright smiles and cheerful attitudes help the Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show flow more smoothly. The dairy royalty serving the commonwealth lend their energy and spirit to making the All American a great event.

This dairy show extravaganza is the first official function for the newly crowned Pennsylvania dairy princess, and her alternates. The state dairy princess pageant is held each year on the Saturday prior to the show's opening on Monday. This year the pageant will be Sept. 24 at the Sheraton East in Harrisburg.

Dairy princesses from across the state devote their time and energy as they willingly face the task of promoting milk. The new state dairy princess, her alternates, and many county dairy princesses,m alternates and even the ambitious youngsters, dairy ambassadors can be found helping throughout the week. As many as 15 princesses are involved overall.

What a way to break-in these spokepersons. These young ladies really work. It is not a glamorous job of just waves and posing for pictures. These educators work to promote milk and other dairy products.

Serving as hostesses, the promoters are to give school tours to hundreds of children from the city of Harrisburg. Fielding as many questions from the teachers as from the students, they are to the importance of milk in the daily diet and empress the youngsters with their knowledge and confidence around the cattle.

At each and every sale, you will find these busy young women hustling about signing up buyers, and helping to clerk the sale if necessary.

PAADS Judges From U.S., Canada

ton, Ky., is to judge Milking Shorthorns, Guernseys, and Ayrshires, with Joy Crothers, of Oxford, judging showmanship for those breed shows.

Exhibitors are reminded that they will need to present animal registration papers, health papers including BVD vaccination documentation, and a signed chaperone card at check-in today and Sunday. All entries must arrive by 3 p.m. Sunday.

In addition to the youth dairy shows, for the second year in a row a junior dairy show olympics is to be held in the Small Arena Sunday evening. Registration for the olympics is to be available at animal check-in.

Ayrshire Judge

Judge for the Eastern National Ayrshire Show, scheduled to be held 9 a.m., Sept. 28, in the Farm Show Complex's Large Arena, is Linda Hansen of Good Ridge, Minn. A long time Ayrshire breeder and grain grower, her family farm operation, Good-Vue Ayr, consists of 40 milk cows and more than 2,000 acres of wheat.

As a judge, Hansen's experience is deep, including judging while attending Iowa State University, and working as a sire analyst in the artificial insemination industry for several years.

Currently she serves on the board of directors of the National Ayrshire Breeders Association, and her family also shows Ayrshires, showing the champion at the Minnesota State Fair several times. "The cows are the passion part of our farm operation," she said.

Brown Swiss

Officiating the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show, scheduled for 9 a.m., Sept. 27, is to be Steve Tuman, owner-operator of Willow Wells Farm, also located in Minnesota, where he milks 50 head of registered Brown Swiss.

A frequent shower, the Tuman family was named this year's premier breeder and exhibitor at the Minnesota State Fair. They showed the champion there, four out of the last six years. Last year the Tumans showed the grand champion Brown Swiss at the Central National Show.

Guernsey

Judge of the National Guernsey Show, scheduled to be start 9 a.m., Sept. 28, is Bertram Stewart, of Hornby, Ontario.

Stewart is active in cattle selection for sales, is a former manager og Agro-Acres Farm, and has judged all the national shows two times and is working on a third. He has traveled abroad, as well, to judge major shows.

Holstein

The Eastern National Holstein Show is set for 8 a.m., Sept. 29, and returning judge is to be Richard Keene, of Gilbertsville, N.Y.

Keene and his daughter own and operate Keeneland Farm, a 400-acre farm with registered Holsteins. He also serves as national director on the board of the Holstein Association, and travels extensively judging shows in the United States and abroad.

Jersey

Judging the Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey show is to be Wayne Sliker, of Top Acres Brown Swiss Farm, in St. Paris, Ohio. Well known to Brown Swiss enthusiasts, out of his herd he has shown 72 All American and 68 reserve All Americans.

Sliker is well-versed with the other cattle breeds, and has judged all breeds of cattle, in the United States and abroad.

Milking Shorthorn

The judge of the Eastern National Milking Shorthorn show is to be another Minnesotian, Eidl Bentley, who milks 70 head of Milking Shorthorn and raises grains on his more than 600 tillable-acres farm.

The show is to start 4 p.m., Sept. 27.

A past president of the National Milking Shorthorn Society, Bentley is well known to fellow breeders, competing in four major shows per year, and taking the premier breeder and exhibitor banners at this year's Minnesota State Fair.

The supreme champion at the 1993 All-American is C-Allanvale Inspiration Tina owned by Ernest A. Keuffner, of Keuffner Holsteins, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and was bred by Alan McCutchen, Ontario, Canada.

Stephen Spencer To Be Honored

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Stephen B. Spencer, professor of dairy science extension with Penn State University's College of Agricultural Sciences, is to be recognized as the 1994 Image Award winner, during this year's Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

According to Patty McMurray, chairperson for the award committee, Spencer is known for his attention to detail and diligent service to the dairy industry. He is to receive a specially crafted stained glass hanging mirror which is to be inscribed, "Awarded to an individual who has enhanced the image of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show by significant contributions toward its reputation, prestige and welfare."

The mirror was crafted by Leslie Rhoades, of Tunkhannock.

Spencer is to be presented with the award during the All-American buffet, held Wednesday evening in the Small Arena of the Farm Show Complex.

According to McMurray, Spencer has spent "countless hours each year since the beginning of the PADDS assuring that the milking equipment is functioning properly and that dairymen visiting the show practice buildings, hoping that when auctioned it would bring a good price.

It did — $200 from Dr. Thomas Gretz of Mt. Pleasant. "I'm going to hang it over the fireplace mantel," said the dentist.

So the juniors added $1,600 to their treasure which should kick in some interest by the time it's needed for room and board in the Steel City.

Clark Yoder, Salisbury, was the auctioneer. Bender, from Accident, Md. did pedigrees. Ringmen were Steven Pheasant and Rick Foreman.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

High Wins Again At Denver

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Casey High, 16, Lititz, repeated a grand champion win at the Denver Fair steer show last Friday evening. High won the honors last year, as well as the Lancaster County 4-H beef roundup championship for the last four years. High's champion at Denver weighed 1,309 and later sold to Weaverland Valley Farms for $1.00 per pound.

The reserve grand champion was shown by Jason Kleinfelter, 18, from Wernersville and sold for $.75 per pound to New Holland Sales Stables.

In the preview show, Jessica Stoltzfus, 14, from Elizabethtown showed the grand champion, and Kleinfelter had the reserve champion. Preview steers are being brought along for future shows, especially the Farm Show in Harrisbrug in January.

PREVIEW

Lightweight, 1. Richard Kerper, Jr.

Lightweight, 1. Jessica Stoltzfus; 2. Kyle Zerbe.

Heavyweight, 1. Jason Stoltzfus.

SALE

Lightweight, 1. David Newpher; 2. Richard Kerper, Jr.

Light Heavyweight, 1. Kyle Zerbe; 2. Mark Gelsinger.

Jason Kleinfelter had both the reserve champion of the show and the reserve champion of the preview steers.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — Dairy cattle shows were the highlight of the Reading Fair Wednesday, held at the Fairgrounds Mall, in Reading.

Judge for the show was Alan Hostetter, of Dale-Pride Holsteins, in Annville. The Hostetter family raises, milks and shows Holsteins, and Alan was one of the coaches for this year's state 4-H dairy cattle judging team.

He praised the exhibitors for the opportunity to judge their cattle and for the quality of their show.

Hostetter judged Holstein, Brown Swiss, Ayrshire, Guernsey, and Jersey cattle during the day-long show. And despite some relatively low numbers of entries in some of the breed shows, Hostetter said the quality of the cattle was enjoyable.

Holstein

In the Holstein breed, Michael Davis, of Leesport, showed the grand champion of the open division show. His senior 2-year-old, JMJ Springpond Leadman Starlit, was also named best udder of the show.

Jennifer Davis, of Leesport, showed JMJ Springpond Cruise Gretel, a senior 2-year-old, for the reserve champion of the youth division.

In the 13-animal Aryshire breed competition, Jill Vail, of Myerstown, showed both the grand and reserve grand champions. Her junior 3-year-old, Noltshire Corben Vash, was grand champion, while her senior 3-year-old, S&M Ayr Reliable's Rebecca, was reserve grand.

Jill's brother Jed Vail showed the junior champion, a junior yearling, Allmine Festival Ascot. Andrea Koinski, of Mohrsville, showed the reserve junior champion, also a junior yearling, AK Reliable Charity.

Brown Swiss

In the nine-animal Brown Swiss show, Randy Balthaser, of Bernville showed all the champions.

His junior 3-year-old, Northkill Creek Doll Nutty, was named grand champion, while his 5-year-old Shady Creek Peg C Priscilla was named reserve grand champion.

Balthaser's intermediate calf, Northkill Creek Dot Paula, was junior champion, while his senior yearling, Northkill Creek Ginger-ET, was named reserve junior champion.

Guernsey

The grand champion of 15-animal Guernsey show was 4-year-old Greenwood I Bubbles, shown by Daniel Hollenbach, of Bernvil-

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Four promising young agriculturalists have been named national finalists for the 1994 American Star Farmer Award.

Lloyd H. Vaill Jr., 20, Pine Plains, N.Y.; Brian Wade Johnson, 21, Gotebo, Okla.; Jeral Gross, 21; Bridgewater, S.D.; and Jamie Judd, 21, Reedsburg, Wis., were chosen as the best of the 1,445 American FFA Degree candidates. One of the highest honors an FFA member can earn, the American Star Farmer will be chosen from the four finalists during the 67th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10-12.

AGRICULTURE'S LEADING EDGE FFA

The finalists were selected based on their management skills and the quality and growth of their agricultural enterprises. The candidates' leadership and FFA activities are also considered by the national, state and local FFA officials who select the finalists.

Each finalist will receive $1,000 from the National FFA Foundation. The national winner will be awarded another $1,000. In addition to the cash awards, the four finalists will travel to Europe with other national winners for an international experience tour.

proper milking techniques.

"His devotion to creating a healthy and productive milking environment has made the milking facilities at the All-American the pride of all show circuit travelers."

According to a news release, Spencer has been highly successful in initiating and developing programs to teach dairy farmers how to improve milking system design, milking quality, and management. He also has developed four computer programs to assist in the design and evaluation of milking systems and has written many articles on dairy management.

Solanco Livestock Sale Has Good Prices

QUARRYVIULLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Solanco Fair market livestock sale last Friday evening featured 79 hogs, 47 lambs, and 17 steers.

The grand champion lamb, shown by April Leaman, sold for $5.50 per pound to Weaver Insurance for a total of $726. The reserve champion lamb, shown by Brent Landis, sold for $3.75 per pound to Edgefield Farms for a total of $405. The average of the lambs without the champions was $2.50 per pound.

In the hog sale, Nick Kreider sold his grand champion to James G. Kreider & Son for $3.25 per pound or a total of $845. The reserve champion, shown by Ryan Kreider, sold for $3.00 per pound to Hess Barbque for a total $768. The average of the hogs without the champions was $1.40 per pound.

In the steer sale, the grand champion, shown by Josh Kreider, sold to Ferguson and Hassler for $4.25 per pound or a total of $5,206.25. Ferguson and Hassler has been buying the champion each year for many years. The reserve champion, shown by Garry Welk, sold for $1.85 per pound to K & S Equipment for a total of $2,331. The average on the steers without the champions was $.80 per pound.

Nick Kreider and Judge David Hartman show the grand champion hog that sold for $3.26 per pound to James G. Kreider & Son for a total of $845.

Brent Landis sold his reserve champion lamb for $3.75 per pound to Edgefield Farms for a total of $405.

Garry Welk sold his reserve champion steer for $1.85 per pound to K & S Equipment for a total of $2,331.

April Leaman sold her champion lamb for $5.50 per pound for a total of $726 to Weaver Insurance.

Josh Kreider sold his grand champion steer to Ferguson and Hassler for $4.25 per pound or a total of $5,206.25.

Ryan Kreider and Judge David Hartman with the reserve grand champion that sold for $3.00 per pound to Hess Barbque for a total of $768.

Foreign Farm Owners Have 90-Day Reporting Rule

LIONVILLE (Chester Co.)— To avoid Federal penalties and monetary fines, Hollis D. Baker, county executive director of the Chester/Delaware County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service(ASCS) said foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land are required, by law, to report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases of 10 years or more, and land-use changes within 90 days.

"The Foreign Disclosure Report must be filed if all or part of the agricultural land is sold, or if the title is transferred to another person," Baker said. Failure to report could result in a civil penalty of up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the interests held in the agricultural land, she said.

Foreign investors have reported owning 14.6 million acres of agircultural land in the United States, and 59,319 acres in Pennsylvania.

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is any tract of more than 10 acres in the aggregate now in farming, ranching, forestry, or timber production. Land used for forestry production is land exceeding 10 acres in which 10 percent is stocked by trees of any size including land that formerly had such tree cover and will be naturally ar artificially regenerated. "This includes land in agricultural use when purchased, as well as land later converted to agricultural use."

The ASCS official said foreigners who own or have an interest in 10 acres or less do not need to report unless annual proceeds from the sale of agricultural products grown on these acres exceed $1,000.

Plumbottom Sale Averages $1,096

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Not since the days of Meredith Farm's sales has there been so much stir in the Ayrshire breed, according to many who attended the Plumbottom sale on August 13 in Belleville.

The event ended up being much more than just a sale, said Nicki Bozlinski, Pennsylvania Ayrshire coordinator. "It was promoting, merchandising, socializing and improving relations among Ayrshire breeders from across the world."

Plumbottom Farm decided to share their genetics and successes with other Ayrshire enthusiasts by dispersing four-fifths of their herd, which totalled about 75 lots. Another eight lots were "paired" lots, which means that the bidder takes the animal they wanted, while the other animal stayed at Plumbottom. Since John Rodgers is continuing dairying with his Ayrshires, he also kept one-fifth of his herd.

John Rodgers, an avid Ayrshire breeder, said he believes in promotion.

"We believe in milk and purebred sales," said Rodgers. "We have had Ayrshires for 10 years — and this is our second time around. And they are producing a profit for us." The Plumbottom Farm's 1993 DHIA average reached 17,960 pounds of milk, which earned them the Ayrshire Breeder's Association's coveted French Trophy award in 1993.

Following his own advice, Rodgers designed what attendees deemed a "first class" promotional event, not just a sale.

Long before the sale, he advertised in the Ayrshire Digest and other publications regularly, and enrolled his herd in Ayrshire Breeder's Association's award programs.

On the evening before the sale, Plumbottom hosted a Friday "Fun Night," which included a free buffet dinner, bagpipe bands and door prizes.

Guests came from many different states and countries, including Florida, Iowa and Maine; four guests hailed from Kazakhstan. The socializing lasted well into the early morning hours.

Saturday's sale began with a pre-sale brunch, served to all 175 people who attended. When it was over, the animals travelled to nine states — and partial interest in one of the bulls was sold to the breeders from Kazakhstan.

Having been raised to an excellent 91 score after being classified two days before the sale, Baytree Famtom Pepsi, topped the sale at $3,600. "Pepsi is headed for her second record of more than 17,000 pounds of milk and is due in December to Trident," said sales manager Tom Whittaker of Vermont. She went home with Don and Michele Bevis, of West Pawlet, Vt.

The Bevis's found and bought many of the top animals at the event, and eventually took home four of the most sought-after animals in the sale, for a total of $9,150.

One of the most recognized animals of the Plumbottom herd was Ardrossan M. Boy NoNo. Having held her classification score, and now holding as a 3 E 91, Rodgers sold a half interest in her.

Gary Zumbach of Monticello, Iowa, was the purchaser (not included in the sale average), "Her last service date was June 25; by sale day, she had gone 42 days without a repeat heat," said Whittaker. "Because of her being past nine years old, it was decided not to do a pregnancy test at this time. If, by the end of December, she is safe with calf, the half interest transaction will be completed. If she is not in calf at that time, the purchaser's down payment will be returned, and the transaction will be closed."

The sale average for all 63 head sold was $1,096. Sixteen cows averaged $1,206. Nineteen cows aged two and three years averaged $1,346.

Bred heifers brought an average of $905, and the open heifers averaged $850. The five heifer calves brought a $730 average, and three bulls averaged $1,008.

The highest selling embryo package, with three embryos by Heligo, sold for $400 to Hickory Grove farm in Wellington, Ohio. The dam, by Johnnie, had records of 22,270 pounds of milk with a test of 4.3 percent and protein tests of 3.7 percent.

Dick Witter of Taurus Service, Mehoopany, purchased a Trident-bred heifer, hurriedly took her to Huntington County Fair and took the junior champion award.

Whittaker said he was very pleased with the quality of cattle offered. "This sale was for dairymen who wanted to milk cows for a living, not as a hobby," he said.

Junior Livestock Sale At Wayne County

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The largest Junior Livestock sale in the history of the Wayne County Fair was held recently at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

One hundred eighty-six hogs, 46 lambs, and 34 steers were sold by 4-H members for a total of 266 head. The sale grossed more than $114,864 for the 4-H members. Auctioneers were Wayne Weaver, John Regan, and Pete Robinson.

The grand champion market hog was shown by Scott Lewis, Pleasant Mount, and sold for $4 per pound to Dr. Henry Nebzydoski, Pleasant Mount. Reserve champion hog was shown by Eric Smith, Honesdale, and sold for $3.95 per pound to the Honesdale National Bank. Overall, 186 hogs averaged $1.44 per pound.

The grand champion lamb was shown by Miriam Ryback, Damascus, and sold for $8.25 per pound to Wyalusing Livestock.

The reserve champion lamb was shown by Mike Korb, Honesdale, and sold to Wayne BAnk for $4.50 per pound. Overall, 46 lambs averaged $1.94 per pound.

The grand champion market steer was shown by Melissa Nebzydoski and sold for $2.65 per pound to Marshall Machinery, Beach Lake. Reserve champion steer was shown by Scott Lewis and sold to Narrowsburg Feed & Grain for $1.65 per pound. Steers average $1.06 per pound on 34 head.

Zartman's Brown Swiss Supreme At Ephrata

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Tom Zartman, Jr., Ephrata, brought seven head of Brown Swiss to the Ephrata Fair dairy show Wednesday morning and placed first in every class. And when the dust settled on the ball diamond where the show was held at Tent City, the aged cow not only was good enough to be grand champion of the Swiss show, she became supreme champion of the total show.

Judge Rick Hess, Strasburg, said the supreme champion was carrying a beautiful udder, had dairy character, and had good legs and feet.

The grand champion Holstein was shown by Denise Bollinger, Manheim. Bollinger's grand champion 4 year-old was also the youth show grand champion, and she had the junior champion too. Linford Weaver, Ephrata, had the reserve grand champion of the Holstein open show with his aged cow. And Marisa Weaver had the reserve grand champion of the youth Holstein show.

Jeremy Meck, Denver, had the reserve junior champion.

Leprino, Eastern Milk Celebrate Cheese Plant Expansion

WAVERLY, N.Y. — A Waverly, N.Y., mozzarella cheese plant, owned by Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative and operated by Leprino Foods, is in the final stages of a more than $5 million expansion, Eastern and Leprino officials recently announced in a news release.

Leprino, headquartered in Denver, Colo., is the country's leading manufacturer of mozzarella, supplying pizza restaurants such as Pizza Hut, Domino's, and Little Ceasars.

Eastern Milk Dairy Cooperative, headquartered in Syracuse, N.Y., has member-farmers in nine states and last year marketed 1.95 billion pounds of milk, or nearly 182 million gallons.

The expansion increases daily plant capacity to 2,280,000 pounds of milk, accoridng to Cy Carne, vice president for Leprino. He said that compares to year-ago daily capacity of 1,900,000 pounds of milk.

"This represents a 20-percent increase which will take the plant's annual milk volume from 640 million pounds up to 720 million pounds over the next two years."

Lewis Gardner, president of the board of directors for Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, said that the expansion project comes on the heels of a renewed 20-year contract between Leprino and the co-op.

According to Gardner, "It helps to provide stability for the 300 employees associated with the cheese plant, for our milk haulers who deliver up to 65 tankers of milk each day to the plant, for more than 1,300 dairy farms and their 70,000 cows who produce 186,000 gallons of milk each day for the plant."

Michael Donovan, general manager of the co-op, said that Leprino and Eastern have been working together at the plant for more than 15 years, and that in 1993 they renegotiated their original agreement and extended the contract to 2013.

Eastern agreed to recruit additional milk supplies for the plant in anticipation of the expansion planned by Leprino, and Leprino agreed to help fund increased incentives for farmers. In the past year, almost 300 farmers joined the 3,200-member cooperative.

Calling themselves partners in progress, Eastern and Leprino officials held a picnic and special plant tours for member New York and Pennsylvania farm families on Sept. 15.

Nearly every area of the plant was upgraded.

There are eight new 50,000-pound cheese vats; new pasteurization equipment capable of pasteurizing 144,000 pounds of milk per hour; a 50-percent increase in brining (salt solution) capacity; expansion of plant electrical service and distribution; a new reverse osmosis system for concentrating whey, along with new whey pasteurizer; modifications to the whey evaporator and spray dryer; additional refrigeration equipment; silos to handle additional volumes of condensed whey, cow water, and boiler condensate; and a new layout for box-making equipment and additional dicers in the processing area.

Western Md. Aquaculture Workshop Set

FOREST HILL, Md. — The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and Maryland Sea Grant have announced the upcoming program, Western Maryland Aquaculture Workshop on Saturday, November 12, at the Western Maryland Research and Education Center (WMREC).

This full-day workshop will introduce production systems and management techniques that are appropriate to the hillier terrain of western Maryland, western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and parts of Virginia.

Topics will include cage culture and production, marketing, trout production, crawfish farming, recirculation systems, water resource evaluation, and more.

Industry exhibitors will also discuss their products and services with potential producers.

Because of the widespread interest; in recirculation systems for the production of finfish, the last talk will discuss these systems, followed by a tour of a nearby recirculation facility.

For registration information, call: Anne Wakeford at Harford County Cooperative Extension (410) 638-3255 or Steve Bogash at WMREC (301) 432-4492. Registration forms and program scheduled will also be available from Maryland Cooperative Extension offices throughout the area.

PIT BOSS™
Pit and Lagoon Treatment

The guaranteed solution to your toughest pit problems.

Less odor Faster, easier pump-out More value from every pound of waste your hogs and pigs produce

Too good to be true? Not if you add Pit-Boss™ pit and lagoon treatment to the containment reservoirs in your operation In fact, we guarantee it

Not an enzyme or bacteria.
Pit-Boss pit and lagoon treatment is a unique, environmentally safe, pH-controlled product—not an enzyme or bacteria like most competitive products Here's how it works

Waste digestion involves three distinct bacteria types aerobic bacteria, which break solids down into fatty and amino acids, anaerobic bacteria, which convert those acids into nuisance gases such as ammonia, hydrogen sulfide, and methane; and facultative bacteria capable of performing either role

Pit-Boss interacts chemically with waste constituents to boost the aerobic manure digestion process. The result? Accelerated solids breakdown and relatively lower gas production

Virtually eliminates odor.
Relatively less gas and faster suspension of solids means dramatically reduced odor

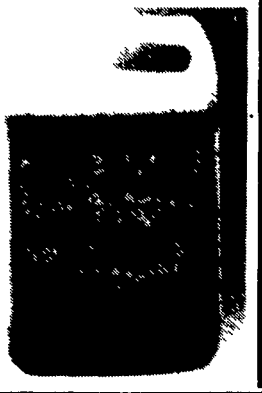
The first application of Pit-Boss, for example, typically lowers combined gas levels 20 - 25%. With some confinement buildings recording levels as high as 55 ppm, that's a considerable reduction Subsequent applications achieve similar results In most cases, odor measures just 3 - 4 ppm after the third application, so your facility is safer for people, better for stock, and less likely to be targeted as a nuisance

Speeds the suspension of solids for faster, easier, more complete pump out.
Highly liquified waste not only emits less odor, it also saves you time and money by making quick, efficient pump-out possible

Pit-Boss pit and lagoon treatment breaks down solids fast In fact, the first application of Pit-Boss typically reduces the sludge blanket on a holding pit by 4" - 6", the second by another 12" After the third application, most pits and lagoons are entirely free of solids

What's more, digesting the top crust on your pits or lagoons destroys egg-laying habitat for flies With Pit-Boss, you can count on less odor, easier pump-out, and fewer flies

Enhances the fertilizer value of waste by reducing nitrogen loss.
Up to 90% of the nitrogen in untreated slurry is lost as ammonia What's left at pump-out generally contains about 25 Lb of N, 19 Lb of P, and 20 LB of K per 1000 Lb of waste



Guidelines for effective application

1. Start with an empty pit whenever possible.
2. For pits that are partially or completely full, the pH must be adjusted to 6.5 before applying Pit-Boss. This can be accomplished using Chem-A-Co's Adjusta-Boss ph balancer according to the instructions on the label.
3. Apply one gallon of Pit-Boss pit and lagoon treatment for each 60,000 gallons of usable pit volume (pit length x width x depth x 7.5) Premix each gallon of Pit Boss with 3-4 gallons of water and empty into the pit at several locations.
4. Do not agitate the pit or use lime or ammonia in or near the pit.

GRAIN HULLS A PROBLEM? Ask Chem-A-Co how to suspend hulls so they're pumped out of your pits right along with the waste.

Champion Breeding Sheep Honors Go To Twin Brothers, Market Sheep Championship To Donough At Ephrata Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Ephrata Fair Sheep Show reached a climax on Wednesday night when twin brothers stood in the showring and vied for the grand champion breeding sheep trophy.

In the end, Jeff Bollinger took the trophy with his Suffolk ewe and his brother Jerry's Suffolk ram settled for the reserve rosette. Earlier, Jerry had smoothly wielded his sheep incompetition to become the grand champion showman.

The two 19-year-old brothers have waged friendly competition in the show ring for years. The sons of Ray and Sharon Bollinger have a flock of Suffolks and their younger brother Ryan has a flock of Cheviots on the family's Ephrata farm.

Judge John Eaton Jr., Dorset breeder from York County, said the decision to choose the grand champion breeding sheep was a difficult one because the ram has tremendous meat and muscle in the leg and groin and stands correct on its legs, while the ewe is a great example of correctness that will continue to do well on the show road.

The Bollingers weren't the only ones in the spotlight. Ryan Donough of Manheim showed the champion market lamb. The 11-year-old is a consistent winner since he entered competition three years ago. His homebred Suffolk-cross lamb Ginger was previously named grand champion non-selling lamb at the E-town Fair. It was the same story last year when Ryan showed Ginger's sister and won the reserve champion market lamb at Ephrata and E-town.

Ryan, the son of Ed and LaRue have 20 ewes on their farm. Of their homebred sheep that always seem to be in the winning circle, the family said, "It's genetics. She won't be sold but be put in the family's breeding program."

Judge Eaton said the champion lamb is extremely heavy muscled and firm with a bit more expression in leg muscling than the competition.

Ryan said that Ginger is walked about ¾ -mile and put through hurdles every day for conditioning.

Ryan also was named reserve champion intermediate showman; Gerald Boyd was named champion in that class.

Amy Bollinger took the reserve market lamb title with her champion lightweight Corey. The 15-year-old said the 134-pound lamb was also received the championship in the open show at E-town. National FFA's Star Farmer Finalists

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Four successful young entrepreneurs have been named by the National FFA Organization as national finalists for the 1994 American Star in Agribusiness Award.

Neal C. Floyd, 21, Nicholasville, Ky.; Tammy L. Yost, 20, Joliet, Mont.; David Snyder, 21, Hamilton, N.Y.; and Craig Eric Daniels, 20, Montello, Wis., were chosen as the best of the 1,445 American FFA Degree candidates. One of the highest honors an FFA member can earn, the American Star in Agribusiness will be chosen from the four finalists during the 67th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10-12.

The finalists were selected based on their management skills and the quality and growth of their agribusiness programs. The candidates' leadership and FFA activities are also considered by the national, state and local FFA officials who select the finalists.

Each finalist will receive $1,000 from the National FFA Foundation. The national winner will be awarded another $1,000. In addition to the cash awards, the four finalists will travel to Europe with other national winners for an international experience tour.

Cover Crop Symposium Oct. 24-25

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Penn State University will sponsor a Cover Crop Symposium here on October 24-25.

Growing cover crops offers many advantages to the grower at a very small cost.

Cover crops help mange nitrogen. Depending on the species used, a cover crop can either add nitrogen or conserve nitrogen already in the soil profile. If a cover crop like hairy vetch is seeded in early fall and left to grow until the following spring, it will add nitrogen to the soil profile for the following year's crop.

A legume cover crop can add 80 to 100 pounds of nitrogen which is worth $20 and $25 per acre in added fertility alone. If the soil profile contains excessive nitrogen, a cover crop of grass such as a small grain can help capture the nitrogen and hold it until the next growing season.

Cover crops also make good feed. A cover crop if harvested as a pasture crop or as a hay or silage crop, and makes high quality economical feed. Cover crops which are grazed or harvested and fed to livestock can provide additional home grown feed, which in turn reduces the amount of feed purchased.

Cover crops increase soil organic matter. If a cover crop is plowed down or simply killed and a crop is no-tilled into it, the cover crop residue will add to the amount of organic matter in the soil profile. Cover crops which are not plowed down but a mulch for a no-till crop also help conserve water during the growing season. In addition to the organic matter added to the soil, the roots of cover crops help to improve soil structure.

Cover crops also help control weeds. When used in a no-till system of planting, cover crops will act as a mulch keeping many weed seeds from germinating.

Cover crops reduce soil erosion during the winter months when many fields are not protected from erosion. A good vegetative cover will break the impact of the falling rain drop while the plant roots will hold the soil in place as water flows over the surface of the soil.

If you are interested in learning more about the benefits of growing cover crops, plan to attend the Penn State Cover Crop Symposium, which will be held Monday, October 24 and Tuesday, October 25 near State College.

Contests for children will also be featured at the Steam-O-Rama.

Activities and exhibitions scheduled to run through the four-day event range in speed and power from a slow-engine contest to competitive tractor and horse pulling. Kids can get into the act with pedal tractor pulls, while adults may team-up for the two-man crosscut saw competition.

Steam-O-Rama Plans

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

WINDSOR (York Co.) — They'll be working up a full head of steam in Windsor this week.

Steam power takes center stage in southeastern York County as the 37th Annual Steam-O-Rama runs Sept. 29-Oct. 2. The annual salute to the farm power of earlier times is sponsored by the Early American Steam Engine and Equipment Society.

Activities and exhibitions scheduled to run through the four-day event rage in speed and power from a slow-engine contest to competitive tractor and horse pulling. Kids can get into the act with pedal tractor pulls, while adults may team-up for the two-man crosscut saw competition.

If you prefer to watch rather than participate, each day features various demonstrations of the myriad uses of steam power. Corn meal grinding, shingle mills, rock crushing, as well as the traditional farm work steam chores such as baling and threshing, will be on display.

The 37th Steam-O-Rama opens Thursday, Sept. 29, with registration, Flea market setup, and scrapple making, and runs through 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2.

Steam-O-Rama showgrounds can be reached from Exit 7 of Interstate 83. Take Route 124 east for 7.5 miles to Manor Road. Turn right on Manor Road for 1.3 miles to the showgrounds.

% Advantage	6%	6%

A lot of effort and resources go into your growing investment. There's the labor to plant, monitor and harvest your crop. The tremendous investment in land and equipment. And the knowledge and experience you've accumulated over the years.

With all that's riding on your choice, you'll want a wheat variety that will produce for you in the field. And none surpass Hoffman 89.

Superior Test Weights. In three-year trials conducted by Penn State and the University of Maryland, Hoffman 89 registered the top test weight across all locations, in some cases approaching 62 lb/Bu. In Lancaster County trials, its 59.8 lb/Bu performance produced test weight savings of $7.76.

Yield. Superior test weight isn't the only advantage offered by Hoffman 89. In Centre County, it delivered 83 Bu/A—12% above the average. So you'd save $27 per acre using Hoffman 89.

Averaging the results of both trials, you'd earn $26.38 more per acre with Hoffman 89.

Make sure you get the most out of your investment by planting a proven winner — Hoffman 89. Just another way we add value to your seed investment.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

These things have a way of starting out innocently enough. But, then, somehow they just get way out of control.

It all began about 10 years ago, in the early stages of our farm conservation plan. In the course of laying underground drainage lines to dry up surface water, our farm and household-use water supply was diverted. In order to restore and backup the underground reservoir that fed the water source, we built a small pond.

Over the course of the years, The Farmer has added a couple of special fish to this small body of water, where we often rest and enjoy a snack on the little pier when barn chores are finished at dusk.

Had anyone ever suggested we'd name farm pond fish, I'd have figured they were short a few scales. Nevertheless, soon after the four koi - colorful, large-growing, Japanese goldfish — were installed in their new underwater home, each had established its own identity. Related to carp, koi are algae-eaters with vacuum-cleaner-like mouths — and appetites. Their assignment: to keep the pond free of yucky-looking algae growth.

Whitey was originally the largest and tamest, a chubby, mostly-white, fish accented with a few yellow and black spots. Palomino's neon-gold coloration is highlighted by splotches of pure white. The soft-pinkish koi with marbled-markings of white, gray and black shades was dubbed Marble. Most reclusive — then and now — is Tiger, who rarely shows his fat, fishy body of bright orange and black markings.

A couple of household goldfish were added to the pond population two years ago by a young friend cleaning out his aquarium when he left for college. Occasionally we would see the little goldfish as we fed the koi, so we knew they were faring well and actually growing up in the plentiful-food environment of the pond.

Then, one day late last summer, The Farmer announced that he had spotted a couple of inch-long fish fry in the pond. The day I found him on the pier, field glasses in hand, trying to see if he could figure out what the tiny fry were, I knew this whole hobby was turning fishy.

We pondered the mysterious babies all winter long. When the ice finally thawed in Spring, the dark-gray-colored hatchlings had grown to three-inch size. And they regularly came to snatch their share of crumbs from the koi's food, unafraid of the oversize goldfish a small friend has since described as "a hunnerd' feet long!"

"We have four baby gold-colored fish," announced the Farmer with a grin one April day. Within a few more days, there were six, then eight, then a dozen small gold-colored fish. And it became apparent that many of the rest were also changing color from drag gray to neon, while also growing at about the rate of an inch a month.

Eventually, we concluded that the pond had been abundantly blessed with offspring from the donor goldfish. Algae-eaters like the koi, these now many-dozen goldfish have completely cleared the pond's early-summer epidemic of thick algae growth. You could actually hear soft slurping sounds as they gorged themselves on the gummy, floating greenery, gathering nutrients that grew many of them into six-inchers in a matter of a few months. And the speedy, scrappy mob of goldfish outgrabs our four, slow, fat koi at feeding time.

Frankly, we're not quite sure where this unplanned, unexpected aquaculture development is headed. Especially since a second hatch has swelled the swirling school of goldfish with more hatchlings, some already golden colored.

Some cutting-edge marketing specialist could probably use this resource to put a whole new twist to the phrase "golden fried fish fillets".....

Unique Pumpkins Sold At Manheim Farm

Those Pumpkin-Faced People

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Fall's glorious display of pumpkins, gourds, and cornstalks sprout throughout the county. But tucked away on a back winding road of Manheim is a fall display you won't find any other place.

It's pumpkin-faced people and gourds. Whimsical faces, complete with either freckles or long-lashed eyes, reveal the artistic talents of Yvonne Geib. A few one-eyed pirates appear among the rows of these pumpkin-face characters, but, for the most part, they are smiling. You won't find a sad or wicked face among this fall collection because the creator prefers happy faces.

Both toothy and toothless grins, charming smiles, mischievous grimances, and goofy expressions appear on these delighful little characters of all sizes that each seems to exert a novel personality.

Other years, the pumpkins were sold from a tractor and wagon parked on the farm. But this year, Yvonne and her husband Larry set up their pumpkin display in a garage on their farm. In addition to the painted pumpkins and gourds, they offer plenty of natural pumpkins, cornstalks, and Indian corn.

Pumpkin varieties include neck, green-striped, Jack-O-Lanterns, Little Dippers, Spooky Nooks, and Jack B Littles.

This pumpkin fantasy land had its beginnings six years ago. That was the year that Yvonne painted a pumpkin and set it at the end of their farm lane. A neighbor spotted it and asked Yvonne to paint one for her.

Since then, the news of the whimsical pumpkins spread and people come from afar to purchase them. They range in price from $5 to $8.

Last year, Yvonne sold about 200 pumpkins. She couldn't keep up with the demand, so she solicited her mother-in-law, Anna Marie Geib, to help.

Each artist has a a distinct style. Customers can identify the artist because Yvonne always sprinkles a few freckles on her work and her mother-in-law adds a few long lashes as her trademark.

Both paint the faces freehand with acrylic paints. Mistakes can be washed off with water and a new look applied. No two pumpkins are ever alike since the duo are always on the lookout for different expressions.

Pumpkins that are smoother on the surface are easier to paint, according to Yvonne. When the face is completed, the pumpkins are sprayed with a clear gloss.

Larry, Yvonne, and son Ron arrange the pumpkin display in the garage. A mini-farm zoo with pigymy goats, rabbits, and kittens is enjoyed by the children who visit the farm.

Last year, Yvonne set three of her painted pumpkins at the end of the farm lane. But someone stole the pumpkins.

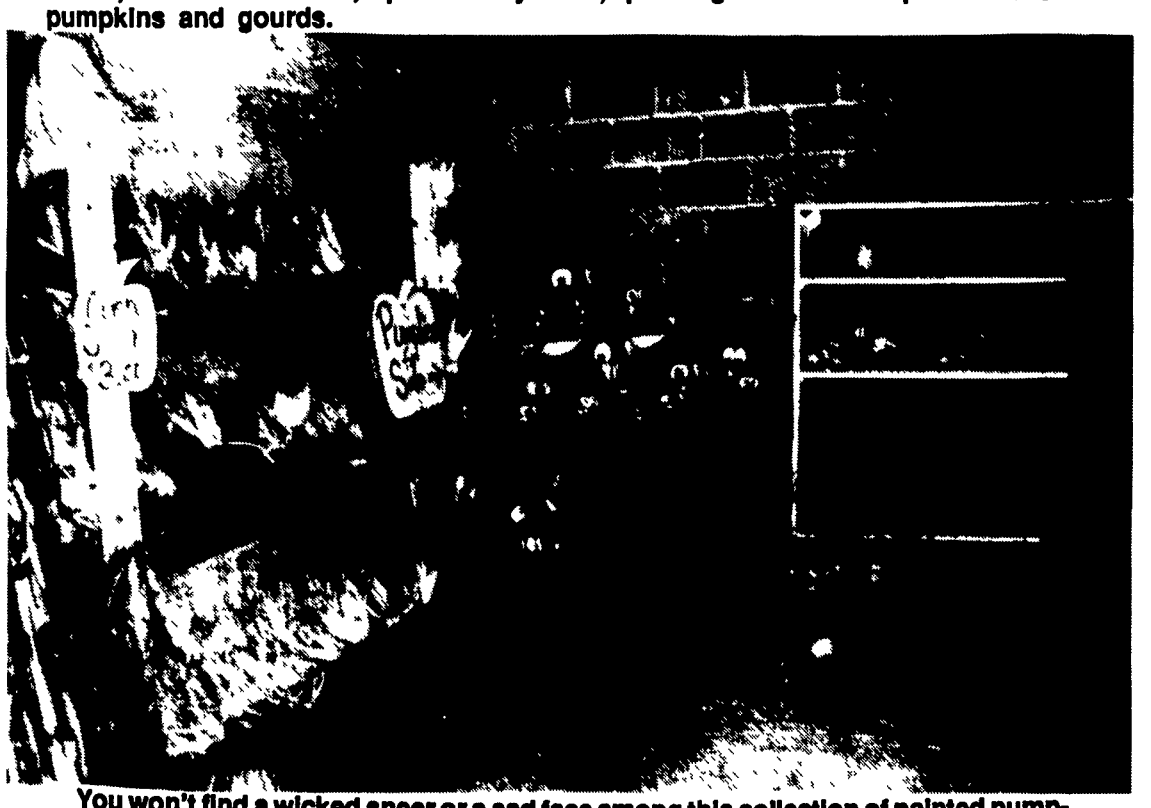
"It gets a bit time-consuming to replace stolen pumpkins," Yvonne said. Now a wagon-load of the pumpkins set at the end of the lane, but not the painted ones. Visitors must come in the long farm lane to see the painted pumpkins.

The Geibs plant one and a half acres of pumpkins. This year, like other area growers, the Geibs are finding pumpkins are not as plentiful as last year. Growers say that many pumpkins rot or that it was too rainy when the blossoms pollinated. Whatever the reason, pumpkin fields are not as profuse as in recent years.

On the Geib farm, customers can browse among the display to find that perfect face or the multicolored Indian corn. It's a self-service stop that includes a mini-petting zoo.

(Turn to Page B4)

No two pumpkins are alike for these two free-hand artists. Yvonne and her mother-in-law, Anna Marie Geib, spend many hours painting whimsical expressions on pumpkins and gourds.



You won't find a wicked sneer or a sad face among this collection of painted pumpkins. These happy faces delight folks of all ages.

Homestead Notes

Yvonne Geib holds one of the painted pumpkins in front of the garage where she also sells Indian gourds, cornstalks, and numerous varieties of pumpkins.

TAKING TIME

by Rebecca Escott
Penn State

For Lehigh County

Ah, Retirement!

Some mornings I haul myself out of bed wishing that I wouldn't have to go to work. A break would be nice, but for people who are anticipating retirement, that thought may bring different concerns. Retirement presents a special challenge as families adjust to changes and losses.

In 1900, the average male spent only three percent of his life in retirement. By 1980, that average had increased to 20 percent (10-30 years). In the future, it may increase even more. In order to make this time meaningful, each retiree and his family should talk about the changes that will take place. Kunkel, a retirement researcher, says those who report the most difficulty adjusting to their increased discretionary time are adults who focused most of their time on their work and families and who had not developed additional recreational interests. Sound familiar?

Particularly in farming communities, I bet most retirees would report that they spent their time focused on the farm business and their family. If you are anticipating retirement, or semi-retirement, you will want to make some decisions that will be a foundation for the years ahead. By making choices and setting up new routines, you can prepare yourself for a wonderful new stage of life. Ask yourself these questions:

Do I know what my income will be after I retire? Am I paying off my big bills before retirement? Have I reviewed my insurance policies to see whether they do or do not meet my present and future needs? Have I talked with the Social Security office to find out what I should do before I retire in order to get my Social Security?

Am I exercising everyday with a brisk walk or outdoor work? When I retire, will I continue this level of activity? Am I monitoring what I eat to make sure I keep my weight under control? Am I understanding of the physical limitations I have? And do I live within those restraints?

Have I made any new friends during the past year? Have my spouse and I talked about things we can enjoy doing together during retirement? Do I take an interest in people who are younger than myself? Have I identified some activities which I can do that will make me feel useful even though I will not be "working?" Am I involved in outside reading or educational programs to challenge me to learn something new?

Do my spouse and I have mutual friends? Do I have a regular habit of keeping in touch with family and friends by visiting or writing letters? Do I allow my children or relatives to run their own lives? Do I help to make it possible for my children and relatives to get together for special occasions?

Do my wife and I agree on the decision about where we will live? Have I considered all the possibilities like moving into a smaller, more affordable place or making our home into several living units and renting a portion of it to another family. If I'm moving to a new location, have I checked this community out at different times of the year? Do I have any friends in the new community?

Did you answer the majority of these questions with a "Yes?" If you did, you and your family are laying the important groundwork that will make your time as a retiree fulfilling. If not, take the time to begin the discussions and routines that will improve the prospects for your retirement years.

Health Tips For Vegetarian Diets

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — More than 12 million Americans over age 16 have eliminated meat from their diets, according to Vegetarian Times.

Recently, anecdotal evidence collected by The New York Times, the Chicago Tribune and other newspapers suggests that children as young as pre-school age are exploring vegetarianism. Dr. J. Lynne Brown, associate professor of food science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, points out that while vegetarian diets are a viable alternative for children, parents should be extremely vigilant in providing a well-balanced diet that provides essential nutrients.

"Parents may wish to talk to a health professional," Brown says. "This person should be a knowledgable pediatrician or a nutritionist."

Nutrients most likely to be low in vegetarian diets are calcium, iron, vitamin B-12 and zinc, all of which are crucial to a child's growth and development. Brown says a diet that includes eggs and dairy products (called a lacto-ovo diet) provides most of these nutrients. However a vegan diet — which eliminates all animal products — makes a balanced diet more difficult to achieve.

Calcium can be obtained from beans and green vegetables, but the amount in a serving is low compared to a serving of milk, for example, and orange juice can be calcium fortified.

Vitamin B-12 must be taken as a vitamin supplement.

Iron is found in beans and dark green leafy vegetables, but the human body does not absorb iron from these sources as easily as from meats," says Ed Mills, assistant professor of dairy and animal science. "You have to eat a lot more of them to get the same benefit," he says.

As an example, to equal the iron in a 3-ounce cooked hamburger (roughly the size of a fast-food quarter-pounder), a vegetarian would have to eat 13 1/2 bananas, or 3 1/2 cups of spinach, or 7 cups of broccoli, or 7 cups of baked beans, or 18 tablespoons of peanut butter.

"If a child eliminates meat and dairy products from his or her diet, that represents a lot of nutrients kids need," Mills says. "Of course, you're not going to force-feed them. Kids have opinions and ideas."

Mills also says parents must be very careful to provide proper iron sources — particularly for young girls. As girls develop and menstruation begins, their need for iron increases. "Most adult vegetarians have iron deficits," Mills says. "The problem is magnified when growing children are involved."

"Still, a child can grow up on a vegetarian regime and be OK," says Brown. "However, they might not reach their full growth potential — unless care is taken in making food choices."

Brown points out that producing a well-balanced vegetarian diet for young children is especially challenging for the person doing the cooking.

"Sometimes, when kids take on a different diet, it has to do with establishing power. They can dominate the family by making them conform to their needs," Brown says.

"Depending on the age of the children, this would be a perfect opportunity to teach them to cook," she adds. "If they want to be vegetarians for the rest of their lives, they'll have to cook.

Pigmy goats, pigs, and rabbits are penned in the area. Plenty of furry kittens romp among the pumpkins. Repeat customers come again and again because the children want to pet the animals.

Larry raises broilers, tobacco, and hogs on the 97-acre farm. Larry's dad Orville, now deceased, had purchased the farm in 1953.

The Geibs have three children, Ryan, 18; Rodney, 16; and Danyelle, 14.

The Geib's farm is located one mile north of Mastersonville (which is northwest of Manheim) along Colebrook Road. It's the first farm on the left after passing Webber Electric. It is open from now through October 31, from morning until night.

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Just last week your three-year-old couldn't get enough macaroni and cheese. This week he just sniffs it and calls it "Yuck."

Preschoolers often have finicky appetites and nutrition specialists with Penn State Cooperative Extension indicate that such fluctuations are usually normal. Children go through many stages as they grow, and their eating habits are often affected by these stages. It's not unusual for children between one and five to have times when eating doesn't interest them.

Feeding a preschooler is less challenging if parents understand these growth stages the eating habits that result.

One- to two-year-olds, for example, still are developing their hand-to-eye coordination. You can expect a lot of spills. They just can't prevent it. So don't insist on perfect table manners.

Children are very independent and prefer to feed themselves. Give them bite-size foods that are easy to pick up. This helps youngsters feel more independent. Give your child a choice whenever possible. These choices can be simple and inexpensive, like cooked or raw carrots, scrambled or boiled eggs, plain peanut butter sandwiches or those combining peanut butter and jelly.

By the time children are three, they may quit eating to get attention. This age group also may experience food "jags." They may want to eat one thing at a time and nothing else. Jags may last a day, a week, or longer.

And then there's the helping stage. Four- to five-yearolds like to set the table, stir and measure, and eat their own cooking projects.

Children like to eat foods they've helped to prepare. Give them a simple job, such as taking apples out of the refrigerator or tearing lettuce for a salad. Kindergartners may also be influenced by television. They want to eat the foods they see advertised. This is a good time to explain nutrition and food choices.

Here are a few other feeding tips for preschoolers.

• Turn off the TV during meals. Children are easily distracted and sometimes forget to finish a meal if the TV set is on.

• Don't argue during meals. Children eat better when they're calm. Have a few minutes of quiet rest time before eating.

• Make sure children get enough rest and physical activity each day. They may not eat well if they're feeling sleepy or sluggish.

• Children learn eating habits by watching others. They're more likely to try new foods if they see others eating and enjoying them.

• Don't serve children too much food. If you mound food on their plates, it may discourage them. A good rule is to serve a tablespoon of each food per year of age.

• Distract children who refuse to eat by talking about something besides food. Children have short memories; they may get involved in the conversation and automatically start eating again.

Preschoolers may also refuse to eat if they're ill. When children are active and growing steadily, a small appetite is usually nothing to worry about. However, sometimes it can be a warning. Your child could be ill, tense or worried — especially if there are many arguments in the home. If your child never eats and doesn't seem to be growing normally, see a doctor.

Babysitting Course Offered

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Do you wish you could babysit? Young people ages 11-14 are invited to a program that will help prepare them to become a better babysitter. A six-week course, "4-H Babysitting and Child Care" will be offered both at the Bala Cynwyd Library and at the Lansdale Public Library this fall. In Bala Cynwyd the course begins on October 6, and runs for six Thursdays from 4-5:30 p.m., concluding on November 10. In Lansdale, the course runs on Wednesdays, beginning October 19 and ending November 30 from 7-8:30 p.m. In Lansdale, the normal fee of $5 is being waived at this time, because of a special grant from the Lansdale Kiwanis Club, who will be sponsoring this course in cooperation with the Montgomery County 4-H Program. There will be no charge at the Bala Cynwyd Library, either, as the Library is sponsoring the course. All course materials will be provided by the 4-H program and participants will become 4-H members as a result of taking the course. Class size is limited to 15 and you must be at least eleven years old to participate. To register for either course please call the respective libraries: Bala Cynwyd: (610) 664-1196; Lansdale: (610) 855-3228.

It's Time For Honey

When it comes to cooking with honey, the tables have certainly turned. Once relegated to desserts and tea time, honey has moved from the back of the cupboard to the forefront of the food world.

And things have never tasted better.

With major sweetening power that's naturally healthy, it s no wonder restaurants, quality food products, and palates everywhere are experiencing a honey renaissance.

Here are some hints for adapting honey to your recipes.

To replace sugar with honey in recipes, substitute ⅔ cup honey per cup of sugar. Reduce amount of liquid by ¼ cup for each cup of honey used. Lower baking temperature by 25 degrees. In baked goods, add ½ teaspoon baking soda for each cup of honey used.

Many of today's recipes are favorites of Melissa Nicole Swartz, the Pennsylvania Honey Queen.

Melissa says, "Don't forget to drizzle honey on your toast, in your tea, over your cereal or in anything else that needs the golden touch of pure, delicious honey."

HONEY MOONS (Cookies)

¾ cup shortening
½ cup honey
½ cup granulated sugar
2½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix ingredients. Chill dough. Roll into pencil-thick rolls. Cut into 2½ -inch lengths. Form into crescent shapes. Bake at 400 degrees for about 8 minutes. Do not brown!

HONEY BUNS

¼ cup chopped nuts
⅓ cup honey
⅓ cup butter, melted
2 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
10-ounce can Hungry Jack Refrigerated Big Flaky Biscuits
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Combine nuts, honey, and ⅓ cup melted butter. Pour into ungreased 8x4-inch or 9x5-inch loaf pan. Separate the biscuits.

Combine brown sugar and cinnamon. Pat one teaspoonful of the sugar mixture on one side of each biscuit.

Stand biscuits on edge, slightly overlapping in two rows of 5 biscuits each in prepared pan.

Drizzle with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool 3 minutes. Turn out of pan on flat dish.

"BEE" NUTTY CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

½ cup honey.
½ cup peanut butter
½ cup butter
¼ cup brown sugar
1 egg
1½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
16-ounces chocolate morsels
½ cup coarsely chopped roasted peanuts

Combine honey, peanut butter, butter, and brown sugar in a large bowl; beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; mix thoroughly. Combine flour, baking soda and salt; mix well. Stir into peanut butter mixture. Stir in chocolate morsels and peanuts. Using a ¼ cup for each cookie, drop onto ungreased cookie sheet; flatten slightly. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove to rack and cool. Makes 16 3-inch cookies.

Pa. Honey Queen 1994

NORTH MOUNTAIN "COLDSLAW"

¼ cup sliced cranberries
1 tablespoon honey
1 teaspoon celery seed
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon vinegar
3 cups shredded cabbage

Combine cranberries, honey, and celery seed. Let stand 15 minutes. Add the mayonnaise and vinegar, blend. Pour over the shredded cabbage. Season with salt if necessary.

SPICED HONEY BUTTER

½ cup butter
¼ cup honey
1 teaspoon orange peel
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Serve with biscuits, bread, muffins or scones.

National Honey Board

HONEY GARLIC DRESSING

1 package Italian Dressing Mixture
2 tablespoons water
¼ cup honey
⅓ cup cider vinegar
⅓ cup vegetable oil

Combine all ingredients except oil; mix well. Gradually beat in oil with whisk or fork.

Variation: Honey Mustard Dressing: Add 2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard to basic dressing and decrease oil to ¼ cup. Use as a salad dressing or marinade for chicken breasts.

HONEY ROOT BEER

1¾ cup honey
¼ teaspoon yeast
½ bottle of 3-ounce root beer extract

Add ingredients to a gallon jug that is half filled with warm water. Shake thoroughly. Fill jug to within ½ -inch of top with warm water. Gently blend. Lay on its side in a cool place for 24 hours and then refrigerate.

HONEY PUFFINS

1 cup honey
2 cups dry oatmeal
1 cup peanut butter
2 cups dry cereal (cornflakes, Cheerios, etc.)

Combine honey and peanut butter in a large bowl. Add dry cereal and oatmeal. When thoroughly combined, use about a tablespoon of dough and roll into round balls. Allow to set 10 to 15 minutes before eating.

APPLE HONEY

1 apple, pared, cored & diced
½ teaspoon lemon juice
¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter

Mix diced apple and lemon juice in a two-cup glass measuring cup. Add honey, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Cover with plastic wrap or wax paper. Microwave on high for two minutes. Stir in butter. Microwave on high one minute to heat before serving. Serve with pancakes or French toast.

Research has shown that kids who eat breakfast at school have significantly higher scores on standardized achievement tests. Yet a national survey showed that only 56 percent of children polled eat breakfast every morning. Breakfast consumption drops off even more as children grow older.

If your child is a picky eater, here are some ideas from the Dairy Council.

PEANUT BUTTER CRUNCHIES

¾ cup chunky peanut butter
2 tablespoons honey
¼ cup cornflake crumbs (or other cereal)
¼ cup nonfat dry milk powder

Blend peanut butter, honey, and dry milk powder. Stir in half cup cornflake crumbs. Form into small balls and roll in remaining corn flake crumbs. Eat immediately or refrigerate. Drink a glass of milk with the peanut butter crunchies.

FRUIT 'N' CHEESE WAFFLE SANDWICH

2 4-inch frozen waffles or 2 sets frozen mini waffles
1 tablespoon applesauce
2 slices American cheese
½ apple, cored and thinly sliced

Toast waffles according to package directions. Spread applesauce on one waffle. Cover with cheese slices and then apple slices, overlapping slightly. Top with remaining waffle.

Cut sandwich into 4 mini sandwiches.

Family Living Focus

A. Joan Lamberson
York Co.
Extension Agent

Do you have an "early adolescent" or pre-teen in your family? These are children between the ages of 10-15.

Are you asking, "What is happening to my child?" "Where is my child who enjoyed family outings, was happy, obeyed rules, and talked to me."

Does your pre teen:

- Spend hours in his room with the door closed?
- Does not want to "be seen" with parents.
- Spend hours on the phone but won't talk to parents?
- Get moody and question everything he's asked to do?
- Not study because it's not "cool" to be an honor student?
- Spend hours primping and putting on tons of make up?

Your pre-teen may do any one of these things due to the complex changes taking place in growth at this time. This age group has been described as "Toddlers with Hormones", "Half Kid-Half Adult", and "Hormones in Sneakers". There are dramatic physical, emotional, mental and social changes taking place. Early adolescence is "normal". It can be a challenging time for parents, but not impossible. After all, look at the number of people who successfully get through this stage.

Physical changes are quite evident during these years. Physical growth is very uneven. Different parts of the body may grow while the other parts may not. The ears and nose may get bigger but the face doesn't. Hands and feet reach adult size before the rest of the body making the child appear to be clumsy and awkward while learning to adjust to the new body. Think of their problems you would have if your feet grew from size 6 to size 9 in the next 6 months! Understanding these changes may help you be more tolerant of your awkward child.

Fatigue is also a problem for many pre teens. A growing and changing body uses a great deal of energy. So if your child seems to have a bottomless pit in his stomach, he needs the extra food.

Puberty is a key physical change caused by hormones. Girls and boys who develop their secondary sex characteristics early are often the social leaders and sex-role models. Late bloomers often feel left out and try to compensate by modeling the dress, make-up, and mannerisms of their more physically mature friends. They have a strong need to fit "in".

Hormones also cause emotional changes. Fluctuation of moods, temper tantrums, irrational fears, and preoccupation with sexual feelings are all enhanced during this time. Early adolescents may be described as belligerent, reasonable, argumentative, understanding, lethargic, enthusiastic, rude, thoughtful—depending on the day or even the time of day. These mood changes are normal and a part of the maturation process.

They also have feelings of confusion as to whether they are an adult or a child. They are very self conscious and feel that "Everyone is watching me".

One of the most difficult behaviors for parents to accept is the growing independence as the adolescent moves away from parents to peers. Remember, just because peers increase in their importance does not mean that the importance of parents decreases. They still need your encouragement and support as they struggle for independence. During this struggle the adolescent may develop a cocksure attitude, think their parents are impossible at times, bring home little information from school, and may be ashamed of the old-fashioned ways of their parents. saying "When I was your age..." doesn't cut it with adolescents. If you think about it—things are different today!

The 9 to 13 year old tends to group together in "gangs" of the same sex and age. They form secret clubs and do secretive things that adults must not know about. These clubs have definite rules for belonging. During the latter part of this age they become interested in the opposite sex and start "going with" someone. "Going with" may mean talking on the phone, eating lunch together, walking to class, meeting at the mall, etc.

The early adolescent also is developing the ability to do more thinking "in the head". They may question old beliefs, family values, and criticize the adults in their lives. They ask why and want proof. As a result parents may see them as argumentative. They also think they are infallible.They feel unique and special and that nothing can happen to them. "Other kids may get in trouble when they use drugs, skip school or have sex, but not me."

The thing to remember is that each child grows at his or her own rate and these changes occur over a time span of several years. Knowing what to expect can help both you and your early adolescent get through this challenging age span.

Here are some ways of coping with the adolescent years.

- Keep lines of communication open. Learn to use "I" messages rather than "you" statements.
- Learn to talk with each other not at each other.
- Learn to listen. Listen for feelings behind what is being said.
- Communicate your trust and confidence to your child.
- Share your values about money, sex, drugs, religion, etc. Be a role model.
- Give lots of compliments. Avoid put-downs, nagging and needless criticism.
- Use a family meeting format to establish mutually agreed upon rules and consequences.
- Allow the child the freedom to make some personal decisions and mistakes.
- Nurture a good sense of humor.
- When things get out of control, get HELP!

ANSWER — Glenna Shaner, Hughesville, wanted a recipe for mint jelly made with apple juice. Thanks to Josephin Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Mint Jelly

1 cup boiling water
1 cup firmly packed shredded mint leaves
Apple juice
Sugar
Whole mint leaves

Pour the boiling water over the shredded mint leaves and let stand for one hour. Press the juice from the leaves and set aside. To each cup apple juice, add 2 tablespoons mint liquid and bring to a boil, add ¾ cup sugar for each cup of apple juice, and boil rapidly to the jellying point. Put a few fresh mint leaves into each jar and fill with the hot jelly. Cool and cover with two layers of melted paraffin.

ANSWER — Tim Newcomer, Carlisle, wanted a recipe for butter fudge or a similar one that is sold in candy shops on the boardwalk at the shore. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Five-Minute Fudge

2 tablespoons butter
⅔ cup evaporated milk
1⅔ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1½ cups semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup chopped nuts

In a saucepan over medium heat, combine butter, milk, sugar, and salt. Bring to a boil for 4 to 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Put in marshmallows, chocolate chips, nuts, and vanilla. Mix well. Pour into buttered 8x8-inch pan.

ANSWER — Lois Harbold wanted a recipe for Shoo-Fly Bread. Thanks to Bonnie Blain, Halifax, for sending a recipe.

Shoo-Fly Bread

3 cups flour
1 cup brown sugar
⅓ cup shortening
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg
¼ cup blackstrap molasses
1 cup water

Combine 2 cups flour with sugar and shortening. Blend until crumbly. Remove ½ cup crumbs and set aside. Add remaining cup flour, baking powder, and baking soda. Stir in egg, molasses, and water. Pour into greased and floured loaf pan. Sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 to 65 minutes or until tester comes out clean.

ANSWER — Kim Croskey, Fredonia, sent a recipe for the reader who wanted fudge recipes to make in five-pound batches.

Never Fail Fudge

⅓ cup butter
4½ cups sugar
14½ -ounce can evaporated milk
1 cup marshmallow creme
13-ounce bar sweet chocolate, grated
2 12-ounce packages semi-sweet chocolate chips
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups nuts, chopped

Combine butter, sugar, and milk. Boil 5½ minutes. Remove from heat and add all remaining ingredients except nuts. Beat until well mixed; add nuts. Spoon into buttered pans. Cool. Makes 5 pounds.

ANSWER — Thanks to Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.Va., for sending a pancake recipe.

Nature's Best Pancakes
(A Recipe for Special People)

½ cup raisins
¼ cup coconut
¼ cup chopped almonds
1 cup buckwheat pancake and waffle mix
One 8-ounce can vanilla liquid Ensure with fiber

Heat griddle or skillet. In a large bowl, combine all ingredients. Measure ⅓ cup mixture per pancake onto griddle or skillet and cook. Serve with butter and warm syrup. Pancakes can be reheated.

It's Time For Honey

QUICK HONEY BAR-"BEE"-QUE

1 cup catsup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup honey

Mix ingredients and pour over chicken or pork. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 60 minutes. Use sauce as a dip, too!

HONEY HAMLOAF

2 pounds ground ham
1 pound fresh ground pork
3 slices bread
½ cup milk
2 eggs
¼ cup honey
½ teaspoon cloves

Combine ground meats in mixing bowl. Soak bread in milk and add to meat with remaining three ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Mold into a loaf and place in a shallow roasting pan. Before baking, top with a mixture of ¼ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup honey, and 2 tablespoons vinegar over top of loaf. Bake in 350 degree oven for 2 hours.

HONEY ICE CREAM

¼ cup honey
3 tablespoon vanilla
3 eggs, beaten
1 can condensed milk
1 pint cream
1 can evaporated milk
Whole milk

Mix together honey, vanilla, and eggs. Place in a six-quart ice cream churn. Add condensed milk, cream, and evaporated milk. Add enough whole milk to fill churn to proper level. Churn as usual.

HONEY BRAN MUFFINS

1 cup shortening
2 cups clover honey
4 beaten eggs
2 cups all-bran cereal
4 cups 100% bran cereal
1 cup boiling water
5 cups all-purpose flour
5 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
1 quart buttermilk

Cream shortening and honey. Add beaten eggs, bran cereals, and boiling water. Sift together and add flour, baking soda, and salt, and then add buttermilk. Refrigerate overnight. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Batter can be stored in quart jars in refrigerator 4 to 6 weeks. Makes 5 to 6 dozen muffins. Serve with honey butter spread.

Dutch Gold Honey

HONEY OATMEAL BREAD

1¼ cup lukewarm water
2 packages dry yeast
2 beaten eggs
⅓ cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup wild flower honey
1 cup rolled oats
2 cups whole wheat flour
3½ cups all-purpose flour

Beat all ingredients except all-purpose flour together with mixer for 2 minutes. Stir in all-purpose flour until mixture leaves sides of bowl. Allow to rise in bowl until double in size. Punch down and allow to rise again. Punch down and shape into two loaves. Put in greased bread pans and allow to rise. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — G. Wismer, Plumstead, asked for a recipe for hot peppers canned in oil and vinegar. Thanks to Kim Croskey, Fredonia, for sending two.

Canned Hot Peppers

20 hot peppers, cut in strips with seeds removed
2 cups granulated vinegar
1½ cups water
1 cup oil
¼ cup salt
2 garlic cloves
½ teaspoon oregano

Cut peppers in large bowl; mix together all ingredients and pour over peppers. Let stand for eight hours. Drain peppers and put in pint jars. Bring the syrup to a boil and pour over peppers and seal.

Hot Peppers

6 to 7 pounds hot peppers, cut in strips with seeds removed
2 6-ounce cans tomato paste
2 cups vinegar
4 cups oil
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup sugar

Combine tomato paste, 2 cans water, vinegar, oil, salt and sugar in large pan. Add peppers; bring to boil. Cook 5 minutes and put into hot jars and seal.

Rabbit Fever

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Thirteen-year-old Shannon Szymanski watched rabbit judge, Dennis Holcomb intently, listening to his comments, hanging on every word. He was comparing the merits of the two top rabbits at the Maryland State Fair, chosen from more than 200 entries. One was a Netherland Dwarf doe owned by Kyla Fitzpatrick of Rockville, Maryland. The other was Shannon's French Lop doe, Szymanski's Slush. When the judge placed his hands on the French Lop and said, "This will be our Best in Show rabbit", the crowd burst into applause and Shannon's face split into a grin!

Shannon has been raising French Lop rabbits at her Westminster, Maryland home for six years. This was her third "Best in Show" win. Last year her rabbit, Slush won Reserve Grand Champion at the Maryland State Fair. Prior to that Slush won a Best of Breed award at an open rabbit show in York County, Pennsylvania, a show with more than 1,000 rabbits from all over the country, including 93 French Lops.

Shannon poses her Best in Show Rabbit, Szymanski's Slush with some of the trophies she has won.

Shannon cradles her rabbit Snow Drifter.

"Everyone seems to like Slush," Shannon says. Maybe it is her color (chinchilla), because she isn't my friendliest rabbit!"

In 1991, Snow Drifter, Slush's sister from a different litter won Best in Show out of 523 rabbits at the Carroll County Youth Rabbit Show in Westminster, Maryland. But, Shannon's first Best in Show win, was with Daquiri, a French Lop buck who is the founding father in the Szymanski line. He won Best in Show at the Carroll County Fair in 1992.

"It all started when I got Daquiri," Shannon says. At the time Shannon and her sister, Ashley had a few French Lop does but no bucks. "We bought him for just five dollars from a friend who had too many bucks and wasn't sure how good he would be. As a senior rabbit he won almost everywhere we showed him. Then, someone offered us $50 for him, but I couldn't sell him! He became a Grand Champion in no time and sired a lot of good rabbits for us. He is Slush and Drifter's father."

To become a Grand Champion, a rabbit must have at least three legs, earned by wins at an American Rabbit Breeders sanctioned show, and there must be at least five animals in the class, owned by at least three different exhibitors. Slush has won eight legs and received her Grand Champion papers from the American Rabbit Breeders Association last year.

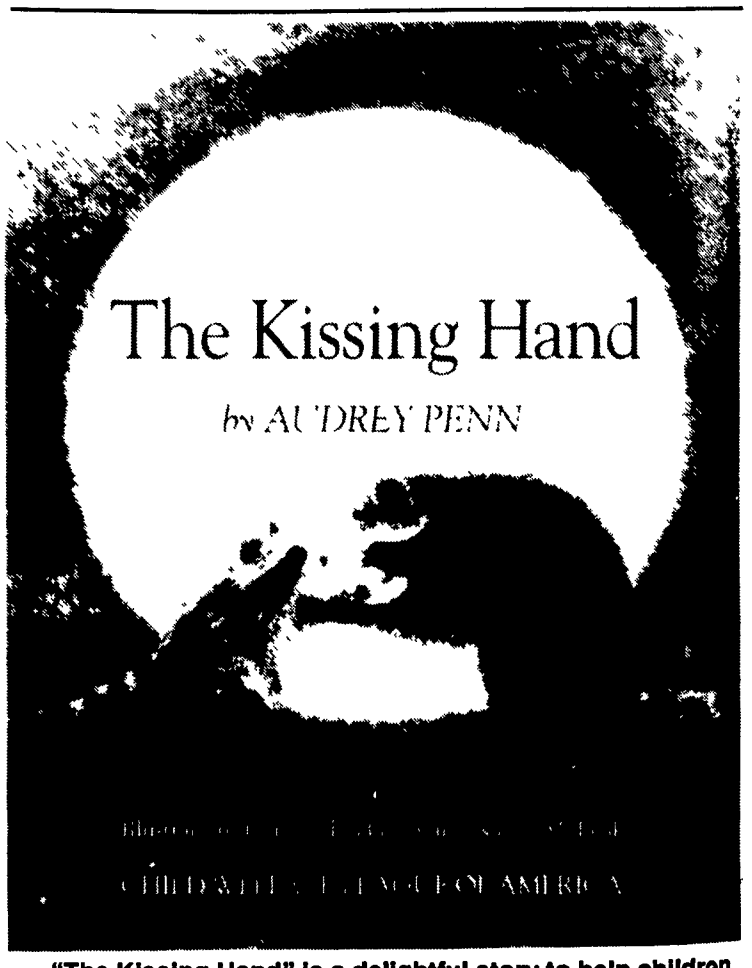
"I love the rabbits," Shannon says with passion in her voice. "Especially the French Lops!"

There are forty-two breeds of rabbits in the United States. Of them, the Netherland Dwarf is the smallest, weighing in at just two pounds. The Flemish Giant is the largest and can weigh as much as twenty pounds! There are five kinds of lop rabbits, (rabbits with ears that hang). The French Lop is the largest of the lops, weighing eleven pounds or more. All of Shannon's French Lops are purebred with pedigrees.

Shannon's dad built a rabbitry which she shares with her sister Ashley. They keep 10 to 20 French Lops at a time, breeding rabbits to produce offspring that is as close to the American Rabbit Breeder's standard of perfection as they can get. Shannon is a member of The Carroll County 4-H Rabbit Club, The American Rabbit Breeders Association and The Lop Rabbit Club of America.

When asked what is next for her newest champion, Shannon replies, "I'm retiring Slush for breeding!" With a little luck Slush's offspring will follow its mother's footsteps to the Maryland State Fair in Timonium in 1995!

Shannon holds rabbit, Daquiri in front of their rabbitry, The Hoppity Hotel. Her father built the rabbitry, which has slide-out trays under the top pens and worm beds under the bottom pans. Worms eat manure, so the beds control odor and manure build-up, while providing bait for fishing!



"The Kissing Hand" is a delightful story to help children feel loved and secure when facing new challenges.

The superb pictures of Chester Raccoon and his mother in the forest add interest to the tale of the raccoon mother helping Chester to face a scary situation.

The book is written by Audrey Penn and illustratd by Ruth E. Harper and Nancy M. Leak.

For a copy of the "Kissing Hand," send $14.95 to CWLA c/o CSSC, P.O. Box 7816, 300 Raritan Center Parkway, Edison, NJ 08818 or call (908) 417-0482.

Hess Receives Scholarship

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)— Jayne N. Hess, a senior majoring in agricultural science in Penn State's College of Agriculture Sciences, has been selected to receive the Zeneca Ag Products/American Agricultural Editors Association Scholarship.

Hess is the daughter of John and Bonnie Hess of Gettysburg.

The $2,000 scholarship is sponsored by Zeneca Ag Products, a leading manufacturer of crop protection products, to support the American Agricultural Editors' Association by investing in the future of agricultural journalism.

Penn State was selected to receive the scholarship at the AAEA annual conference in Chicago in October 1993. Lynn Bell, a 1987 Penn State alumna in dairy science and editor of Jersey Journal, won a drawing to choose which institution would receive the award. A faculty committee associated with the college's agricultural communications minor selected the specific recipient.

To be eligible, candidates for the scholarship must show both aptitude and interest in print communications and be pursuing a career in the agricultural industry.

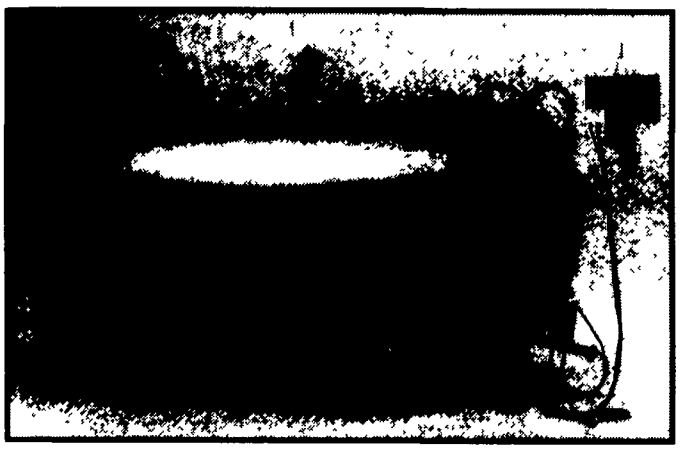
Hess co-edited the 1994 edition of Penn State's Dairy Science Club magazine and helped edit and prepare the American Dairy Science Association 1993 final report. She also has worked as a 4-H summer assistant for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Adams County and was Adams County Dairy Princess in 1991.

Hess plans to work in advertising and public relations, developing promotional articles and advertisements about dairy products.

Scroll-Compressor Technology

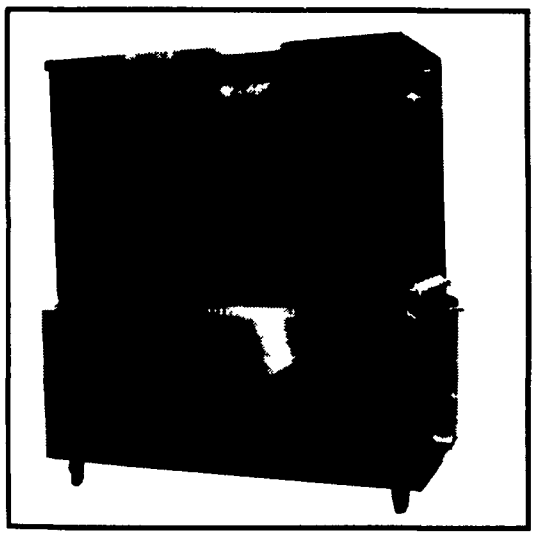
New in 1994

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!



In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-priced" milk-cooling equipment.

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk.



Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$ 17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for 10 years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Mueller scroll compressors have higher energy-efficiency ratings (EER), and are highly durable with only two major components, compared to our competitors' reciprocating compressors requiring 12 parts.

If Your Child Won't Eat Breakfast

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — You want your child to do well in school. You know he or she should eat breakfast — the most important meal of the day. But your child refuses to eat breakfast. What is a parent to do?

Lisa Diewald of the Dairy Council offers some help for you.

"Children often have strange appetites in the morning. But why must you eat traditional breakfast foods? The most important thing is to get something in their stomachs," she said.

It's important because one-fourth of all nutritional needs should be eaten at breakfast. If you fail to get those nutritional needs met in the morning, it's hard to catch up all day.

Studies show that 75 percent of breakfast skippers fail to meet the recommended daily allowance for calcium. Children under age 11 should consume at least 800 mg of calcium per day — three servings of dairy products provide that. For those ages 11 to 24, the recommended calcium intake is 1,200 mg or four daily servings of dairy products. Breakfast not only helps children meet those requirements but establishes positive lifelong eating habits.

Children who eat breakfast are more alert and attentive. They perform better on tests and they're less likely to cause discipline problems. In addition, school breakfast decreases absenteeism and tardiness.

If your child will not sit down for the traditional breakfast such as eggs, toast, juice, cereal, and milk, try these ideas from Diewald. Pizza, turkey sandwich, granola bar, muffin, a carton of chocolate or strawberry-flavored milk, banana, yogurt. . . .

"Even if it's a piece of dry toast, it's putting something in the stomach," Diewald said.

A parent may want to prepare a finger cereal mixed with raisins and peanuts for the child to nibble on the run.

"Something a child can grab with their fingers and eat quickly is often the solution for finicky tastes," Diewald said.

Adequate calcium intake is critical to bone health. "A lifetime of sufficient calcium consumption helps peak bone mass in younger years and helps decrease bone loss in adult years," Diewald said.

Findings from the Bogalusa Heart Study indicated that children who skipped breakfast did not meet the recommended dietary allowances for vitamins A, D, E, and B6, and calcium.

To encourage your child to consume an adequate amount of calcium, you may want to try this idea. Blend a banana with milk and pour into a big gulp container for the child to drink. It's amazing how children are enticed to eat and drink foods because of the container or packaging in which they are served.

According to Dairy Council, newly released results from a national survey show that kids are not heeding the reminder that "breakfast is the most important meal of the day."

The national survey, conducted in January by The Wirthlin Group for National Dairy Council, showed that only 56 percent of children polled eat breakfast every morning. Breakfast consumption drops off even more as children get older. The survey indicates that about one-fourth of older children eat breakfast only half of the time, and that one out of every five 12- and 13-year-olds hardly ever eats breakfast.

Studies show that students who don't eat breakfast use vending machine snacks at school.

These are often high fat items that your child should avoid.

Breakfast "breaks" the 10 to 14 hour "fast" that occurs between the evening meal or snack and the morning meal. It provides the energy and nutrients needed to "jump start" the body and the brain for the day"s activities.

Studies show that breakfast contributes positively to nutrient intake, alleviates hunger pangs, improves strength and endurance in the late morning hours, and improves concentration and learning. Furthermore, eating a nutritious breakfast may help control weight and possibly reduce the risk of heart disease.

Some parents do not provide a balanced meal at home because of economic factors or because mornings are hectic and there is no time. The top five reasons children skip breakfast are reported to include the following:

- Woke up too late
- Not hungry
- Parents too busy to fix breakfast
- Parents already left for work
- Not enough money to buy food

For this reason, many schools offer a breakfast program. The School Breakfast Program provides federal funds to schools that offer breakfast. All schools that meet eligibility requirements can participate. To assist schools in providing breakfast, Pennsylvania provides additional funds.

Instead of the same old thing for breakfast, try something new. Here are two recipes, and on page B6, the featured recipe also has breakfast ideas from the Dairy Council.

Lisa Diewald

NEAT-O-BURRITO

1-ounce string cheese
6-inch flour tortilla
1 tablespoon jarred chunky-style salsa

Place string cheese slightly off center of the tortilla; top cheese with salsa. Roll up like a jelly roll.

Place seam side down on a small plate; lightly cover with plastic wrap.

LEMON WAKE UP

8-ounces lemon yogurt
6-ounces orange juice concentrate
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Place all ingredients in blender, blend until frothy, and serve. Store leftovers in refrigerator. Shake before serving.

Extra Calcium Before Age 10 May Stem Osteoporosis

BELTSVILLE, Md. — The best way to prevent osteoporosis, health professionals agree, is to achieve the highest bone mass possible in youth through adequate exercise and calcium intake.

That's why the recommended dietary allowances call for girls to increase calcium intake from 800 to 1,200 milligrams daily between the ages of 11 and 25.

Now U.S. Department of Agriculture findings suggest that the increase should begin and end at earlier ages. In a study of girls age 5 through 16, "most bone forming activity occurred in the years just before and just after the start of puberty," said study leader Steven A. Abrams, a pediatrician at USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center in Houston funded by the Agricultural Research Service.

In U.S. girls, Abrams said the first signs of puberty usually begin between age 8 and 11, the average being around 10. Menstruation begins two to three years later, with age 12½ being average.

Abrams believes "there's no reason to think yoiu can't start to emphasize calcium intake around age 5. The primary prevention of osteoporosis begins before puberty."

His results also show a rapid drop in bone forming activity within two years after menstruation begins. "By age 15, there was very little bone being formed," he said, noting that the girls excreted nearly as much calcium as they absorbed. the bones contain 99 percent of the body's calcium.

The new findings were possible because of techniques Abrams developed to assess the rate of bone formation with stable (nonradioactive) isotopes of calcium. Without stable isotope techniques, nutritionists could only estimate when and how fast bone formed in children and adolescents based on their growth rate.

Abrams points out that milk consumption and thus calcium intake among your adolescent girls has dropped alarmingly since 1950 — from about 1,400 mg daily to 900. Four 8-ounce glasses of milk provide close to the recommended 1,200 mg of calcium.

"We're concerned that the percentage of women with osteoporosis may increase if calcium intake continues to remain low," he said. His results show that girls don't compensate for low intakes by absorbing more than their diets. "If they don't ingest enough, they won't absorb enough."

According to the National Osteoporosis Foundation, half of American women over age 50 and three quarters over age 75 have significant bone loss.

Unique Ice Cream Churned At New York Fair

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Ice cream made the old-fashioned, hand-cranked way was the highlight of the third annual Celebrity Ice Cream Making contest held August 29 in celebration of Dairy Day at the New York State Fair. Sponsored by ADADC and the Dairy Products Building Task Force, seven teams from local radio and television stations and the Syracuse Newspapers developed their own original ice cream flavors.

Each team had the opportunity to creatively select and add their own secret ingredients to the basic mix, which is what set aside the winning team. From pineapple and coconut to hazelnut coffee and rich chocolate chunks, no two flavors were alike. The basic ice cream mix, consisting of milk, sugar, eggs and cream, was donated this year by Upstate Milk Cooperative, Inc., of Syracuse.

Judging the seven flavors on originality and taste were Senator Nancy Larraine Hoffmann, Mayor Roy Bernardi and New York's very own state Dairy Princess, Jennifer Emerling.

"I really enjoyed tasting all the unique and delicious flavors," said Miss Emerling. "Even though it was so difficult to select a winner, I have to say my favorite was the "Syracuse Crunch Ice Hockey Cream" because of my affinity for anything with lots of chocolate in it!"

Syracuse radio station 95X FM WAQX developed the winning flavor which was named after the new Syracuse hockey team. Packed with Nestle Crunch bars, chocolate chunks, and granola, the flavor was convincing to the judges. "For the 3rd year, we were glad to be a part of exciting competition," said Dave Coombs of 95X. "Our team really worked hard to develop 'Syracuse Crunch Ice Hockey Cream' and then to crank it out for the judging. We just hope more people try to make ice cream at home, it's truly outstanding!"

WTVH-TV5 added chocolate chips and Oreo cookies to their ice cream mix to create a "Holstein Dream." The Syracuse Newspapers came up with "Java Delight," packed with chocolate chunks, Reeses Pieces, Oreos, and instant coffee.

As the hand-cranking continued, fairgoers were able to sample the team flavors, which were prepared in advance by Gary Raiti of Colosse Cheese Store, Pulaski. At the conclusion of the contest, American Dairy Association held a drawing for a free ice cream freezer for the public. Also, recipes of the speciality flavors were distributed for use at home.

You can make the "Dairy Day Celebrity Ice Cream" flavors at home. Simply make the recipe for Classic Vanilla ice cream and add the celebrity ingredients. Make up your own flavor by adding the ingredients of your choice.

CLASSIC VANILLA ICE CREAM

Yield: approx. 2 quarts

2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
4 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups whipping cream
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine milk, sugar and eggs in large saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, about 15 to 20 minutes or until mixture thickens and coats metal spoon (160 degrees F.) Remove from heat. Stir in cream and vanilla. Add celebrity ingredients. Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's directions. After freezing, transfer ice cream to a plastic freezer container. If you can resist eating it all up, place in freezer to ripen at least 3 hours before serving.

Steuben County Dairy Princess Carla Schenck assists the WHEN 108 FM team at the 3rd Annual Celebrity Ice Cream Making Contest held on Dairy Day at the New York State Fair. The local country radio station cranked out their original "Syracuse Krunch" ice cream flavor, named after the new Syracuse ice hockey team.

New York State Dairy Princess Jennifer Emerling, Senator Nancy Larraine Hoffmann, and Mayor Roy Bernardi were judges in the 3rd Annual Celebrity Ice Cream Making Contest on Dairy Day at the New York State Fair. Here they pose with members of rock station 95X FM WAQX whose "Syracuse Crunch Ice Hockey Cream" was judged as best tasting flavor.

Empire Cheese Co. of Cuba, NY captured the gold medal for their aged Cheddar and silver medals for their mild Cheddar and smoked provolone cheese. The event showcases the variety of quality cheeses New York has to offer. New York state is the fourth largest milk producing state in the U.S., and the bulk of the milk goes into cheese. New York State produces over 529 million pounds of cheese each year and is the fourth largest producer of cheese in the United States.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Often pictures leave an impression that many, many words could not convey. Because things are constantly changing, photos remind us of how they were in times past.

I've been lucky to get pictures that my mother took in the early 1900s of the village of Oregon where she grew up. There are some of the school, the mill, swinging bridges and old gun mills plus many more. My mother had equipment to develop her own photos but I'm not sure how much she used it.

Some of these pictures have been shared through several published books. And more recently by being printed in a local newspaper. People contact me to get a copy of a particular picture that brings back memories to them. Last year at a community picnic, I showed some of my older ones.

A great uncle of mine also took many pictures of milestones, banks and residences in Lancaster. His photos are very clear and he wrote an explanation under each one. So often pictures are not marked and so they have little significance.

I remember visiting a retirement community to ask two older relatives to help name people in a big red, velvet-covered album. They were only able to tell me a few as we had waited too long to ask. None of these studio photos had a name on them. However, the hair styles and dress styles are very interesting in themselves.

I try very hard to mark all of my pictures as baby pictures are especially difficult to name after years have gone by.

Restaurants & Institutions reported the following results form the R&I Choice in Chains survey, which was conducted in September 1993 by National Family Opinion. When it comes to quick service, consumers rank these restaurant chains as best: Häagen-Dazs for food quality; Baskin-Robbins for menu variety; Little Caesars for good value; Chuck E. Cheese for atmosphere; TCBY for cleanliness and McDonald's for convenience.

For a quick dip, mix together sour cream and salsa. Serve with cut-up vegetables or tortilla chips.

BUSH HOG®

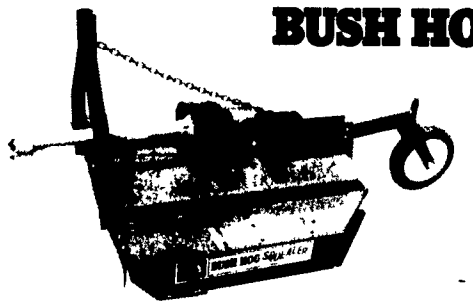


There are two basic reasons and quality is the first. Each Squealer model is equipped with Bush Hog's tough gearbox that carries a 2-year warranty. All models, except the 42-inch wide cutter feature oval blade pans, and the 60 and 72-inch wide models have an "in-line" shear bolt with ball bearing protection that can be replaced in a snap. An optional slip clutch is available.

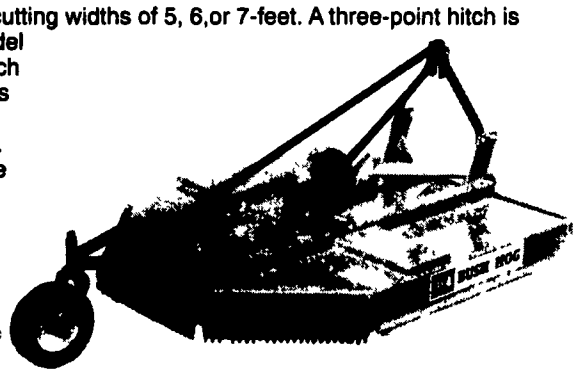
The second reason for the Squealer's popularity is price. Select any of 5 models, 42 to 84-inches wide, and compare prices with the competition. With a true price/quality comparison, it's easy to see why Squealers mow down the competition.

For Pastures, For Roadsides, For Stalks... Here's The Rotary Cutter You Need.

Bush Hog's medium duty 270 Series Rotary Cutters are excellent tools for the widest variety of land maintenance chores. And they're built tough, built to withstand rugged cutting in material up to 2-inches thick. Decks are 10 gauge steel, continuous welded and braced at all stress points.

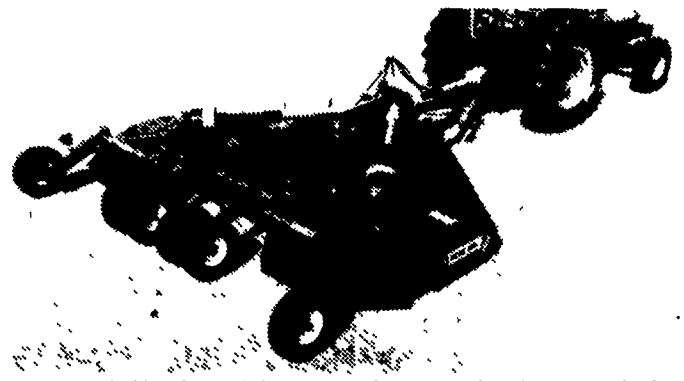
Select from three models, in cutting widths of 5, 6,or 7-feet. A three-point hitch is standard, and for the 7-foot model and economical semi-mount hitch is available. Round bladeholders and laminated wheels are also standard on all models.

Come in today and learn more about Bush Hog's 270 Series Rotary Cutters.



BUSH HOG®

Not All Fields Are Perfectly Flat



That's why the Bush Hog® model 2615 15-foot cutter's wings are designed to float along contours as severe as 90 degrees up or 22 degrees down while shredding stalks, clipping pastures or cutting along rights-of-ways, drainage ditches, terraces and fence rows. As it does so, an automatic height adjustment keeps the wings cutting at the same height as the center section. A framing system featuring closed box members allows us to make the 2615 pounds lighter without sacrificing any of the strength you've come to expect from a Bush Hog. And, less weight not only means less wear and tear on your tractor but it has also allowed us to cut the price.

Why pay more to get less - make a Bush Hog's success your success.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 24

Lancaster Farm Women Society #24 met at the home of Louetta Hurst, Lancaster, on August 30 Twenty-three members answered to roll call "A Doll I Remember". Sandy Yocum displayed several different dolls of her collection and told interesting stories pertaining to each one. Sandy started her collection of dolls about 20 years ago and featured dolls from all around the world.

Mary Ann Greiner, president, conducted a short business meeting following the program. The group will hold their annual Rummage Sale on October 1, at the Lancaster Laboratories Pavilion, New Holland Pike from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Election of officers results were Pres.- Cindy Yingling; Vice Pres.- Pat Martin; Secretary- Dot Mast; Asst. Secretary- Doris Bewley; Treasurer- Audrey Myer: Asst. Treasurer- Lydia Ann Bentzel. Members will meet Sept. 27th at the Welsh Mountain Samaritan Home, New Holland, when they entertain the guest and play Bingo. Following this the group will meet at Yoder's Restaurant for dessert and short business meeting.

Berks Society 4

The September meeting of Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 was held at the Bechtelsville home of Charlotte Mauger with eight members present.

Five members plan to attend the county convention on October 1 at the Berks County Agriculture Center. The group is responsible for door prizes, for gift basket items, and a silent auction table.

The next meeting on October 11 at 6 o'clock will be at the Leader Home in Pottstown with resident Evelyn Becker as the hostess.

Berks Society 6

The Berks County Farm Women Group #6 met in July at the home of Mary Jane Hetrick. David Kessler, Oley Township Supervisor, was the guest speaker.

The August meeting was held at the home of Janet Schlegel. A video was shown on farm safety.

September 10 was the Berks Heim Festival. Quilt waffle tickets were also sold to benefit Berks Heim.

On August 21, the group held their family picnic at the Oley Legion Grove. Good food and games were enjoyed by the 25 people who attended.

Farmers Could Turn Plastic Into Cash Flow

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Environmentally conscious farmers could turn trash into cash by recycling plastics used in agriculture if they're willing to change some long-standing habits, says an agricultural engineer in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

According to James Garthe, an instructor in agricultural and biological engineering, farms in the United States use several hundred million pounds of plastic every year, much of which has to be disposed of after the growing season. These plastics include pots, trays, pesticide containers, and film sheeting of varying thicknesses used for mulching, crop cover and silage wraps and bags.

"It costs farmers money to haul plastics to a landfill," Garthe says. "Farmers have to look at plastics as a byproduct of production — something from which they can make money or at least break even."

According to Garthe, more than 60 percent of Pennsylvania's fruit and vegetable farmers currently dispose of plastics by burning, releasing harmful substances into an already polluted atmosphere. Farmers who do not burn often bury the plastics on their farms or take them to landfills.

Although a market exists for agricultural plastics, recycling firms do not often buy such material because few farmers currently recycle. "Right now most growers can't provide quantity and consistency for the recyler, so it doesn't make economic sense for recyclers to buy agricultural plastics," Garthe says.

Farmers and recyclers must also overcome other obstacles before recycling can become economically feasible, Garthe says.

For example, agricultural plastics come in a variety of types, most of which must be separated before recycling. Recyclers will only accept separated plastics, so farmers must sort the material.

Most agricultural plastics are heavily contaminated. Unlike soft drink containers and milk jugs, agricultural plastics cannot be rinsed out and thrown in a recycling bin. Agricultural film often is buried as mulch or used to bag feed, which means these films are covered with soil and other contaminants. Pesticide containers have chemical residues. To clean these plastics, farmers must thoroughly wash them.

"Soil can add up to 80 percent more weight to plastics, which increases cost to farmers when they ship to recyclers," Garthe says.

Finally, costs to collect and transport used plastics to a recycling site, often located in urban areas, can be high. "Distribution becomes a logistic nightmare," Garthe says. "This means farmers must change their old habits and work with recyclers to make it worth the time."

As an example, Garthe says farmers could demand that manufacturers use recycled material in products, thus creating a market. Farmers and recyclers can also work to establish common collection points to lessen costs of transportation and build up quantities of plastic faster.

Garthe says recycling agricultural plastics is still a fledgling concept and that economics may prove it to be too expensive right now. He explains that another solution may be to market used agricultural plastics as fuel for waste-to-energy power plants. The bottom line, he says, is making agriculture more environmentally friendly.

"Most farmers by nature are concerned with stewardship of the land," Garthe says. "They know the farm has to last more than one generation, and taking care of the environment is one way to ensure that," Garthe says.

Wax-Coated Produce Attracts Customers

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When a gleam hits your eye from across the fruit and vegetable bins at your local supermarket, chances are good that the product attracting such attention has been given a thin coating of wax.

Savvy shoppers have noticed that many stores now provide signs or labels identifying the type of wax used. Such labeling has been in effect since May to comply with Food and Drug Administration regulations that give consumers more nutritional information on which to base a purchase.

Although many consumers may not have known that some fruits and vegetables are waxed during the marketing process, experts in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences point out that such practices date back to the 1930s. Indeed, most agricultural experts tend to wax enthusiastically about the benefits of adding a thin layer of protectant over the skin of certain types of produce.

Dr. Mike Orzolek, professor of vegetable crops, says produce is waxed primarily to ensure freshness. For example, peppers and cucumbers would lose moisture rapidly if they were not waxed.

"Cucumbers would look like old prunes after just a few days because they lose water so quickly," he says. "Waxes also serve as a sealant to prevent disease or fungus from entering any tears or punctures in the skin of a product."

Dr. Gerald Kuhn, a food science professor who recently retired from Penn State, says waxing also provides a thin, but nearly impermeable barrier to fungi that start the process of decay in fruits and vegetables. "Waxing can extend the room-temperature shelf life of produce by a week or up to a month," says Kuhn, nationally known for his expertise in food preservation.

Kuhn says consumers should not be alarmed at labels listing different types of waxes. Waxes have been in use for decades as a preservative.

"In nature, apples and other produce make a natural wax — called cuticle — derived from plant foods," he says.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, produce often is washed repeatedly during harvesting, removing natural waxes. To retain moisture, growers add wax before shipping.

All waxes used on produce come from natural sources. Produce waxes usually combine carnauba wax (made from Brazilian palm leaves), food-grade shellac (made from lac bug secretions), polyethylene or paraffin waxes. Animal-based waxes are available, but producers in the United States rarely use them because such waxes conflict with Kosher or vegetarian diets.

Nearly two dozen produce items can be treated with wax, among them apples, avocados, bell peppers, cantaloupes, cucumbers, eggplants, grapefruits, lemons, limes, melons, oranges, peaches, pineapples, pumpkins, rutabagas, squash, tomatoes and turnips.

Although most commercial waxes cannot be removed by washing, Orzolek recommends peeling the fruit or vegetable if you are leery of eating wax.

"If producers were able to pick a piece of perfectly ripe fruit and get it to market in a few days, there would be no need to apply wax," Kuhn says, "But if the produce has to travel long distances, adding wax is appropriate to extend the perishable shelf life."

Maps Might Provide Best Route For Pest Management

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — General since the age of Julius Caesar have known that maps are crucial tools for waging war. Now a team of researchers in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences are using unique mapping techniques to battle beetles invading potato chips.

Randy Weisz, a research associate in the college's entomology department, is in the third year of a project designed to give Pennsylvania potato farmers a clearer picture of their pesticide needs to control the Colorado potato beetle.

Weisz and his team mark off a field into sections, walk through and count the beetles in each section, and enter their findings into a hand-held computer. Those data are fed directly into a larger personal computer, which then produces a map tracing the areas where large numbers of insects are living or invading the field.

"The farmer can use the map to spray only the portion of the field where a pesticide is needed," Weisz says. "We count the field by 3 p.m., make the map by 4:30 p.m. and the grower has the information on where to spray by the next morning."

According to Zane Smilowitz, professor of entomology, Pennsylvania has some 22,000 acres of potato crops, almost all on smaller farms that could easily use such mapping technology.

When insects infest a field, Weisz says, most pests enter at one point and spread out. By mapping the insects' migration, the farmer can just spray "hot spots" with large populations. In test cases, the Penn State researchers reduced insecticide use by 50 percent and fungicide use by 70 percent.

The Colorado potato beetle is a formidable foe. The pests quickly develop genetic resistance to pesticides, and the pesticides now used to combat the beetle must be applied to an entire field almost weekly to control them.

"The problem is literally out of control," Weisz says. "Potatoes are the most pesticide-intensive crop in the world. Farmers can pay $365 an acre per year just to keep insects at bay."

While the researchers have documented significant drops in pesticide usage, Weisz points out two other advantages to mapping pesky pests.

• Partial spraying could hinder beetles from developing resistance because those beetles left in the unsprayed portion of the field would re-introduce the gene for pesticide susceptibility.

• Spraying the entire field also obliterates the potato beetles' natural predators. By spraying only hot spots, potato beetle predators such as the ladybird beetle and the stinkbug are free to seek more prey.

The technology used to produce beetle maps is quite simple. Researchers use hand-held computers similar to those used for grocery inventory to count bugs in each field section. The computer software used to generate the map is adapted from a program used by geologists. "In a real-life application, the information could be fed right into a laptop computer out in the field which then prints out a map," Weisz says. "This technology is not far away at all."

Shelby Fleischer, assistant professor of entomology, says computer mapping, which is a component of geographic information systems (GIS), can be adapted to almost any crop. Indeed, another Penn State researcher, David Midgarden, is mapping insect pests and their natural enemies in a five-acre commercial tomato greenhouse.

"Our work right now has been to produce a workable map to track insects," says Fleischer. "We can use the principles of GIS to make maps to track other variables in a particular field as well,"

Easy quesadillas are a super snack. Spread a thin layer of prepared black bean dip on a flour tortilla then top with sliced or shredded cheese and a second tortilla. (Jalapeño pepper Monterey Jack tastes terrific.) Place on a pizza pan or baking sheet; bake at 350° for 5 minutes or until cheese melts. Cut into wedges to serve.

More people are brown-bagging than ever. In fact, "Tufts University Diet and Nutrition Letter" (December 1993) reports that the brown-bagging of meals and snacks has increased by more than 30 percent during the last 10 years.

Get Vegetable Gardens Ready For Winter Now

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — As autumn approaches and you harvest your last tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers, you may think your work in the vegetable garden is done. It's not.

Fall cleanup is an important part of proper vegetable garden management, according to specialists at the Home and Garden Information Center of the Cooperative Extension Service University of Maryland at College Park.

The first step in winterizing your vegetable garden is to remove diseased and insect-infested plants. This will prevent many plant diseases and insect pests from overwintering. Healthy crop residues can be worked into the soil or composted.

Next comes soil enhancement through the addition of lime and organic matter. A $5 soil test conducted at the University of Maryland at College Park will help you determine what — and how much — is needed. Test kits are available from the Home and Garden Information Center (1-800-342-2507).

The final step is to plant a cover crop. When planted in the fall and plowed under in the spring, cover crops improve soil structure and fertility while preventing erosion.

The best cover crops are legumes. Bacteria associated with the roots of these plants convert nitrogen from the air into a form that can be used by plants.

The most suitable legume for home gardens is hairy vetch. One of the most efficient soil builders, this winter annual should be sown in September and plowed under in early spring. Non-leguminous alternatives are annual rye and oats, which should be sown between early September and early October.

For more information about vegetable gardens or other horticultural topics, Maryland residents can call the Home and Garden Information Center at 1-800-342-2507. Experts are available to answer questions about 8 a.m. and 1 p.m., Monday through Friday. Recorded information on a variety of subjects is accessible via touch-tone phone 24 hours a day.

Older Homes Look Best With Old-Fashioned Landscaping

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When you buy an older home, you're also buying an older landscape. Those vintage plants often are worth keeping, says a landscaping specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Most yards around older houses contain plants of the period when the houses were built, such as lilacs, yews, roses and forsythias," says Dan Stearns, assistant professor of landscape contracting. "These plantings complement older architecture."

It's often a mistake to remove existing plants and replace them with modern landscaping. "Closely sculpted hedges, a front deck and a large expanse of lawn may clash with Victorian or colonial homes," says Stearns. "We've all seen houses and yards that just don't fit together."

Stearns advises waiting at least a year before altering any landscape. "Study your yard's appearance during each season," says Stearns. "There may be spring-flowering bulbs, summer-blooming shrubs and perennials, trees with colorful fall foliage and evergreens for winter interest. Preserving these plants can save time and money."

Does this mean you shouldn't plant new things? "Not at all," says Stearns. "The key is to blend new plantings with existing ones. This also may mean rejuvenating or removing older plants that are past their prime."

Functional issues also will influence your landscaping decisions. "A lot can change during a property's lifetime," says Stearns. "Many houses were built before there were automobiles. You may need to add a garage or even a driveway.

"The quiet lane your house was built beside now may be a busy highway. If this is the case, a tall hedge or fence will be needed to maintain privacy and shut out noice. Some remodeling also might be necessary, such as adding a side door, putting on a new porch or fixing the walkway."

Before breaking soil on any property, create a landscaping plan. "If you're going to hire a landscaping professional, it's best to involve him or her while you're setting goals and developing the plan," says Stearns. "An experienced professional can help prevent costly mistakes."

A landscape contractor can help you decide which plants are worth keeping and can suggest replacements and additions. "There's an excellent variety of plants that weren't available 60 years ago," says Stearns. "And many catalogs are selling heirloom plants again."

Working with an older landscape has its risks. "Digging around established plants can damage or kill them, and changing light conditions will affect them too," says Stearns. "The best approach is to proceed with lots of care, and remember that landscaping can be done in phases. It doesn't have to happen all at once."

How 'Clean And Green' Affects Local Taxes

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — To help preserve farmland, Pennsylvania's Clean and Green law lets farmers pay taxes on the agricultural value of their land instead of its higher development value. But it also cuts local tax revenues, says a Penn State researcher.

"Some of Pennsylvania's best farmland is at risk of development," says Dr. Tim Kelsey, assistant professor of agricultural economics. "Act 319, also known as Clean and Green, was enacted in 1974 to help farmers keep real property taxes in line with their income. Even if farmland is not physically affected by neighboring developments, higher property values mean higher taxes."

Kelsey calculated tax revenues lost because of Clean and Green as well as millage rate increases necessary to offset these losses using data on participation in the act in 1991. That year, 45 of the state's 67 counties had participants. More than 42,000 people and more than 3.7 million acres were enrolled in the program.

"The average county government with Clean and Green participants lost 3.5 percent of its real property tax revenue and 1.2 percent of its total revenue because of the program," Kelsey says. "These impacts varied dramatically across counties, municipalities and school districts.

"Fulton County, for example, lost a larger share of its total revenue — 8.9 percent — than any other county, even though it is under less development pressure than many counties," says Kelsey.

"On average, county millage rates would have risen 0.51 mills, and municipal millage rates would have risen 0.26 mills," Kelsey says. "School district millage rates also would have risen because of Clean and Green. This means the average owner of a house with a market value of $50,000 located in a county with Clean and Green participants pays an additional $38.12 in local property taxes each year."

Clean and Green seems to impose a large burden in certain areas, but are these unfair? The jury is still out. "Some people argue that the real property tax is unfair to farmers," Kelsey says. "Farmers at all income levels generally pay around 10 percent of their household income on real property taxes, while nonfarm households pay a smaller and smaller share as their income rises. Programs like Clean and Green help to correct that."

Raising taxes to make up for these losses shifts the burden from participating farmers onto other taxpayers. "How these costs are distributed may be more unfair than the size of the costs themselves," Kelsey notes. "Some communities suffer large impacts even though they are under little development pressure.

"People living in Clean and Green communities pay the program's costs, even though all taxpayers benefit from the program. Other states with similar programs shift the costs from local taxing districts onto the state's income tax base. Pennsylvania currently does not do this, so rural residents pay a disproportionate share of the program's costs."

Preserving farmland might be worth the cost, but the benefits are hard to measure accurately, and there is no consensus on how effective programs like Clean and Green are in preserving farmland," Kelsey says.

A new publication from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences explores this issue in more detail. For a free copy of "Farmland Preservation in Pennsylvania: The Impact of 'Clean and Green' on Local Governments and Taxpayers," Extension Circular 411, contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in your county.

County Residents Recognized At 4-H Fair

This year's Montgomery County 4-H Fair had something for everyone and those who attended were rewarded visually with a variety of eye-catching exhibits on display - from clothing of original design to home grown vegetables to models and ceramics. Everyone who exhibited received a 4-H Fair ribbon and then there were some who received special recognition for a job well done.

In the 4-H clothing and textiles category, the following 4-H'ers received a "Clover Award" for outstanding work: Elizabeth Evans and Sarah Sheeler of Royersford, Jennifer Moyer of Harleysville, Kate Semmens of Perkiomenville, Megan Sly of Gilbertsville, Lisa Angell of Limerick, Cayce Bean of Schwenksville, Jennifer Kulp and Jennifer Braun of Lansdale, and Karina Price of Telford. Best in class honors went to Sarah Sheeler. Karina Price was selected grand champion of all 4-H youth clothing classes. Reserve champion honors went to Jennifer Braun.

The following youth received a clover in the open clothing youth category: Alicia Kuehne of Line Lexington, Julie Buckwalter of Royersford, and Ellen Nave of Horsham. Julie also took reserve champion honors and Alicia was the grand champion of open youth clothing. In the adult open clothing category, clovers were won by Lisa Guerriero of Worcester and Cherie Braun of Lansdale. Lisa also took best in class with her outfit.

In the open crafts category, grand champion honors went to Libby Klopp of Telford for her quilt. Other quilters receiving noteworthy recognition were Eva Beagle of Harleysville, reserve champion; Colleen Coll of Perkiomenville, best in class; Evelyn McAdams, best in class; and Barbara Kratz, Harleysville, clover; and Gwen Traub, Ambler, clover.

In other open classes, Diana Gribling, a 4-H'er from Ambler, won best in class for needlecraft, Betty Ann Bleam of Green Lane won a clover for her braided rug, 4-H'er Scott Newman of Dresher won a clover for his artwork, and Sheila Sykora of Collegeville was awarded best in class for color photography.

In other 4-H classes, Mary Erickson of Collegeville earned a clover for her babysitting project, Ellen Nave of Horsham won grand champion for basketry, and Jim Sherman of Collegeville was reserve champion in the same category. Lisa Drauschak of Pottstown received best in class in the Microwave cooking category. In the models department, Scott Newman of Dresher received a best of class. In orienteering, Jason Bucy of Royersford provided the best exhibit, earning himself a best in class award. Anna Kettell of Souderton won the same award in 4-H photography. The best 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy projects were exhibited by Mary Erickson of Collegeville and Autumn Hassinger of Green Lane. Aaron Cassebeer of North Wales had the best stamp collection.

Woodworking projects were found in abundance. The grand champion ribbon was awarded to Scott Newman of Dresher, while Ellen Nave of Horsham ran a close second as reserve champion. Vegetables were also a sight to see. 4-H winners included Peter Widdop of Phoenixville, reserve champion, and Lee Anne Singletary of Zieglersville, grand champion. Open youth classes were led by Emily Christy of Schwenksville, who won grand champion and Peter Widdop, who again won reserve champion.

You Ask ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? You Answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for the answers.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Stanley Siedlecki, Jarrettsville, Md., writes that his woodburning stove emits a strong wood burning smell during humid days and nights. The flue has been cleaned. Is there something that can be done to prevent this odor or condition?

QUESTION — C. Van Horn, Mt. Pleasant Mills, would like to know what works and is safe to remove yellow and grease stains from old china dishes, especially ironstone. She would like something that makes the dishes white again.

QUESTION — E. Otis Dyer, Rehoboth, Mass., would like to know the name of the company in Pennsylvania, the address, and if the company is still in business — the one that makes a farm fence kit consisting of two channel irons and hinges. The farmer supplies the wooden cross piece measuring 2x8-inches and barbwire strands.

QUESTION — Nancy Cummings, Bolivar, would like to know why celery plants go to seed. She has grown celery all her life and the last two years, some of the plants go to seed instead of developing a nice stalk.

QUESTION — M. Carver writes: What a surprise in our garden when we discovered the local nursery supplied us with cabbage plants instead of brussels sprouts. We would like to know how they are handled while fresh.

QUESTION — Shirley Baer, New Freedom, would like handmade aluminum made during the late 1930s and 1940s, especially those with designs of animals, flowers, and fowl.

QUESTION — A Birdsboro reader would like to know how to remove underarm odor from laundered work clothing. Even after several washings, the smell still clings to the clothing.

QUESTION — A reader would like to know how to remove cloudiness from clear crystal.

QUESTION — Kenneth Hixon, Warfordsburg, would like the complete address for the Schrader Co. that makes automotive tire repair accessories. He needs parts for #5235 valve vulcanizing tool.

NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER

The all-new MoCo's

- An all-new three-point suspension system provides unmatched flotation.
- Redesigned guards and a 5-bar reel help the all-new sicklebar machine cut better – and six inches wider – than anything in it's class.
- Two new rotary disk models feature the all-new, John Deere-built modular cutterbar. It's stronger than anything else on the market.
- An exclusive Power-Cushion helps prevent the driveline from bottoming out during tight turns.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK

Adults showed off their vegetable gardening skills, too. Marcia Woodward of Blue Bell was selected grand champion and Marianne McKenna of Collegeville was reserve champion.

In the youth flower category, Karin Ruch of Green Lane was named best in class, while in the adult category, reserve champion was held by Sheila Sykora of Collegeville. Sheila also won the largest zucchini contest. Grand champion was won by the Family Resource Center at Graterford Prison. Carol Feeley of Cheltenham won the largest tomato contest and Kelli Augustine of Skippack won the largest sunflower contest.

In other competition, the best educational club display award went to three clubs: The Green Pastures Sheep Club had the best outdoor display. An exhibit built jointly by the Green Thumbers and the Salford-Trappe Club won the best in class for indoor exhibits. The best club scrapbook was won by the Seeing Eye Puppy Club.

Top ceramic awards went to Erica Dillon of North Wales, who was named grand champion and Kristin Satko of Cheltenham, who earned reserve champion honors. Among the many horse art projects on display were those of Jenny Connor of Schwenksville, Megan Golden and Emily Steigerwalt of Collegeville, Ed Lenhardt of Green Lane, Marnie Loue Melvin of Collegeville, Erica Munkwitz of Harleysville, Jeanine Pierson, Karin Ruch, and Megan Sly of Gilbertsville. Each received first place honors in their specific category.

House plants were in abundance exhibited by young people who grew them at River Crest. The grand champion ribbon was awarded to Gary Wimmer.

4-H Youth Exchange
Jacki Sterner
IFYE To Sweden

As Adams County's International Four-H Youth Exchangee to Sweden, I would like to share some of the daily life of Sweden with you.

School days have started again, even in Sweden. I will try to describe the Swedish system as seen in the town where I am currently living, Alvsbyn; population 10,000, located 60 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

Children begin with Lekaskola or nursery school at the age of 6 or 7. They then move into Lekenskolan or play school, which is the name of the school here in Alvsbyn. Children attend this school for first to third grade. They may also go to the Parkskolan, which has grades one through six. During these first six years, children learn to work with each other and learn such subjects as Swedish (language and literature), mathematics, geography, and history. In the fourth grade, students begin learning the English language and grammar. The student remains in the same room and has the same teacher for all subjects.

Next comes Alvakraskolan for grades 7 to 9. Students begin to change classrooms for each subject and receive points (grades) for their work. The point system goes from 5 to 1, with 5 being the best. Surprisingly, even with a 1, you may continue onto the next grade. Children are only 'held back' in the first or second grade if needed. Students take the same subjects as before, plus physics, chemistry, biology, sociology, religion, and world history. After completing the 9th grade, around the age of 16, students may quit or they may continue in the gymnasium (high school).

Alvsbyn is too small to have a gymnasium, so students must travel 1 hour by bus to Pitea or find an apartment there. Each gymnasium is different, but there are 12 to 15 different areas a student may study. They fall under three main programs: theoretical, which includes economics, education, hotel/restaurant management, and languages; practical - carpentry and mechanics; and technical - computer and mathematics. Students study all of the previous subjects, plus one of these areas listed. They attend the gymnasium for three years and the third year is very centered on their own area of study.

After completing this last class, at age 18 to 21 or older, students graduate. They wear a student massa (a sailor's hat) and may find a job, if there are any.

Because jobs are limited, many continue to the University or Hagskolan, (translated meaning "high school", but equivalent to our colleges). Each Hagskolan is centered on one area of study. The university has many areas of study, depending on the area where it is located. To complete a course of study usually takes 3 to 4 1/2 years. A student must have good points to get into their desired program.

Swedish education is free up through the gymnasium. Parent do pay a tax on their income tax which is used for education. Lunches and books are free too until the gymnasium. Each child, age 0 to 20, receives a "welfare check" each month. It is equivalent to $100 for each child; if they have three children, they receive $50 extra. It is used to cover some expenses for going to school. If a student has to travel by bus to school, the community and county pays the fee. If they have to rent an apartment so they will be closer, the student receives about $350/month to cover part of the rent.

Most of these things I found similar to our system, except for lunches and the buses. Students ride a public bus which is usually a very nice coach bus. If a student lives 1.2 miles away from the school, they ride the bus free no matter if it's a dirt road or not.

Another point to note, classes 1 to 3 only go from 8 to 11:30 a.m. The other students go from 8 to 2:30 or 3:30. In the gymnasium, though, students have a very mixed schedule; some days 8 to 4, others 10 to 2 or 3.

The sports program is very "low-key," with competitions only held between different classes, not schools. You can decide whether you want to continue to go to school in the U.S.A. or move to Sweden.

My host brother (who is in Greensburg, Pa. for the next school year) likes it better in Sweden. He says," The teachers aren't as strict as in the U.S." I have never met him and he has only attended three days of "American School," so that thought may change.

Good luck to all of the students, and study hard. Until next time, Jacki.

jerZee Orchards Receives Governor's Cup

CLEMENTON, N.J. — The 1994 recipient of the Governor's Cup for the best box of peaches was jerZee Orchards of Glassboro.

The box was selected from 60 entries at the commercial peach competition as part of a Regional Peach Festival at the Gloucester County 4-H Fair.

The festival is a promotional event to kick off the peach season in New Jersey.

New Jersey Secretary of Agriculture, Arthur R. Brown, was on hand to present the cup to owner Doug Zee Jr. for Governor Christine Todd Whitman on Friday evening July 30 in Mullica Hill. Approximately 15,000 people attended this year's festival.

The peach pak competition moved to Gloucester County in 1993 after closing of the Camden County Regional Peach Festival by the fruit growers in 1992.

Two classes of peach competition were exhibited. The commercial class consisted of boxes of peaches pulled off the packing line, or out of refrigerated storage to represent the kind the grower would market to wholesale buyers for sale in retail food stores. The boxes were selected at random by regional fruit agent Jerry Frecon of Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Gloucester County.

The other class was designated "select." Peaches in this class were hand selected by growers for exhibition at the festival. Growers could enter either class in three different size categories representing the most important sizes sold on the wholesale market. All peaches were packaged in the standard 38-pound peach box. Nectarines (fuzzless peaches) and white fleshed peaches were not eligible for judging. Any variety could be entered; however, most entries were Redhaven, JohnBoy, Early Loring, Redhaven Special, Topaz, Bellaire, and Late Sunhaven. The award winning box from jerZee was a select box of 2 1/2 inch Bellaire.

All fruit was judged by inspectors from the New Jersey Department of Agriculture "Jersey Fresh" quality grading program. These inspectors were the same individuals who inspect fruit shipped under the "Jersey Fresh" premium labeling program. Judging was done without the knowledge or identity of the shipper. When the fruit was displayed after judging all growers/shippers were identified, and the entries were exhibited for all visitors at the festival.

The following shippers were winners in the competition:

2 1/4 inch in diameter class: 1. Heilig Orchards, Richwood, N.J.; 2. Circle M Farms, Mullica Hill, N.J.; 3. Fruit Valley Orchard, Swedesboro, N.J.

2 12 inch in diameter class: 1. Heilig Orchards, Richwood, N.J.; 2. Frahlinger Farms, Bridgeton, N.J.; 3. Larchmont Farms, Mt. Laurel, N.J.

2 3/4 inch in diameter class: 1. Larchmont Farms, Mt. Laurel, N.J.; 2. jerZee Orchards, Glassboro, N.J.; 3. Heilig Orchards, Richwood, N.J.

Winners of the select competition which consisted of 38 pound boxes hand selected by growers for the competition were:

2 1/4 inch in diameter class: 1. Stony Knoll Orchards, Richwood, N.J.; 2. Zee Orchards, Glassboro, N.J.; 3. Neale's Orchard, Glassboro, N.J.

Binkley & Hurst Sizes Up Folding Planters

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.)—Donald Hoover and Mervin Nissly, Planting & Seeding Sales Technicians from Binkley & Hurst Bros., witnessed the unveiling of some innovative folding planters while attending an intensive, day-long national sales meeting at Kinze Manufacturing, Inc., in Williamsburg, Iowa.

Hoover and Nissly viewed several product introductions, including a new line of large, highly versatile 2600 Twin-Line® Planter, which are capable of folding (in-line) down to 11 feet 2 inches wide for transport, and Kinze's giant 25-row, center-flex 2700 Front Folding Planter (which transports at 14 feet wide). The sales technicians also participated in a series of workshops dealing with the latest trends, technologies and improvements in planting, mechanical crop cultivation, and harvesting, and they toured Kinze's newly expanded manfacturing complex.

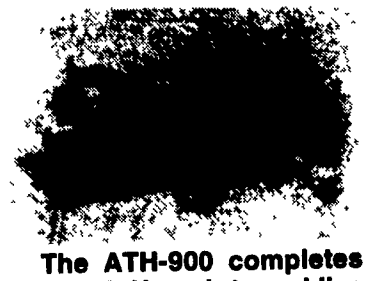
Air Tunnel Designed For Heavy Material

Selma, Ala.—Bush Hogs new 90-inch wide air tunnel finishing mower is designed to handle the large volume of material as well as dry and dew-covered grass that both commercial operators and property owners encounter frequently.

"High volume of material, dry, and dew-covered grass are a reality of lawn maintenance," said Robert O. Moore, Bush Hog vice president, sales. "The new ATH-900 air tunnel mower will increase productivity because it provides a finished appearance in the heavy material and dew-covered grass conditions that are often the reality of lawn maintenance at parks, commercial buildings, estates, public buildings, airports, and farms. It delivers a finished cut in these conditions while providing low, easy maintenance and long-term durability."



The ATH-900 completes the Bush Hog air tunnel line with 60, 72, and 90-inch wide models.

Growers On Bandwagon To Attend Corn Classic

ST LOUIS, Mo. — More than 2,000 of the nation's top growers and industry leaders will take center stage in Nashville, Tenn., February 26-28, at the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) 1995 Corn Classic.

"This year's annual corn industry event is bound to be a chart-buster with the toe tappin' location, top-hit speakers and entertainers, profit-boosting seminars and 250+ exhibit trade show," said Glade Snoberger, Corn Classic chairman and corn grower from Aurora, Neb. "And if those aren't enough reasons to beat the band, many farmers and their families join the group each year primarily to share ideas with other successful growers."

NCGA's 37th annual convention and trade show is slated to be a hit from beginning to end. Legendary football star Terry Bradshaw will kick-off the opening general session, sponsored by DowElanco. The grand finale Tuesday Evening of Entertainment, sponsored by Monsanto Company, will feature Louise Mandrell and Lee Greenwood at the historic Ryman Auditorium. Recently reopened after a $8.5 million renovation, Ryman Auditorium has earned its reputation as the "Carnegie Hall of the South."

In addition to music, Nashville offers many other treasures to discover — riverboat cruises, Civil War history, antebellum mansions, the famed Parthenon, President Andrew Jackson's home The Hermitage, factory outlet center shopping, golf courses, lakes for boating, woods for hiking, and more. For Nashville information, call their tourism hotline at (615) 259-4700.

To register for Corn Classic, call NCGA at (314) 275-9915.

Strickland Appointed

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Hoffman Seeds, Inc. has appointed Steve Strickland, Bainbridge, as sales representative for Lancaster County.

Strickland will handle the full line of Hoffman products, including Funk's G® Brand hybrid corn.

Strickland has lived in the community 30 years and has been farming for 15 years. He is involved in crop farming, raising steers, and managing layer houses.

Farm Bill Forum Explores Future

READING (Berks Co.) — A listening panel of top congressional staff and USDA officials listened recently as people from all sectors of the agricultural industry talked about problems they have had with the 1985 and 1990 Farm Bills and what they hope will be included or excluded from the 1995 Farm Bill being developed now.

The Food Security Act, more commonly known as the Farm Bill, is one of the most important pieces of legislation that affects all citizens of the United States. Farm Bills that were passed in 1985 and 1990 held conservation provisions that directly affected the way farmers farm and produce food. While many farmers are not opposed to land stewardship and protection of the natural resource on their property, implementation of the previous two Farm Bills left them with many problems and concerns not experienced before in other Farm Bills.

The forum, sponsored by USDA and the Soil and Water Conservation Society, was the fourth of eight forums that will be held around the United States to gain feedback toward development of the 1995 Farm Bill. There are also four urban focus groups that are also being held in an attempt to listen to the people working in these areas talk about the problems they are having getting conservation work such as urban forestry — also covered in the 1990 Farm Bill — accomplished.

Norm Berg, the Washington, D.C. representative of the Soil and Water Conservation Society, began the forum by telling the assembled group that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has been required by the provisions of the previous two Farm Bills to do more with erosion control and protection of water quality, wildlife habitat, and other related natural resources. He explained that each participate in the forum had been asked to talk about the problems they were experiencing because of these provisions, to discuss briefly what the causes of the problems were, and then to address what Congress and government agencies could do to address these concerns in the next Farm Bill.

"USDA with their conservation and forestry programs are being asked to do more with conservation of our natural resources. We are being asked to do this while still maintaining what we do best: producing the best and safest food supply in the world," he said.

A listening panel had been set up and included Tim Smith representing Congressman Tim Holden of Pennsylvania; Tom Hebert, deputy assistant secretary of natural resources and environment in USDA; Pearlie Reed, associate chief or the Soil Conservation Service; Richard Duncan, Pennsylvania state conservationist through the Soil Conservation Service; Cheryl Cook from the Farmer's Home Administration; William Bamgartner, state executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; Dick Van Noy, Pennsylvania State Conservation Commission; and James Grace, Pennsylvania state forester.

The first panel of the day began with a farmer. Jane Seidel, a Berks County dairy producer, talked about the problems associated with animal waste and other waste management. She stated that with the overall management of waste, the farm was turning into one big landfill. Besides the management of their own animal waste, other waste, such as newspapers and tires, was being shredded and used on farmns. Seidel stated problems with waste management are nothing new and read a report of waste management from the days of Plato. The report stated that when the stables filled up to capacity with animal waste, the river was diverted to sweep through the stables and clean them out.

Seidel explained how waste management affected water quality downstream after heavy rainfall. While she agreed that management of animal waste had many benefits, she also cautioned that the management practices employed by farmers must be financially sound or they would not be adopted. She cautioned government officials on the listening panel that they had to set priorities too. If it was important to dictate the preservation and protection of agricultural land, they had to stand ready to help farmers explore opportunities to make it financially sound and easy for the farmer to adopt this attitude too.

The environmental community was also represented on the first panel through Lamonte Garber representing the Chesapeake Bay Foundation and the Campaign for Sustainable Agriculture. Garber talked about sustainable agriculture as farming for the long term that protects family farms. He said we need to look at farming the way we are doing it now and make more of an effort to promote agriculture that is sensitive to the degradation of soil and water.

Garber thought that agencies such as the Soil Conservation Service were being hindered by staffing cuts which would result in a reduction of conservation practices applied to the land. He said that these practices reduce the nonpount source of pollution. He also said that many farming producers need more education with regard to water quality. He said that when a farmer produces an acre of corn, he or she doesn't necessary understand what leaches into the soil and/or water systems when it rains. They don't understand what it is that happens nor how it affects the overall environment.

Throughout the day, problems were also experienced by others directly and indirectly involved in the farming industry. For example, Robert Yunker, representing the New York Land Improvement Contractors. talked to the panel about his inability to help farmers in installing conservation practices that would aid in water quality management. He said it was a nightmare of regulatory abuse to wade through the paperwork, the permitting processes, the feeds, the overlapping or duplication of different agencies to try to get a single job done. He also felt owner's rights were being diminished by government action and regularion

"Government authority needs to be through the people who are governed not through those who are so out of touch with real life situations," Yunker said.

Since the 1990 Farm Bill also included the Forestry Stewardship emphasis, there were several forum participants who talked about forestry. Nancy Wolf, representing the Environmental Action Coalition and Alliance for Community Trees, said her state of New York had experienced a wonderful surge in urban forestry management and appealed to the panel to maintain this program in the 1995 Farm Bill. She stated that all forestry, whether rural or urban is part of the overall eco-system and that without more of it, especially in urban and suburban areas, sprawl will continue everywhere.

Angus Bull Buying Guide Explains EPDs

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—"Bull Buying Strategies to Improve Your Herd" is a new booklet available free from the American Angus Association.

Much of the booklet is devoted to expected progeny differences (EPDs). How to use EPDs and accuracy values are two topics addressed in the booklet as well as the use of carcass EPDs.

The guide is written in an easy question-and-answer format. It gives answers to real-life questions such as "Why do EPDs change year to year on a sire?" and "My friend wants me to use a bull with a high yearling weight EPD and a birth EPD of +6 pounds. Should I be concerned?"

The booklet discusses the importance of bull selection, tells you how to determine your herd's strengths and weaknesses, and defines various measures of performance records including weights, ratios and contemporary groups.

For "Bull Buying Strategies to Improve Your Herd," write American Angus Association, Public Relations Dept., 3201 Frederick Blvd., St. Joseph, MO 64506.

She emphasized that the Forestry Stewardship Program had brought about a lot of alliances, that had made a difference to empty city lots and failing woodlots within the New York Metropolitan Area. The revival of these locations and the forestry stewardship work with private landowners throughout New York has had a dramatic affect on the quality of the water in the urban areas, she emphasized.

Gordon Hiller from the Pennsylvania State Grange brought to the table the issue of wetland regulation as one of the points the Grange wants addressed. He stated that the Grange doesn't share the view that most of the agencies working with wetlands have as to definition or protection policies. He talked about how water impacts a farm and how many farmers need assistance in understanding how the wetlands regulations affect them.

Another farmer, Larry Kehl from Berks County, said he personally felt bitter because farmers are made to feel like criminals for their farming methods. "I have a wet spot in a stream on my farm," he said. "For a hundred years now, we have been able to clean it out with a front-end loader. Now I'm told, no, that is a wetland area and you can't touch it without breaking the law. I'm told I need a retaining wall put in there, but I can't afford an engineer to help me design."

Kehl made a plea to keep conservation district and Soil Conservation Service personnel support at the local level to help with problems such as these.

"Farmers don't have access to help such as engineering help like developers do," he said. "We need that kind of support and that's one thing the government does well. Without some help with conservation, we wouldn't have the incentive to do it."

Kehl told the group that conservation district personnel are supportive because they know how to solve these types of problems and they are also mostly farmers themselves. He said he feels better about working with other farmers than with bureaucrats. He stated the number one priority of any legislation right now should be water quality. People don't need to be having well problems, he said. But, he emphasized, we need some support to know what to do when a problem is discovered on a farm.

Speaking for the Maryland Soil Conservation District Association, Martha Clark, a conservation district supervisor from Howard County, Maryland, had several issues that group wanted emphasized. The first was unfunded mandates that continue to be given to conservation districts from federal programs. Related to that was a review of the historic Memorandums of Understanding between USDA and the Conservation District Association with an eye to going back to the original purpose of this partnership. Before, the memorandums called for long-range planning for conservation problems within each district allowing local citizens to determine and prioritize the conservation work that needed to be done. Now, with the Food Security Act, the Clean Water and Clean Air acts, the Endangered Species Act, and so forth, the work of these pieces of legislation takes precedence over meeting the needs of producers, homeowners, and land-users within each district.

Clark also talked about retaining the conservation provisions of the Food Security Act, and said the Conservation Reserve Program should be maintained. She also made the point that farmers would participate in conservation programs more readily if there was an improved net farm income. She stated that farmers not only needed to see the environmental benefit of installing practices, but they also needed to improve their bottom line in some way.

Clark ended by making a plea to the listening panel to consider in the new Farm Bill the issue of how young people enter the farming industry. The average age of farmers is somewhere between 50 and 60 years of age, she stated, and there are very few young people who can afford to go into farming. She felt it was time now to start thinking about how this would impact food production in the future.

There were many other issues that were addressed including the distance that farmers need to travel to get help from governmental agencies, the closing of Soil Conservation Service field offices, paperwork reduction, voluntary incentive-based ways of reducing farmer debt, the Rural Abandoned Mine Program, and establishing wilderness and park areas to complete the greenway from Georgia to Maine.

Use EPDs To Boost Calf Weaning Weights

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—As cattlemen wean their calves in the fall, they realize the importance bull selection has on their weaning weights. Several factors affect weaning weights, with major portion coming from the genetics furnished by the bull.

Dr. John Hough, education and research director of the American Polled Hereford Association, said that using expected progeny differences (EPDs) as a tool to help select breeding stock can dramatically improve the genetic performance of your herd.

"EPDs are tools provided by breed associations that can help you better understand the genetic makeup of the seedstock you buy, thus helping you to better predict and improve the performance of your calves," Hough said, "Using EPDs will not guarantee perfect offspring, but will certainly increase your probability of a profitable herd."

An EPD is one-half an animal's actual breeding value because a parent only transmits a random one-half of its genes to each of its offspring, or progeny. Therefore, a sire transmits a random half of his genes for growth to weaning and a dam transmits a random half of her genes for the same traits. A dam, however, provides her entire genetic merit for milk production to the calf.

Milk genes actually transmitted to the calf do not directly affect its weaning weight, but its weight gain is a direct result of the dam's actual milk production.

"However, when referencing a sire's EPDs, you should select for weaning weight since the weaning weight EPD has a direct influence on his progeny's weaning weights. A sire's milk EPD has a direct effect on his daughter's milk production," Hough said,

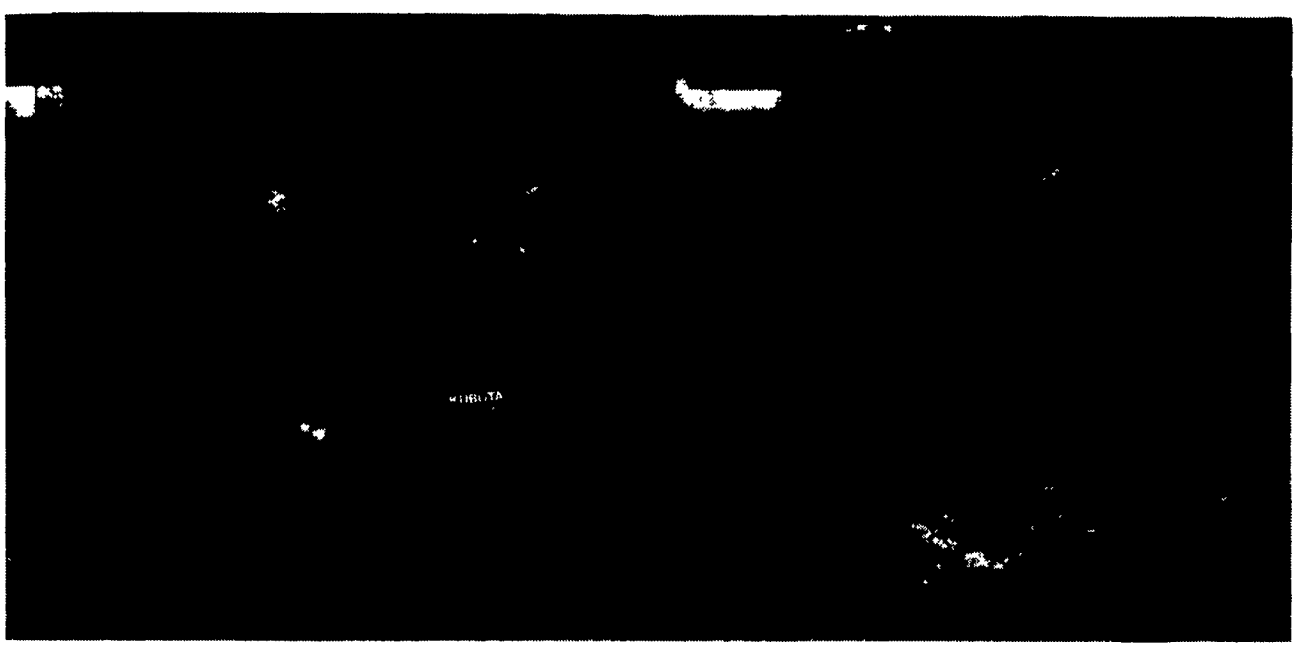
Here's an example: Examining expected weaning weights of a sire's grand progeny, a random one-half of his direct genes for weaning growth is transmitted to his daughters. which is his weaning weight EPD. In turn, the daughters transmit a random one-half of their genes to their progeny. This value would be one-half of the grandsire's weaning weight EPD. Remember, a sire's milk EPD is figured in terms of his daughters' progeny. Therefore, a sire's milk EPD is the value that affects his daughter's calves.

So, when you examine a sire's total genetic influence on maternal grand progeny, you have a combination of direct genetic effects for weaning growth and maternal genetic effects.

"When you look at a calf's weaning weight, several factors play a role," Hough said. " The environment has a very large effect as does the combination of growth and milk genes. Never try to predict a cow's production by looking at weaning weight EPDs or milk EPDs alone. It is always a combination of both. Also, only a sire's weaning weight EPD affects the weaning weights of his own progeny."

Hough stresses that a thorough understanding of EPDs and their uses is important. Your state or county extension office can provide more information, or contact the American Polled Hereford Association, 11020 NW Ambassador Drove, Kansas City, MO 64153, (816) 891-8400.

THE ONLY THING SHAKING IS THE COMPETITION



Introducing Kubota's new Grand L-Series diesel tractors. Four compact models with 25 to 37 PTO HP. Designed to take on any job that demands power and mobility.

Available in 2WD and 4WD, the Grand L-Series features Kubota's new ETVCS diesel engines that run quietly with cleaner emissions. Operator friendly with power steering, tilt wheel and enclosed muffler for greater visibility. The roomy flat operator's deck is ISO mounted to greatly reduce vibration.

The Grand L-Series has a choice of transmissions, the new fully synchronized main transmission with Synchro-shuttle allowing shifting-on-the-go through the 4 main gears, or the new GST (Glide Shift Transmission) which allows shifting-on-the-go through all 8 speeds. Both run smoothly and efficiently with the new larger diameter, larger capacity clutch.

The Grand L-Series powerful hydraulic system, independent rear PTO and 3-point hitch hook up to a wide range of quick-attach implements to handle any job.

Power and mobility: Kubota's Grand L-Series has it covered.

Conference Focuses On Turning Discards Into Resources

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Farmers and nursery managers from across eastern Pennsylvania, commercial composters from as far away as Chicago, township and park managers from Montgomery and Chester counties, researchers from Rodale Institute Research Center in Kutztown, an agricultural extension agent from Maine, and others came together August 24-25 for Penn State Cooperative Extension's conference on The Marketing & Use of Compost.

The Recycling Education Program of Penn State's Montgomery County Cooperative Extension organized the event. The seminar on August 24 took place at Montgomery County Community College, and the bus tour on August 25 visited six demonstration sites throughout Montgomery County.

Discussions at the conference focused on using and marketing compost for horticultural, agricultural, and municipal applications. For the second year in a row, the chairman of the Montgomery County commissioners, Mario Mele, launched the conference, giving recognition to the economic importance of composting.

Keynote speaker Jon Nilsson of East Coast Compost began the conference by explaining, "You've got to match your compost to your market." When high wuality compost was mixed into a sand covered athletic field, turf managers, were able to establish a field on which world cup soccer was played.

Nilsson said that "where you store [commpost on site] and how you manage it" are important for determining the usefulness and marketability of your product. To bring this point home, he showed a slide of a large pile of compost with a wet area on the bottom of the pile. The waterlogged compost was too heavy and wet to be sold; customers would not want to pay for the high moisture content if buying by the ton nor would they want unmanageably wet materials.

What quickly became clear from Nilsson's speech is that there is no single product called compost, but many different types and levels of quality. The characteristics of each individual compost product must match its intended use. A customer or user must be satisfied with the benefits of a product to be convinced that the product is worth purchasing or using more than once, noted second keynote speaker, Jamed Beierlein, agricultural economics professor from Penn State. If, for instance, a nursery manager mixes compost high in salts into his or her potting mix, and it results in dying plants, then that nursery will have a negative impression of compost and will no longer see compost as a resource. This is determined not only to the individual compost vendor but also to the compost industry as a whole.

Educating compost users and marketters on how to match a compost product with appropriate uses was an important goal of this conference. The seminar featured breakout sessions that addressed this issue by bringing together researchers and field practitioners for panel discussions. Speaking in the session on Turf Establishing & Topdressing Uses, Penn State University researcher Andrew McNitt shared the results of turf trials he performed using many different types of compost and said that, among other benefits, compost increased water filtration in the trial plots.

In the session on Greenhouse & Nursery Uses, Sandy Wilson, of Sandy Wilson Horticultural Services in Harleysville, noted she has found that wetland plants growing in a mix including leaf compost and mushroom soil retain more moisture than those planted without compost. She confirmed from her experience in the field what Dr. Harry Hoitink has researched extensively, that composts can suppress plant diseases. Hoitink, a nationally recognized researcher of the disease suppression benefits of compost, shared his expertise and many years of research on compost and answered a wide range of questions about the characteristics of compost and other organics used in greenhouses and nurseries.

The other breakout sessions featured researchers and professionals on Landscape & Grounds Uses, Municipal Uses, Testing for Compost Quality, and Farm Applications. The final plenary session included a summary and update on the Pennsylvania Senate Compost Bill by David Hess, executive director of the Environmental Resources & Energy Committee of the Senate, as well as a panel of speakers explaining the complexities of state compost site permitting regulations. Panelists called for site permitting to be clarified to Pennsylvania and for regulations to facilitate the composting of the estimated 30 percent to 75 percent of the waste stream that is compostable.

The bus tour showcased methods of using compost as well as compost production. At Heyser Landscaping, in Norristown, participants talked with company president, John Heyser, who explained their method of composting. This year, Heyser contracted out to Soil Rich, Ltd. to tub graind woody wastes for use as a mulch; this reduces the amount of yard discards for Heyser to compost and stockpile. Heyser composts landscape by-products by grinding them with a tub grinder, piling the materials into windrows, and turning them two to three times a year with a front-end loader. He uses the three to four-year-old piles as a soil amendment for his landscaping business and as a topdressing for turf. The materials are run through a screener before used to remove large woody pieces and trash.

Next stop on the tour was a brief visit to Mark Teaford's farm, also in Norristown, to see if there were any visible effects on his crops one year after the application of Heyser's compost to a trial plot. In areas where one inch of compost was applied, about 20 bushels of additional corn per acre were harvested last year. To rotate his crops this year, Teaford planted pumpkins on the plot and the effects of the compost will be more difficult to measure. However, pumpkin patches tend to be high in weeds, and the pigweed was significantly taller in areas with compost than in control plots with no compost. The increased growth of pigweed may indicate improved soils. Teaford also noticed that the soils were easier to till and that they felt springy rather than compacted as he drove over them.

The tour then visited the Kumpf farm in Worcester where compost consultant, George Leidig, of Autrusa Compost Consulting is working with the Kumpfs; they will be producing highquality compost to be used on the farm and also sold to high-end users such as nurseries and turf managers. Leidig demonstrated a low-cost compost turner he sells for the type of small to medium scale windrow composting he is establishing at the Kumpf farm.

At Meadowood retirement center in Worcester, participants saw three turf topdressing demonstrations; topdressing enhances existing turf by adding organic matter to turf soils. Two demonstrations featured tractor-powered spreading machines with brushes that distributed a fine layer of compost onto the turf. The demonstrators then drove tractor-pulled aerators over the turf and pulled a drag mat over the surface to mix the compost into the soil. Groundskeepers from Meadowood demonstrated a low-cost, hand-operated spreader, aerator, and drag mat. Also showcased were mulching lawn mowers of varying sizes which eliminate the need for collecting grass clippings.

After lunch at Hickory Park in New Hanover Township, participants walked across the street to S-Berry Farm to view a large compost screener in action. Also on display was a roll-off truck and container that could be used for pick-ups of compostables.

Participants in the recent regional compost conference heard Montgomery County Cooperative Extension agricultural agent, Tim Fritz, discuss the results of compost applied to a trial field at Mark Teaford's farm in Norristown. The conference was sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The final tour stop was the 4-H Center in Creamery. Earlier this summer, Montgomery County Cooperative Extension agents planted different varieties of grass seed in plots with one inch and two inches of compost incorporated with a rototiller, and some areas where no compost was applied. As a rule, the turf seeded in compost had fairly successful germination which prevented pervasive weed growth; the weeds were firmly established in areas where no compost was applied even where starter fertilizer was added. Weeds were a problem because the plots were seeded during the hot summer months, which are stressful for seed germination.

If you have any questions about the conference or would like more information about compost, call the Recycling Education Program in Creamery at (610) 454-1245.

Center Announces Ram Lamb Test Results

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center wishes to announce the results of Pennsylvania's 16th annual ram lamb testing program and the resultant sale.

The ram lamb testing program began with 46 outstanding lambs being delivered April 12, 1994 by approximately 25 of the most progressive sheep producers in the northeastern United States.

These rams were given a seven day adjustment period and then they were weighed on test April 18, 1994. This was the start of an 84-day testing period. The group on test consisted of nine fall-born Dorset ram lambs and 37 spring born ram lambs. This group of January and February born rams consisted of 14 Dorsets, 16 Suffolks, three Hampshires, two Oxfords, one Shropshire, and one Katahdin.

At the conclusion of the testing program, average daily gain and rations were calculated for the 84-day period. Lifetime weight per day of ages and ratios were obtained, as well as shoulder heights and scrotal circumference. Ultrasound technology was used to obtain fat thickness and estimated loin-eye measurements. A final index was then calculated based on average daily gain ratio, lifetime weight per day of age ratio, and adjusted fat thickness.

A sale committee, made up of ram test participants, and ram test technical committee members met and determined which rams would be included in the performance tested ram sale. There were rams included from the sale for low-index, inadequate scrotal circumference or other breeding exam problems, in addition to structural inadequacies.

The 16th performance tested ram lamb sale was conducted Saturday, August 6, in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers field day at the Ag Arena on the Penn State campus. The 37 rams offered, all sold, and returned quite good prices. The average sale price was $214. This compares favorably to last year's sale average on 37 rams of $193 with several no-sale rams.

In the senior Dorset division, The Center sold eight rams for an average price of $256. The top-indexing fall-born Dorset was bred by Penn State and Sold to John Smith III of Milton, for the top price paid for a Dorset of $475. The second-highest selling Dorset was consigned by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Herr of Narvon. This growthy ram sold to Johanna Hodlick of Beaver Springs for $375.

The top-indexing junior Dorset was consigned by the Kenneth Staver family and sold to Robert Wochley of Mount Pleasant Mills for $175. The top selling junior Dorset ram was the third-highest indexing ram consigned by Dr. Bob Herr. This ram sold to MRE Enterprises of Mount Solon, Va for $375. The 12 junior Dorset rams returned an average price of $165.

The top-indexing Suffolk ram was consigned by David Cole of Waynesburg and sold to William McAninch of Ford City for $200. The second highest indexing Suffolk was consigned by the performance oriented Double Scott Farm of Princeton, W. Va. This extremely thick and muscular ram returned the top-price of the day. This very popular ram sold to Anne Rich of Jersey Shore for $725. The second highest selling Suffolk was another meaty consignment from John Scott which sold to Peter Brummer of Port Royal for $275. The 12 Suffolks offered for sale sold for an average of $235.

The two outstanding Hampshire rams sold were consigned by Tom Nickeson and Everett Hampshires and sold to Laura Feeney of Groton, NY for $375 and William Edward Brown of Hershey for $275, respectively.

The Oxford ram consigned by Amy Sue Eshelman sold to Wayne Smith of Wyalusing for $150.

The Katahdin bred by Jason Leslie sold to William Gregor of Julian for $100. The last ram in the sale was the Shropshire consigned by Wey Shropshires of Kutztown, which sold to Amy Carper of James Creek for $150.

The sale then proceeded to offer 28 purebred invitational ewes. Twenty-four of these ewes were lambs with only four yearlings included in the offering. Every ewe offered was purchased by a new owner. The average price received for these 28 ewes was $200, which elevated this sale into the category of one of the best sales conducted since the inception of Pennsylvania's sheep performance testing programs.

For more information about Pennsylvania's performance testing programs or the ram sale, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College PA 16803, (814-238-2527. To send a fax or leave a message, call (814) 865-5857.

Agri-Tech Prep 2000 Prepares Students For Ag Careers

LINDA GOODWIN
Bachelor Of Technology Intern
State University of New York

By creating a seamless transition from high school to college, the Agri-Tech Prep (ATP) 2000 curriculum gives students an early start on their careers. The coordinated four-year program combines the last two years in high school with an associate degree program at the SUNY College of Agriculture and Technology at Cobleskill, or Morrisville, or at the SUNY College of Technology at Alfred.

ATP 2000 programs at SUNY Cobleskill include: Agricultural Business, Agricultural Engineering Technology, Ornamental Horticulture, Agricultural Science, Diesel Technology, Plant Science, Fisheries and Wildlife Technology, Environmental Studies and Animal Science.

Dr. MacDonald Holmes, dean of the Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources at SUNY Cobleskill, is the ATP 2000 project director and SUNY Cobleskill has been the lead agency in the consortium. However, faculty members from SUNY Morrisville and SUNY Alfred have contributed equally to developing the ATP 2000 curriculum. SUNY Cobleskill Agricultural Engineering Professor Terry Hughes is the statewide ATP 2000 project coordinator. He is also currently serving as co-chair of the second New York State Tech Prep Conference, to be held Oct. 23 and 24 in Albany.

The project was originally funded by a grant from the federal Carl D. Perkins Act.

The ATP 2000 program is designed to motivate participants to attend college by providing them with focused, goal-oriented activities which stimulate early interest in a career. This involves parents, students, teachers, school administrators, business and industry leaders, college faculty members and State Education Department leaders. It is hoped that through the ATP 2000 program, the middle 50 percent of high school students who might be thinking of college, without full knowledge of what a higher education might mean for them, will be encouraged to further pursue their education.

The ATP 2000 curriculum was based upon a survey done by Cornell University to identify needs of students. According to Bill Ransom, agricultural educator at Greenville High School, the ATP 2000 course content was developed to address those needs in the changing environment of the agricultural industry.

Through ATP 2000, applied mathematics, science, communications and technologies are built into vocational agriculture at the high school level. All school districts in the state have been targeted with the message that many more opportunities exist in agriculture and agribusiness than most people could possibly imagine. Dr. Daryle Foster, director of instructional materials service at Cornell, believes that students who have never considered a career in agriculture will do so when they see how closely it is tied to other fields.

Holmes said ATP 2000 is an ambitious project with several dimensions. "I feel it has created an awareness of agriculture for high school science, math and English teachers — that agriculture is a science worthy of their consideration," Holmes said.

A work experience at a local business is also part of the program, which helps provide an important balance between theory and real-world learning. Ben Conte, agriculture teacher at St. Johnsville Central School, said "the gist of the program is for the students to be somewhere, see what's going on and gain some work experience." Employers desire new employees with former work experiences.

Statistics show there are about three job openings for every one of the agriculture graduates from SUNY's two-year colleges. Many employers are looking for individuals with job-related, technical skills in all agricultural areas. By encouraging more high school students to enroll in an agricultural college curriculum, employers will have a larger group of highly trained college graduates from which to choose.

Sandra White from Greenville, a first semester agricultural business student at SUNY Cobleskill, said ATP 2000 helped her understand that "ag is not just farms, but is also businesses, mechanics, financial management and more." White said the ATP 2000 curriculum helped her make the decision as to the area in which to pursue a career.

Kevin Smith of Verona, a first semester student in animal science, said the ATP 2000 program helped him a lot. The biggest advantage pertained to how "it made me more aware of different systems in aquaculture," Smith said.

Israel Handy of St. Johnsville, who will be entering SUNY Cobleskill as a first semester student in January 1995, said the ATP 2000 program "made me more confident in what I could do."

The reaction to the ATP 2000 curriculum from Sue Krause, a non-agriculture teacher at one of the pilot schools, was also very positive. She said, "Going through the program as a non-ag teacher, I had the chance to see how relevant agriculture is to other disciplines. I now know how many job areas agriculture touches, and how many jobs it creates." The ATP 2000 program "gives students a place to apply what they learn, instead of just learning theory," she said.

The ATP 2000 program has been so successful that in this fourth year the project is expanding to include 35 to 40 schools in the state. The program not only serves the needs of agribusiness, but also focuses on the importance of higher education for all students. Critical thinking skills — learning the why as well as the how to — is an important part of the nationwide Tech Prep movement. Ransom feels educators have to make dramatic changes in the way they teach. He says critical thinking skills are what students need most.

Richard Lutz, from the Southwest Vermont Career Development Center in Bennington, heard about the ATP 2000 program and attended the 1994 In-Service Seminar hosted by SUNY Cobleskill in July. Lutz said many schools in Vermont are interested in implementing the ATP 2000 program with SUNY Cobleskill.

Emu Association Elects Officers

DALLAS, Texas—Bettye L. Odle, owner of the Outback Bird Company, Flower Mound, Texas, has been elected president of the 6,000-member American Emu Association (AEA) at its fifth annual convention and exposition in Nashville. Other officers and directors for 1994-1995 represent six states from the AEA's 30 state and regional affiliates.

Odle, 47, who raises hundreds of the tall, flightless birds, is recognized for her efforts to establish the emu as a viable agribusiness during previous terms as vice president and president of the Texas Emu Association, which has about 2,500 Emu ranchers or farmers. Emu raising is one of the fastest growing and most dynamic agribusinesses in the nation, with a significant interest being shown internationally.

Also holding national leadership positions are Vice President Ralph Benton, Grotee Coyotee Outpost Ranch, Elkhart, Texas; Treasurer Scott Morgan, Saguaro Springs Ranch, Tucson, Ariz.; and Secretary Ed Benhardt, Twin Spruce Bird Ranch, Reardon, Wash. New directors include Mike Adkinson, Talking Rock, Ga.; Bert Hall, Locust Grove, Okla.; Jody Lewis, Richland Springs, Texas; Tony Newell, Ashland City, Tenn.; Chuck Powell, West Point, Ga; Bernard Redlawsk, Etters, Pa; and past president Joan Taylor, Camp Wood, Texas.

Odle, a Texas Tech University graduate, was vice president-sales and marketing and a partner in Sutton Mills, Inc., a custom rug manufacturing business in Dallas before becoming an emu rancher in 1989.

"Our key objectives are organization, education and promotion, in that order," she said. "We must enhance the state affiliate structure and improve interaction at various levels. Education for those within and outside the emu industry also is very important.

"A key objective is to re-energize the association's collaboration with universities in research and product development and to help the industry to transition from a breeders' market to a commercial market nationally.

CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!

"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"

With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.

about 10,000 bu. cap.
Shelled Corn
Poured Concrete
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.

To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.

Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.

BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...

To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

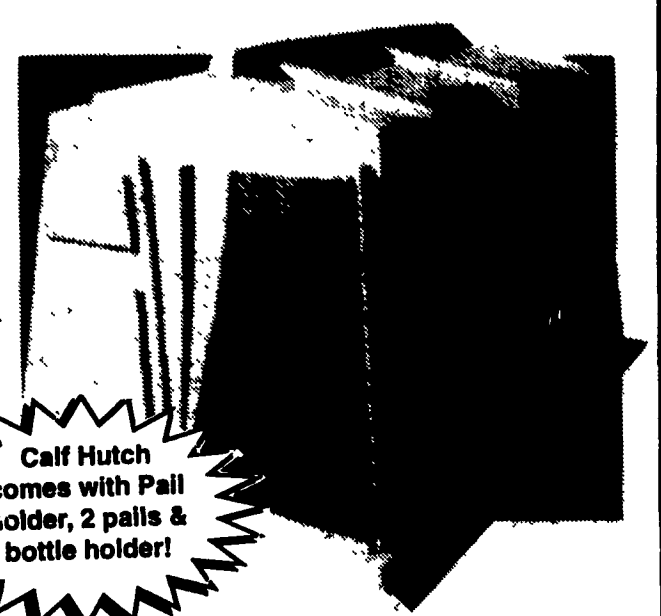
SUPREME CALF HUTCH

J&D MOLDED HIGH DENSITY-POLYETHYLENE CALF HUTCH

J&D Calf Hutches will keep calves drier in the winter, they will stay warmer and start eating at an earlier age. During the warm summer months you can use the standard, adjustable air vent to control the climate in the Calf Hutch. Your calves will be healthier and will grow faster. You may add an out door fence area to the hut.



Calf Hutch comes with Pail holder, 2 pails & bottle holder!

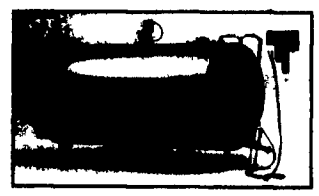
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

INTRODUCING...

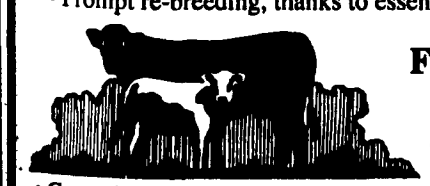
SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Registered Highland Cattle

- Discover the breed that still retains special traits acquired from its ancestors of Scotland.
- Great foragers, clearing most pest plants common to poor pastures
- Thrive in cold, damp climates
- Produce excellent lean beef in adverse conditions where other cattle would fail
- Docile and Hearty
- Calve easily due to small birth weights—something of interest to dairy people for servicing first-calf heifers
- Brucellosis, TB, BVD free herd and inoculated against rabies

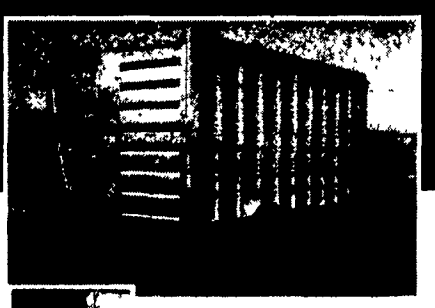
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

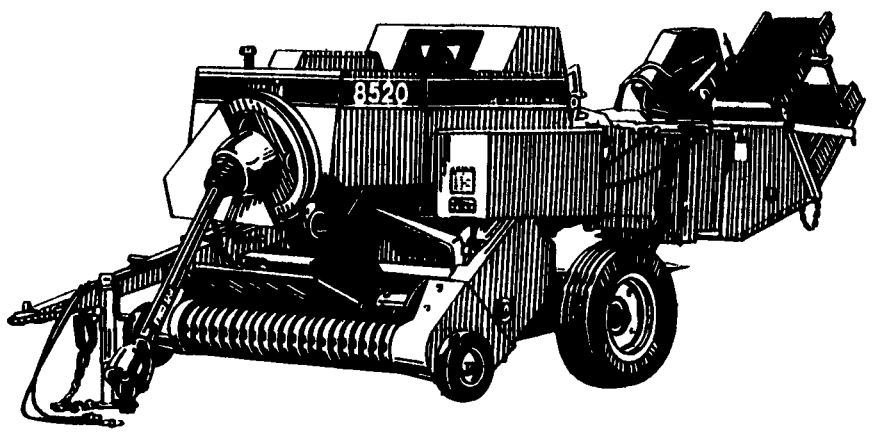
OUTSTANDING BALER PERFORMANCE MEANS GREATER NUTRITION AT AN ECONOMICAL PRICE



Case International 8520/8530 Rectangular Balers

These two balers both feature the Case IH center line design. Eliminates turning corners with the crop to get it into the bale chamber, as is common with conventional designs. This saves valuable protein-rich leaves. Also saves time because you don't have to change from field to road position for transport.

Other outstanding features are:

- Low-profile baler design provides excellent visibility to the rear of the baler.
- Low-profile pickup... reduces crop lifting height, saving nutritious leaves
- Hay goes straight into the unique prepacker chamber... regardless of windrow size... for uniform flake and bale density

Susquehanna 4-H Show Held At Reedsville

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

REEDSVILLE, (Mifflin Co.) —"These cows will go on to take a lot of competition at the State Show," predicted Steve Shaw, Williamsburg, type show judge at the Susquehanna District 4-H Dairy Show.

In a slight change from last year's selection of a supreme champion animal, Judge Shaw was asked to instead select grand and reserve champion Best Bred and Owned animals. Dianne Glock of Mifflin, Juniata County, took grand champion Best Bred and Owned top honor with her five-year-old Holstein, Walnut-Hills Astro Brigette, sired by Bridon Astro Jet-ET. A Junior 2-year-old Jersey owned by Lisa Heimbach of Snyder County earned the reserve champion Best Bred and Owned award.

Over 159 dairy animals were exhibited by youth from ten central Pennsylvania counties, including Centre, Clinton, Juniata, Lycoming, Mifflin, Montour, Northumberland, Perry, Snyder, and Union. The show was sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service in each of the 10 counties along with volunteer help from 4-H club leaders and county agents. Dave Lentz of Lebanon judged for showmanship and Craig Williams of Wellsboro was the fitting judge.

Grand champion in the 102 animal Holstein show went to Rachel Tanis of Centre Hall, Centre County, with her Senior 3-year-old, a cow that judge Shaw said puts it all together. "She's a solid cow all the way through," Shaw said after selecting the champion animals. Ryan Connelly of Pennsylvania Furnace, Centre County, took reserve champion of the show with his four-year-old, Fairbrook Farms Mark Pat, sired by Waldo Omen Olga Chiefmark-ET. Dianne Glock's five-year-old Walnut Hills Astro Brigette received honorable mention in the line-up.

In the Guernsey show, the only entry took junior and grand champion. Denae Johnson of Lewisburg, Union County, showed her Winter Calf, Cloverdale Orange Supreme, sired by Nells Glow Admiral Magic. Earning a blue ribbon as well, it qualifies for the state show.

Melissa Wolfe of Riverside, Northumberland County, entered the only two Milking Shorthorn and received grand champion honors with her summer yearling, Whites Laura Sue 8th, sired by Whites Big Time Ridgeway. Her other summer yearling earned reserve grand champion, qualifying both for the state show.

Fifteen dairy animals competed in the Brown Swiss show. Lauren Daubert of McElhattan, Clinton County, won grand champion with her Senior 2-year-old, Victory Acres Even Trisha. Her cow was also named Best Bred and Owned animal. A Senior 3-year-old took the reserve grand champion position. It is owned by Charles Liner of Port Matilda, Centre County. Junior champion honors went to Tammi Deibler of Boalsburg, Centre County, with her Winter Calf Victory Acres Prest Lace. Reserve junior champion honors went to a summer yearling owned by Jeremy Daubert of McElhattan, Clinton County.

Averin Donough of Port Royal, Juniata County, competed against 28 other Jerseys to win grand champion with his for-year-old, Lu-Eve Top Notch Babes Milestone. A Junior 2-year-old took reserve grand champion honors. It is owned by Lisa Heimbach of Mt. Pleasant Mills, Snyder County. Her cow, Dare-E-Land Brass T Linda, was also selected as the Best Bred and Owned Jersey animal

Junior champion of the Jersey show went to Jennifer Kellerman of Centre Hall, Centre County, and her spring calf, Four Spring Prosper Prill. Kellermen also exhibited the reserve junior champion animal, a spring yearling named Four Springs Admiral Abby.

LOOK FOR THE PURE POWER ALTERNATIVE

BOUMATIC MILKING SYSTEMS
Total Dairy System

The Bou-Matic® Air-Star™ vacuum pump uses rotary displacement technology to create vacuum, so it uses much less oil for internal lubrication and doesn't consume oil like the oil-vane vacuum pumps. This pure power sure beats the messy alternative... oil-vane vacuum pumps that spew oil through the exhaust creating a hazardous, messy build-up near your pump exhaust.

So help clean up the environment and save money with Bou-Matic's pure power alternative, the Air-Star vacuum pump.

163 Entries Compete For Top Spots

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Angus breeders from across the nation displayed 163 entries at the 47th Annual American Angus Breeders' Futurity at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville, Ky. Judge Charlie Boyd II and associate judge Charles Boyd Sr., both of Mays Lick, Ky., evaluated the cattle on August 1-2.

Mengs Miss Skymere 78B was named the show's supreme champion. She earned the grand champion female award on her way to the title. She is a January 1992 daughter of Leachman Prompter and was shown by Will Meng, Bowling Green, Ky. The entry first topped the senior divisior.

Reserve grand champion female honors were presented to W C C Blackcap C9. The January 1993 daughter of S S Traveler 6T6 was also chosen early junior champion. The owners of this reserve champion are Twin Valley Farms, Prattsville, Ala., and Wilson Cattle Company, Cloverdale, Ind.

Topping the bull entries was Whitestone Fly Traveler 3006. He is a January 1993 son of Hoff Hi Flyer S C 7134 and was first named early junior champion. The entry is jointly owned by Whitestone Farm, Aldie, Va.; Bonner Farms, Flintville, Tenn.; and New Zealand Syndicate, Aldie, Va.

CAF Beau Max 7782 earned the reserve grand champion bull title. The senior champion is owned by Conley Angus Farm, Clarksdale, Mo.; Sam and Sharon Brown, Lena, Miss.; and Mrs. Douglass Campbell, Groton, Mass. He is a January 1992 son of R&J Maxima.

Urges Meat Industry To Focus On Consumers

CHICAGO, Ill. — If you were the head of marketing for the meat industry, which of the following strategies should you choose as your blueprint for success?

Should you embrace Strategy A and strive to serve almost all consumers, be very opportunistic, hate to lose a sale, design products to serve multiple consumers, and strive to find new markets for existing products?

Or, should you embrace Strategy B and serve only those consumers who fit with industry capabilities, intentionally ignore other consumers, pursue only a few growth opportunities, develop new products only for existing customers, and give consumers what they want, but no more?

If you chose Strategy A, you'd be in the company of many top executives. As more than 500 meat industry leaders attending Demand Strategies here recently found out, however, the mass-market appeal of Strategy A is the wrong choice.

"In today's world, there is no such thing as a mass market," according to Stephen Burnett, professor of strategic management at Northwestern University J.L. Kellogg Graduate School of Management. "Consumers are segmented into diverse groups, and their needs and wants are different. So a focused, single strategy designed to serve all customers is doomed."

Instead, Burnett urged marketers to take what he called the "S-T-P" approach. First, cluster groups of customers into strategically significant segments ("S"). Then target ("T") these segments and develop unique strategies for each one. Finally, plan ("P") an integrated marketing approach that truly serves each segment's needs.

Burnett says the first step — segmentation — is the easiest. Simply compile appropriate demographic information, such as age, social class, income or lifestyle choice, until you have a large, strategically significant group that can be targeted profitably. "Today, buyer behavior is used a lot in segmentation," Burnett said, "because what matters most is not so much who those customers are, but why they buy."

The next step — targeting the strategically significant group — is not as easy. "The natural tendency is to target the most attractive customers," Burnett said. "But remember — your competitors are doing the same thing, which means you'll have to compete on price and that's not so attractive. You have to define a group that you are really able to serve."

Once a group is targeted, it's time to plan the integrated marketing strategy, and Burnett used real-life successes and failures to illustrate consumer-driven marketing strategies.

A few years ago, Burnett said, the Gerber Products Company, the baby food maker, became concerned about declining birth rates. In an effort to expand its product base, it developed a new product that targeted adults who lived alone, a growing category with a wide age group. The result: a single-serving meal from a jar called 'Singles by Gerber.'

"The first lessons in the S-T-P model are to segment and target — and Gerber did that," Burnett said. "But it failed to fully consider another critical concept: looking at your product through the eyes of your consumer. Despite the company's reputation for quality, consumers simply couldn't shake the notion that Gerber was a baby food company.

"Then along came 'Lean Cuisine' from Stouffer, a product targeting the same market, and it hit. 'Lean' is considered 'healthy'; if you're going to eat alone, 'cuisine' sounds better than 'single'; and consumers equate frozen with freshness. Stouffer and consumers hooked up."

Burnett concluded his presentation by urging every member of the meat industry — from producers to retailers — to make every decision with the consumer in mind. "You must realize that what you think of your product doesn't matter," Burnett said. "What matters is what the customer thinks. Great marketers learn how the customer thinks and feels, and they base every action, every decision, on that knowledge."

Demand Strategies is an annual look at the latest meat consumer market research. Demand Strategies is sponsored by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

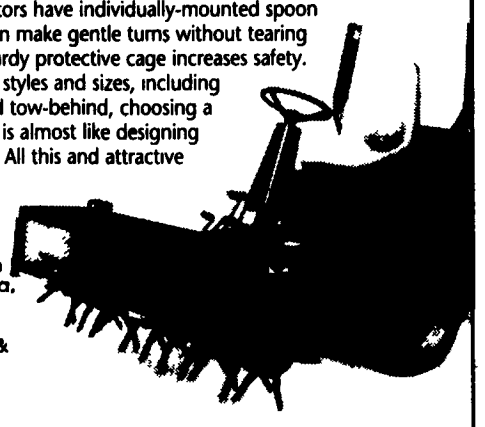
Put a Front-Mount Millcreek Aerator on Your Commercial Mower.

Get more production and profitability from your John Deere, Ford, Kubota or Excel Hustler up-front mowers by attaching a front mount Millcreek core plug aerator.

Millcreek aerators have individually-mounted spoon wheels so you can make gentle turns without tearing turf. And our sturdy protective cage increases safety.

With so many styles and sizes, including 3-point hitch and tow-behind, choosing a Millcreek aerator is almost like designing one for yourself. All this and attractive pricing too. Call today for your free information.



- Fits Ford, John Deere, Kubota, Excel Hustler
- 42", 63", 84"
- 3-point hitch & tow-behind models
- Economy Models Also
- Individual spoon wheels

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Case IH For You!

NEW TOUGHNESS OLD-FASHIONED DURABILITY

When the Case International 3800 Tandem Disk Harrow was introduced, it combined real improvements with the quality features of the 350, 370 and 475.

For instance, a 1½ inch round arbor bolt at the heart of every gang assembly. Or consider the spring-cushion, self-leveling hitch. And, you'll disk confidently all day long using the mechanical depth control.

2 Sizes: 10'9" And 12' Models With Rock Flex Bearing Hangers

There's nothing more important to a crop than early even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a funciton of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheels and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers. Grass seeding attachment for 16x7.

Model 1680 PIT PAL®

AGITATES — PIT PAL's heavy duty pump has the power to agitate a pit, mixing those heavy bottom solids into a pumpable slurry.
CHOPS — PIT PAL'S unique intake-port design provides constant chopping action — up to 5,000 'shearing action' cuts per minute. This cutting action guarantees that straw and fiberous material will be chopped into a pumpable form.
PUMPS — PIT PAL'S handy gate valve permits agitating and/or pumping of 'under-barn' or outdoor manure pits. PIT PAL is portable, giving you the flexibility to use it in many locations.
LOADS — Load your slurry wagon by combining your PIT PAL to force feed a vacuum tank or over the top with a load stand.
PRIMES — PIT PAL will operate as a priming system for your high pressure irrigation pump.

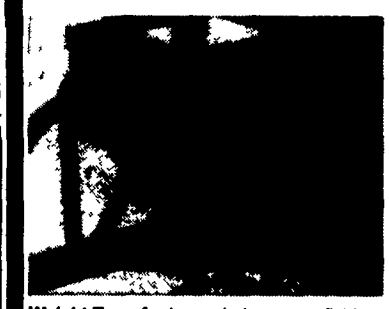
Farm Plan

Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Has A Culti-Mulcher With Quality Features

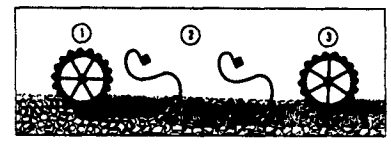


Weight Transfer is needed on some fields for best mulching results. Unique Farmhand system allows weight to be distributed between the front and rear rollers and the draw bar as needed.

Bearings on torsion-mounted hangers and roller tool bars combine with split roller axles to isolate shock loads. Up to 12 triple-lip sealed, self-aligning ball bearings are used on the main frame of each machine.

Complete Seedbed Preparation in One Pass

Here is how Farmhand Mulchers prepare perfect seedbeds in a single pass. (1) Surface clods are crushed into small particles by the front rollers. (2) Buried clods are then brought to the surface by two rows of looped "C" tines or Danish vibrating tines. (3) The rear set of rollers crumbles these clods, firms the seedbed, presses out the air pockets and leaves a fine seedbed for planting.



Mulching Makes You Money

Mulching your soil gives you better yields in two ways. First, loosely packed seedbeds with many clods allow moisture to evaporate quickly through the air pockets. Lost moisture reduces the speed of germination and gives your crops a less efficient start. Mulching creates a finer, clod-free seedbed with few air pockets and gives your crop a uniform start throughout the field. Moisture rises at just the right rate from the water table below to the seedbed.

Secondly, the small roots of sprouting seeds need a ready supply of soil nutrients. Feeder root systems of small plants in poorly prepared seedbeds cannot break through the clods and reach out for nourishment. Mulched soil allows the feeder roots to reach out in all directions. Thus, nourishment flows through the roots to build strong, fast-growing plants that give you better yields.

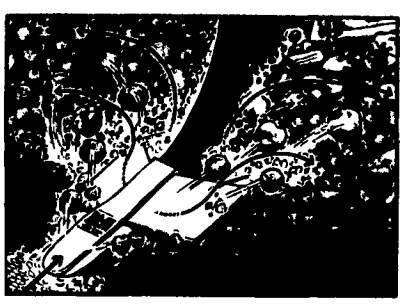
CONSERVATION TILLAGE SYSTEMS

Whether you are concerned about SOIL COMPACTION or RESIDUE MANAGEMENT

DMI

ECOLOTIL TILLAGE SYSTEMS Solve Your Problems!!!



DMI's Patented Point Makes The Difference

ECOLOTIL SYSTEMS

DMI SYSTEM	Min. HP Required
3 Shank Ecolotil	80
5 Shank Ecolotil	130
527 Ecolotiger	130
530 Ecolotiger	170
703 Ecolotiger	250

Each of these machines can be equipped to meet your particular needs. Your choices include shank style, shank arrangement, coulters/ discs, rear levelers or point style.

Soil Compaction is a problem on every farm we've checked. Breaking up the compaction layer

1) decreases soil run-off in wet years, by permitting water to percolate into the subsoil

2) makes room for plant roots systems to seek and find moisture in dry years

YOUR FIELDS PRODUCE MORE CROPS...

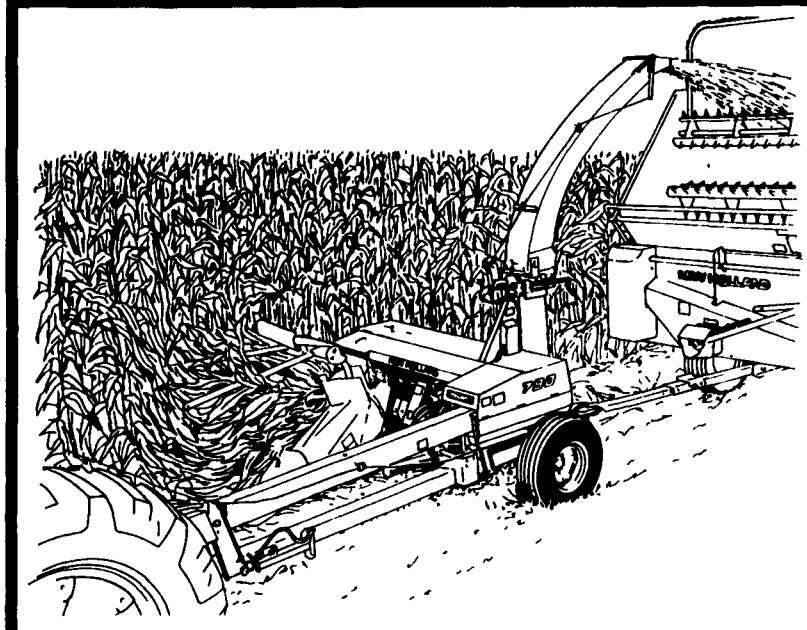
RELIABLE PERFORMANCE



SEASON AFTER SEASON

The high performance of the Model 790 forage harvester starts with the massive 12-knife cutterhead. It delivers a fine, uniform chop for high-quality feed. Built tough to keep chopping season after season. And easy routine maintenance keeps hassles to a minimum.

Stop in and see for yourself.

FIVE REASONS TO COVER YOUR FEED WITH

instead of black construction film...

FEATURE

♦ DESIGN
Bunker Cover:	Application Specific - Designed exclusively for FEED STORAGE.	• Increased Feed Quality Over Conventional Black Plastic Covering
Black Plastic:	Designed for short-term use in CONSTRUCTION applications	• Increased Profitability of Bunker Storage Over Conventional Black Plastic Covering
♦ MATERIAL CONSTRUCTION
Bunker Cover:	2 outer white layers, 1 inner black layer bonded toogether.	• Increased Strength
Black Plastic:	Solid black layer, absorbs and transfers all heat into feed.	• Increased Product Life • Less Labor Required to Install
♦ OUTER WHITE LAYERS
Bunker Cover:	Reflects harmful sunlight and heat from the feed being stored	• Reduced Nutritional Loss Due to Heating
♦ INNER BLACK LAYER
Bunker Cover:	Provides a natural barrier against sunlight penetration.	• Prevents Nutritional Losses Due to Bleaching
Black Plastic:	Provides barrier for sunlight penetration but not heat transfer responsible for feed loss due to carmelization.	• Assists in Maintaining Feed Quality
♦ ULTRAVIOLET PROTECTION PACKAGE
Bunker Cover:	U.V protection from the sun to withstand exposure for 1 year.	• Increased Performance Life of Product

HESSTON AGCO THE PRIME LINE

When you're doing high-capacity haying, our Hesston 1160 Hydro Swing Mower Conditioner gets right down to business.

We built it with a center-pivot design that gives you all the benefits of a self-propelled—without the extra expense And it's made for consistent, even cutting

Once you've entered your fields, the 1160's fully engaged 110" conditioner gets to work for fast drying and even, well-conditioned windrows. You can even adjust the forming shields to produce everything from a swath to Hesston's unique fluffy windrow. Whatever the crop conditions, the 1160 tailors itself so you can harvest the highest quality hay and save lots of time in the process

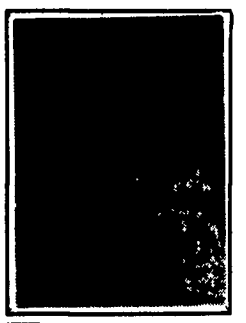
Safe • Efficient • Durable

Look at what makes the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace a great purchase...
CLEAN. All dirt, dust, fuel and fire is outside No chance of chimney fire or flue fire
ELIMINATES AIR POLLUTION IN THE HOME. Smoke, fuel odors and other causes of allergies are outside the home
SAFE FOR MOBILE HOMES. Eliminates danger that other furnaces contained in a mobile home can cause.
NO DANGER OR EXPLOSION. This is a zero pressure furnace.
ENCLOSED COMPONENTS. The circulation pumps and electrical connections are enclosed in an insulated cabinet on the back of the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace
ADAPTABLE. Install our furnace in any forced air heating or hot water system

All Mahoning Units Come Installed with Grates Including An External Shaker Handle



★ The only outdoor furnace made with a Catalytic Combustor. ★

Mahoning Catalytic Combustor Will Help In the Following Ways:
1. Burn one cord of wood which equals 166 gallons of oil.
2. Your fuel source becomes enormous inexhaustible and poses few risks to public safety.
3. Over all efficiency of 85%, which means the heat no longer goes up the chimney!
4. You get more heat from a log compared to the non-cat furnace.
5. More burn time - less reloading time!
6. Zap 90% of pollutants, made from fire source.
7. Saves you a lot of money!
8. User friendly, emits no smoke!

All Mahoning Multi-Fuels Can Burn Coal, Wood, Oil, Propane, Natural Gas

Proudly Built in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania

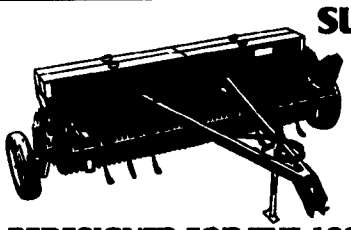
Brillion Great Deals Now On Quality Fall Equipment



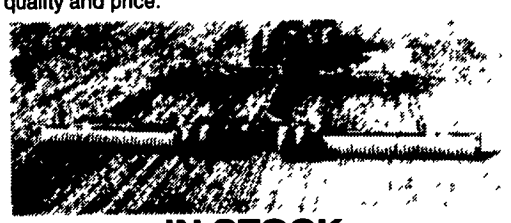
SURE STAND GRASS SEEDERS

SS8, SS10 & SS12

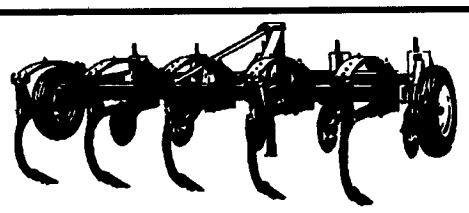
REDESIGNED FOR THE 1990'S
For years, Brillion Grass Seeders have proven to be the best machine for planting grasses and legumes . . . and now they're even better! Larger, heavier boxes, higher seeding rates, nylon lined seed meter, heavier frame, new drive system and more.

IN STOCK
SL10 10 Ft. 3 Point Hitch Precision Seeder
Best Price Before Oct. 1, 94

PULVERIZERS
Crush clods and firm the soil for better contact between seeds and soil.
Brillion has manufactured Pulverizers since 1895 and dominates the market today. Part of that success is because the roller wheels are made in Brillion's own modern foundry. That gives Brillion a big advantage in quality and price.



IN STOCK
21 ft. X-Fold Pulverizer
23 ft. X-Fold Pulverizer
14 ft. P Series Transport Pulverizer
Best Price Before Oct. 1, 94



DEEP TILLS
Penetrate the soil as deep as 18 inches to break up plow sole and hardpan
Moisture from snow and rain is absorbed deep into the soil. Topsoil is left rough and a certain amount of residue remains to combat wind and erosion. Deep Tills are available in widths of 7'6" to 27'6" with optional coulters for cutting residue.

IN STOCK
BTS-3 3 Shank Automatic Reset Deep Till
Sale $2,900 Good Through Oct. 1, 94

FLAIL SHREDDERS

Cup or Side Slicer Knives

have the best heavy-duty gearboxes in the industry! Gearbox failure is virtually eliminated.

Brillion's Flail Shredder leaves a fine chopped residue that decomposes faster, helps control insects, absorbs moisture and helps prevent wind and water erosion They're available in 12 and 15 foot widths. 540 or 1000 RPM.

IN STOCK
BFSC 1805 15 ft. Flail Shredder with Optional Extras
Sale $7,990 Good Through Oct. 1, 94

JAGUAR 690/685/682 SL, 682 S

High quality feed means satisfied customers for you

Your JAGUAR provides for a good quality of chop and forage break-down. You supply first rate basic feed. And your customers rely on it.

Precisely chopped, efficiently harvested with all the kernels broken down — this is how top quality silage has to be.

Looking for a better combine?

Look to Massey Ferguson first.

Ever since Massey Ferguson introduced the very first self-propelled combine, they've been the preferred choice of some of the world's most demanding customers.

It's a legacy of which we're extremely proud. And it's an obligation we take very seriously. The new MF 8450 and 8460 combines are a proud addition to this Massey Ferguson tradition for quality, performance and reliability.

Plus they offer exciting new features that demonstrate the continuing Massey Ferguson commitment to providing you with the best value in combines.

IT PAYS TO FEED PURINA

In January of 1993, Joe Brechbill of New Paris, Bedford County, PA decided to try Purina's Maxi-Tech 40 program to improve his breeding and overall herd health. DHIA numbers are listed below for the past year and a half on Purina:

Date	RHA	BF	Protein	*IDFC	Services/ Conception	Calving Interval
12/92	19580	687	619	1560	2.7	13.6
7/94	22040	731	671	1926	1.6	12.9
	+2460	+44	+52	+366

 milk price dropped $.59/cwt over this period*

Not only did Joe's breeding improve dramatically over the last 19 months but milk production also increased by 2460 pounds over the same period. Joe milks 70 cows 3x/day and feeds a one-group TMR consisting of haylage, corn silage, dry hay, dry shelled corn, barley, and Purina Maxi-Tech 40.

Producer Comments:

- "Overall herd health is much better. Our vet rarely comes to the farm."
- "This is the most expensive feed program I have ever fed, but I have more income left at the end of the year than ever before."

Purina thanks Joe Brechbill for sharing his records and for giving us the opportunity to help him solve his problems and achieve his high production and income goals.

Poultry Ambassador Is Sister To Last Year's Poultry Queen

The Stauffer family stand in front of the poultry houses where they raise 22,000 broilers. The family is active in promoting the poultry industry. Michele is both Lancaster County and Pennsylvania Poultry Ambassador. Her sister Melissa was last year's Poultry Queen for both the county and state. Kneeling from left are Michele and Janelle. Standing are Melissa, Lucy, and Clark.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Clark Stauffer farm is producing more than chickens, vegetables, pigs, and the innovative technology for which it has been noted. For two years in a row, the poultry spokesperson for the industry has been chosen from the Stauffer farm.

Michele Stauffer is the Pennsylvania Poultry Ambassador. Last year it was Melissa Stauffer who was named Pennsylvania Poultry Queen.

"It's a title change but the responsibilities are basically the same," said Guy Martin, committee chairperson for the Lancaster County Poultry Association. After years of crowning a queen to represent the industry, the poultry board decided to drop the pageant and the queen title because prospective candidates had negative reactions to appearing in a pageant. Instead, the board annually will select an ambassador to represent the industry.

"By having an ambassador, males will have the opportunity to promote the industry," Martin said.

Seventeen-year-old Michele, a senior at Ephrata High School, will represent both county and state poultry industries. She will appear at poultry functions, fairs, and take the poultry story to elementary schools.

"My sister often talked about how much she enjoyed being poultry queen," Michelle said. "Plus my teacher said that I'm pretty good at public speaking so I thought I'd enjoy being the ambassador."

Scope Of Poultry Research At Facility Includes Studies Of Human Disease

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — What do studies into the human disease — osteoporosis — and chicken bones have in common?

Penn State.

With the aid of the university's $6 million Poultry Education and Research Center, scientists are using the study of how chicken bones are formed and break down to gather insights into how older humans come down with the disease called osteoporosis.

(Simply put, osteoporosis effects thousands of older age people each year. It is a condition where bones become fragile and brittle.)

Dr. Roland Leach, Penn State professor of nutrition and poultry science, who conducted the tour last month during the university's Ag Progress Days, spoke about the facility's ongoing research efforts in the field of osteoporosis.

"We're living longer and we're getting diseases of aging," he told the 30 visitors during the first tour. "Osteoporosis is a serious disease of aging, particularly for women after menopause."

Northeast Poultry Show Sept. 28-29

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — One of the country's leading authorities on rodent control will be on hand at this year's Northeast Poultry Show, to be held Sept. 28-29 here at the Lancaster Host Resort.

Dr. Dave Henzler, USDA, will make a presentation on ways in which poultry producers can control rodents on Wednesday, Sept. 28 in the Exhibit Hall at 2 p.m.

On Thursday, Sept. 29 Dr. Jim Arends, North Carolina State University, will discuss the control of darkling beetles.

Keynote speaker for the conference includes Sheilah Kast,

Michelle is especially looking forward to helping with Ag in the Classroom. In this program, she will tell children about raising chickens, turkeys, and eggs and the importance of including these products in their diets.

Michelle is a peppy, enthusiastic teen-ager who recently has had to make major adjustments to her schedule. She tore a knee ligament during a school volleyball match on September 1. The tear will require total ligament reconstruction surgery, which means no sports for probably nine to 12 months. That means that Michelle can no longer play volleyball although she can continue her responsibilities as team captain. The recuperation period will also hinder her participation on the school softball team on which she played for two years. She can no longer be a waitress at her part-time job at the Cloister Restaurant.

But the injury does have some advantages. Michelle said that she can't pick pumpkins for the family's produce stand.

During the growing season, she, her two sisters, and several other teens pick cucumbers, peppers, zucchini, green beans, corn, cantaloupes, and watermelons from the 20 acres of produce. Now, the pumpkin season is in full swing, but Michele can't bend to pick up the pumpkins and carry them.

"The disadvantages of my injury far outweigh the advantages," said Michele who is trying to keep a positive attitude despite the adjustments.

With less time to spend on sports, Michelle will have more time to study and achieve her goal of graduating cum laude in the spring. At school, she carries a full load of business courses, such as accounting II, business law, office procedures, and sales and marketing. She tentatively plans to attend a two-year business school after graduation.

At school, Michele is a member of the National Honor Society and Future Business Leaders of America.

She is vice president of the youth group at Hinkletown Mennonite Church and a chairperson on the fellowship committee.

For three summers, Michele volunteered one week to help build homes for low-income families. The locations of these projects were in Chicago, Kentucky, and West Virginia.

The name of the Stauffer Farm is Indian Run Farm, a 67-acre farm that Clark's father had purchased during the Depression Era. With These goose gourds may not be considered bona-fide poultry, but Michelle promotes them at the family's produce stand. Her mother Lucy dresses some to sell and others are sold plain for customers to dress or display.

This mode of transportation is used when hauling produce from the field to the roadside stand. The three Stauffer sisters take a visitor for a ride. During the growing season, the sisters pick the produce daily and take turns working at the roadside stand.

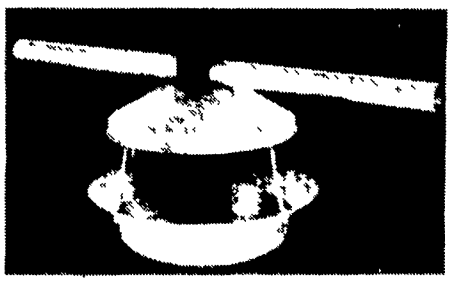
Inside Broiler Facility

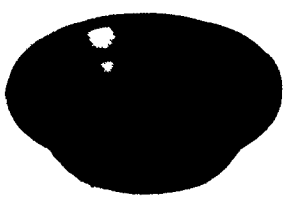
Cumberland

TURKEY PAN FEEDING SYSTEMS



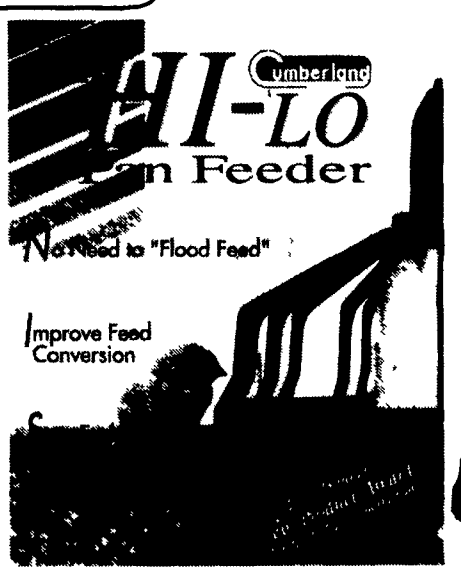
SIMPLY THE LEADER

Cumberland continues being the leader in the manufacturing of poultry equipment by introducing a turkey feeding system for every application. Cumberland's Turkey Feeders have revolutionary features which make them both profitable and easy to maintain for the end customer. Cumberland Feeders deliver feed economically, efficiently, and dependably with savings for the grower. The Cumberland Turkey Pan Feeding System offers a poult turkey pan for young turkeys and two models of adult turkey pans, designed to withstand the rugged treatment of adult turkeys through grow-out.



NEW PLASTIC PAN

Easier to clean. . non-corrosive... lighter... Cumberland's plastic pan for both STF and RTF Adult Pan Feeders features improved structural engineering with stronger support gussets, a more durable and effective "hanger" for cleaning and a unique set of two feed-saving "catch walls" that significantly reduce raking and billout.



A Two-Stage Plan

The first 7-10 days of a broiler's life are critical The eating habits they develop then establish their growth pattern for life

For these very young birds the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder, resting on the house floor, presents a lip height of 2.1" (the average height of traditional "chick lids") Because they can easily and safely get in and out of the pan, they're eating out of the pan from day one

And because the pan needn't be "flooded" they're getting only fresh feed and only as much as they need

Then as the birds grow, and the feed line is raised, the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder E-X-P-A-N-D-S into a 3 5" deep adult bird pan!

The higher wall and feed saver lip prevent waste from raking and billout and cause the birds to eat nearer the outside edge of the pan, assuring a more even, "first in, first out" utilization of feed (which also saves feed and maintains freshness) the adjoining 16-acre farm that the family purchased and the acreage they rent, they have about 100 acres.

They raise 22,000 broilers. The family lives in the home they built on the land and leases the farmhouse and a 500-head hog operation to a tenant farmer.

The Stauffer family is best known locally for its top quality produce that they raise on 20 acres and sell from the produce stand erected on their farm.

The farm has also been publicized nationally for its U.S. geological water quality studies and its composting system. The water studies were discontinued last October from lack of designated funds from the government but the information derived from those studies continues to influence nutrient management. One of the most important experiments on the farm showed that it takes one to one-and-a-half years for excessive amounts of manure to reach the ground water.

While Clark is determined that farmers need to do their part in taking care of ground water and soil, he is disturbed that during the winter, fertilizer is dumped on icy roads and driveways indiscriminately.

According to Clark, a fertilizer company told him that they sold more fertilizer during February than they sold in a whole year to farmers.

"You know who they are going to blame for this when it starts showing up in the ground water?" a frustrated Clark said of the public's outcry in blaming the Chesapeake Bay's pollution on farmers.

The farm is a popular place for international leaders who have agricultural interests. They visit it to see the expert conservation methods that the Stauffers use and the composting system that Clark devised. The composting system shows how easily and inexpensively waste can be converted to compost.

Dead chickens from the poultry houses are disposed in one of the four adjacent composting bins erected near the poultry houses. Stauffer throws about three shovelfuls of poultry manure on top of the dead chickens each day. Water is not added. It takes about three weeks to fill one bin before it is topped with manure and allowed to go through a seven to 10-day heat cycle that reaches 150 degrees. After the heat drops to about 100 degrees, the bin's contents are dumped into an adjacent bin where it completes another heat cycle. The dumping aerates the compost to activate the bacteria. At the end of the second heat cycle, the composting is complete and ready to be spread on the fields. No additional fertilizer is needed on the farmland.

"You can't get any animal that is more efficient than a broiler," Clark said. Feed conversion can go as low as 1.83 to a pound of weight gain. It takes about six weeks and three days to raise a flock from start to finish compared with the 14 weeks required when the Stauffers first began raising broilers for the market.

With so many responsibilities in the field and helping at the produce stand, Michelle's chores in the poultry houses is relegated to helping dump the baby chicks from the boxes whenever a new batch arrives at the farm.

Here are two of her favorite recipes.

HONEY BAKED CHICKEN

Mix together:
- ½ cup melted butter
- ½ cup honey
- 2 tablespoons mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon curry powder

Baste a 3-pound fryer or five to six chicken legs with this mixture and continue basting every 15 minutes while baking at 350 degrees for 1¼ hours.

GOLDEN LEMON CHICKEN

4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
1 egg, beaten
All-purpose flour
3 tablespoons butter
1 envelope Lipton Recipe Secrets Golden Herb with Lemon Recipe Soup Mix
1 cup water
4 lemon slices, optional
Hot cooked rice

Dip chicken in egg, then flour. In 12-inch skillet, melt butter and brown chicken over medium heat 4 minutes, turning once. Stir in golden herb with lemon recipe soup mix blended with water; arrange lemon slices on chicken. Bring to a boil, then simmer covered 10 minutes or until sauce is slightly thickened and chicken is done. To serve, arrange chicken and lemon over hot rice, then spoon sauce over chicken. Makes about 4 servings.

The incubator has customized trays which can turn the eggs until hatching. Total capacity of birds at time of incubation is about 1,800 per case, for a total of about 3,400 birds. According to Dr. Roland Leach, right, the trays can be divided to look at separate individual matings for genetic studies.

Scope Of Poultry Research

With the research being conducted at the site by Dr. Carol V. Gay, professor of molecular and cell biology and poultry science, millions of chicken bone cells can be studied — many more than by other researchers, who don't have the chicken bones at hand.

Leach said that there are two types of cells involved in the disease. One type of cell builds the bone and another tears it down. Osteoporosis is what occurs when cells tear the bone down faster than it can be built back up.

"It's a progressive disease. It doesn't happen overnight," said Leach. "Once we're 35 years old, we're on the downhill side as far as our bones are concerned. And when women reach menopause, the slide starts faster, because the estrogen holds back the cells that tear down bones and enhances the cells that build bones."

One day, with the help of this type of Penn State research, a pill may be invented to intercede and allow the bones to stay strong and healthy, according to Leach.

The facility, finished in the spring this year, measures about 50,000 square feet and is equipped with six separate buildings, housing space and equipment for about 15,000 turkeys, broilers, and laying hens. In addition, studies into cholesterol metabolism are under way using quail.

In the fundamental research building, Leach is conducting his own studies into cartilage and its effect on longitudinal bone growth.

Leach said he is doing a study similar to the osteoporosis research.

"I want to be able to intercede," he said. "Certain cells are responsible for much of the crooked legs and the skeletal problems you see out in the broiler pen. We're trying

ABC news correspondent. She will provide up-to-the-minute business and economic news.

Also included will be information on total quality management for meat birds, environmental regulation news, fly control information, a critical examination of Salmonella enteritidis, and a humorous presentation on maintaining family relationships while building a business or career.

Golf enthusiasts can come out a day early (Tuesday, Sept. 27) and enjoy a luncheon and tournament that benefits the Northeast Egg Promotion Coalition.

The annual poultry show features an exhibit hall open free to interested poultry producers or related industries. The show attracts thousands from the Northeast.

The show combines both the Northeast Poultry Conference and Egg Show into one show lasting two days.

The exhibit hall is open free of charge, both afternoons, from noon to 5 p.m.

More than 100 exhibitors and educators will provide information about the latest in poultry technology, products, and services.

Conference fee is $90 and includes meal functions, two morning conferences, and social activities.

A gala harvest reception featuring an abundance and variety of foods will be the grand finale on Thursday, Sept. 29, from 5:30 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

For more information, contact the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation at (717) 652-7530. For exhibit space information, contact "Mac" McLaurin at (202) 296-8248.

FEED CONTROL...
The chain feeding system does not dictate a feeding program. You are in control feeding exactly what is needed, as little or as much as you want when you want.

158"

- Thick manure belts carry waste to the end of the building. Without manure storage in the building, air quality is improved.
- Environmental concerns of today and the future are reduced with this system. Be among the first to be a good neighbor.
- Walkways tie into sides of existing or new building to provide strength.
- Our feed trough fits snugly on the cage. This provides strength, and protects eggs as they move to the egg belt. The straight inner side of the trough also acts as a manure shield.
- Our cage is designed and constructed to control egg roll, significantly reducing crax and chex and providing cleaner eggs.

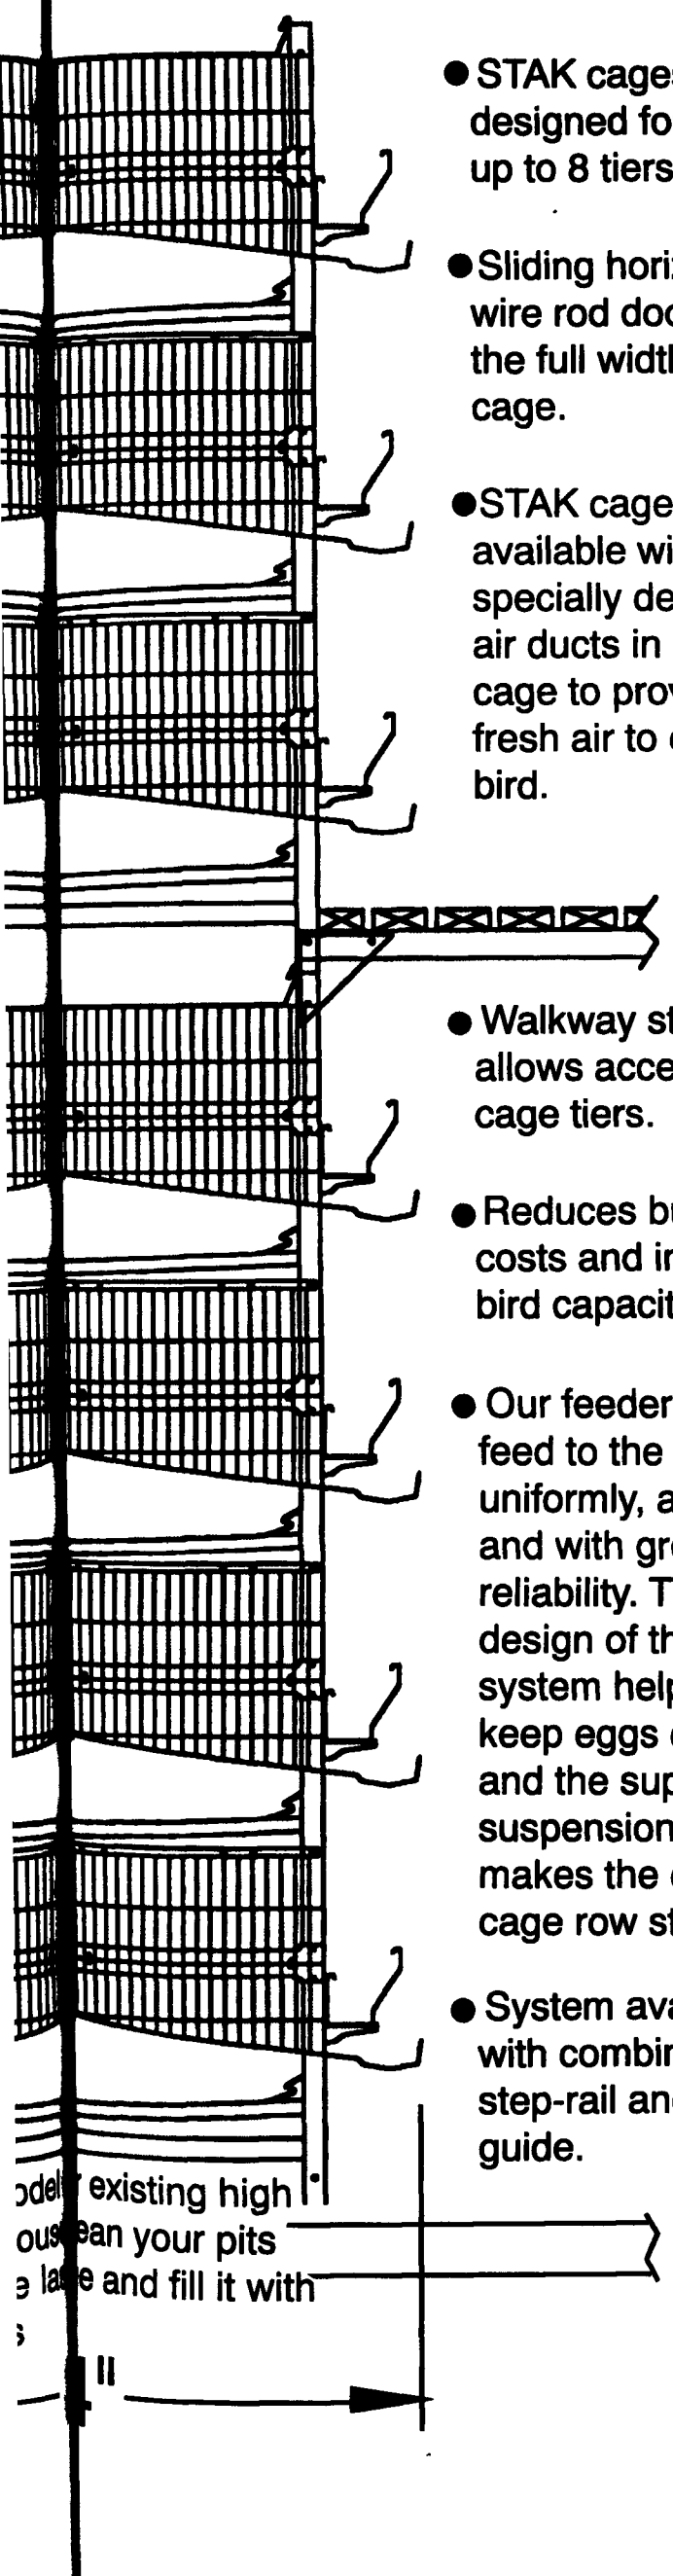
STAK CAGES



- STAK cages are designed for 3 tiers up to 8 tiers high.
- Sliding horizontal wire rod doors open the full width of the cage.
- STAK cages are available with specially designed air ducts in each cage to provide fresh air to each bird.
- Walkway structure allows access to all cage tiers.
- Reduces building costs and increases bird capacity.
- Our feeder delivers feed to the birds uniformly, amply, and with great reliability. The design of the system helps to keep eggs cleaner, and the superior suspension method makes the entire cage row stronger.

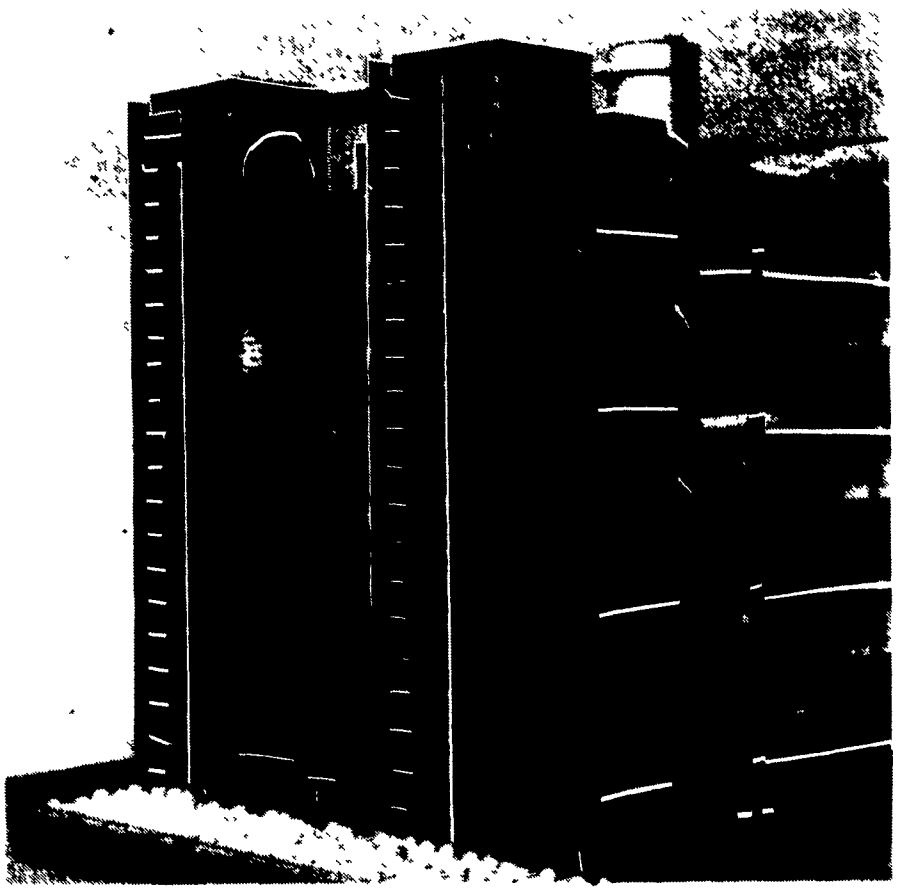
Big Dutchman®

Couple the Big Dutchman cages with a Hershey-designed building and equipment installation and you have an unbeatable combination for service and efficiency. A Hershey system is better ventilated, and has been proven to use less electricity.

Big Dutchman's policy is one of continuous improvement

"PAMPER" EGG COLLECTION ... The Big Dutchman vertical egg collection unit is unsurpassed in pampering eggs.

QUALITY EGG BELT... We offer our standard 3¾ inch woven fabric belts. A shallow "V" shape in the wire egg tray keeps eggs In the center.



DISCHARGE OPTIONS... Eggs can be discharged from the collector below the floor, at floor level, or at a varying height discharge which best suits your house.

PROVEN ROD CONVEYOR... The rod conveyor moves eggs from the collector to the packer with no rolling or colliding. It can move up and down inclines, and is ideal for moving eggs between several houses and the packing room in multi-building farms.

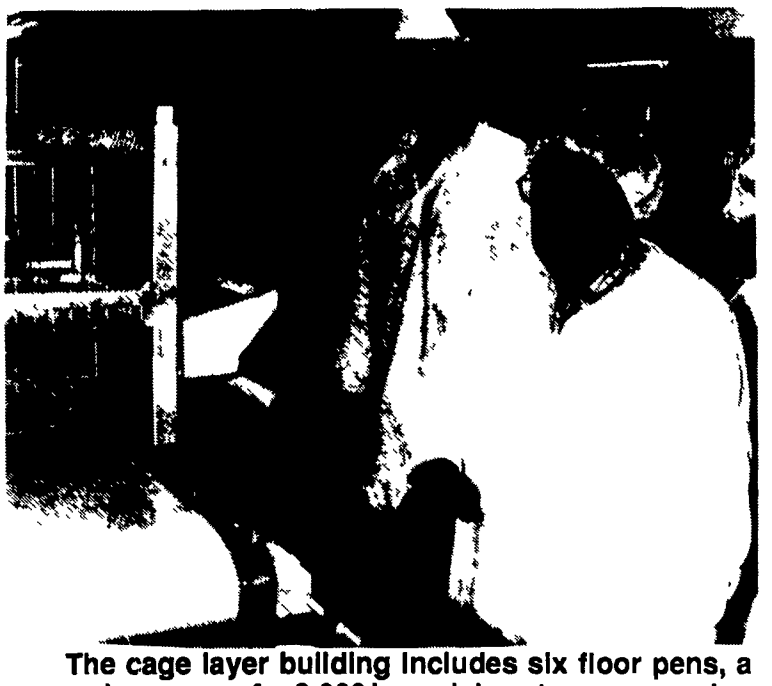
In addition, studies into cholesterol metabolism are under way using quail at the new research center at Penn State.



The cage layer building includes six floor pens, a cage layer room for 3,000 hens, laboratory, egg cooler, processing, and storage. Twenty-four turkey growout pens measure 10 square feet each. Leach, right, speaks to tour group members.

to find out how we can intercede in this through nutrition or environmental management and genetics. How can we minimize this kind of loss?

"Roughly, five percent of losses are due to skeletal decline diseases. They're almost a way of life. We'd like to reduce that fact."

Other studies include ways to reduce the size of the yolk and the cholesterol in an egg, the role of cholesterol in egg metabolism, ways to reduce nitrogen and phosphorous content of manure through feed management, and a host of others.

Month by month, birds are moving into the buildings set aside for them.

Fundamental Research Building

This 8,700 square foot building, with a capacity of 1,000 birds, includes a 12-foot by 16-foot environmental chamber which can also be closely controlled and monitored. This precision monitoring is a factor when checking on certain genetic strains of birds and their growth and health under certain types of conditions.

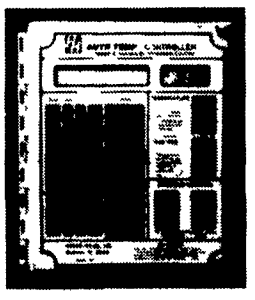
AUTO TEMP
HIRED-HAND
12-Stage Automatic Environment Control

This versatile programmable controller lets you design your own system.

Auto Temp's on-screen program guides you through your options and makes building set-up a breeze

Unique Face Pad design gives a complete picture of the 12-stage set-up and displays whether or not each stage is running



Features

- Temperature reduction by day (ramping)
- Heat/Cool protection (keeps heaters and fans from fighting each other)
- Independently controls from one to six heaters
- Any stage can be programmed for heat or cool
- Up to 6 light cycles
- Timer Fan Control with outside temperature reduction
- Most-used functions are one-touch control
- Capable of 7 inputs and 14 outputs
- Displays temperature in fahrenheit or celsius
- Daily flock information
- Up to 4 timed feed cycles

POWER CURTAIN
HIRED-HAND
5-Stage Curtain & Ventilation Control

This versatile controller with programmable table makes house set-up as easy as A-B-C! Just follow the menu.

COORDINATION & MANAGEMENT
The System 2000 5-Stage Controller will coordinate all functions of your operation It manages your heaters, fans, foggers and curtains (or doors). The system can carry you from negative ventilation (fans and heaters) to natural ventilation (curtains open) to tunnel ventilation automatically

INTEGRATED OPERATION
All operations are integrated into one control system You choose your type of ventilation – tunnel conventional or positive pressure and the System 2000 will do the rest.

Features

- 5 Programmable Stages
- 4 Independent Sensors
- Light Control for Pullets
- House Lighting Control
- Optimum Curtain Adjustment (determined by difference between inside and outside temperature)
- Temperature reduction by day (Ramping)
- Dual Fan Timer Control
- Handles two Power Units independently
- Constantly displays house conditions!
- User Selectable Temperature-dependent Timer

PowerTrak
HIRED-HAND
Automatic System for Curtains, Vents and Doors

A new standard in Power Units is set with the introduction of PowerTrak,™ the second generation of super-strength power pulley systems from Hired-Hand.

Completely redesigned with service in mind, PowerTrak boasts many new performance and durability enhancing features while maintaining the strong points of its popular predecessors, Power Curtain and Power Vent

Features

- Modular construction for ease of service
- 5000 lb capacity
- Built in Head Bracket with needle bearing pulleys
- Channel Lock Trak-Drive system captures load block
- 15 percent increase in load block support surface for greater life.
- New easy-adjust springcam limit switch system
- New convenient hinged springlock door that is easily removed
- Greater protection from the elements

SUPER SAVER XL
HIRED-HAND
Agricultural Inside Mount Heater for Poultry and Livestock Confinement Buildings

The Super Saver XL is a highly efficient direct-fired gas circulating heater designed for suspension mounting in houses of all ages and classes of poultry and livestock.

New side swinging door design gives easy access to internal cabinet with the new Service Saver control unit and powerful blower motor

New duct features user adjustable heat deflector designed to suit individual needs

Electronic HSI Ignition

HSI Ignition is standard on Super Saver Components are neatly arranged with ample room for servicing and cleaning The heating chamber is made of high temp aluminized steel which provides superior rust prevention The cast iron burner is enamel dipped to eliminate dust adhesion and rust. Surround air intake increases combustion and heat chamber efficiency Look for this important feature in other heaters of this type

Features

- Easy-access electrical control unit
- Quick disconnect wiring harness for easy service gold plated contacts prevent corrosion
- Diagnostic light for troubleshooting ease
- Electronic hot surface instant-on ignition
- 225 000 BTU LP or natural gas
- Available in Stainless Steel or Galva Zinc finish
- Duct with user-adjustable heat deflector
- High Temp aluminized burn chamber and blower housing
- Remote thermostat with piggyback cord set for easy installation
- 1/3 HP totally enclosed thermally protected motor with sealed ball bearings
- Manual reset high temp limit switch
- Backup safety sail switch

The incubators have customized trays which can turn the eggs until hatching. Total capacity of birds at time of incubation is about 1,800 per case, for a total of about 3,400 birds. According to Leach, the trays can be divided in order to keep pedigrees of genetic strains of birds.

The facility contains a small mixing room for small batches of experimental feeds, said Leach.

One experiment being conducted includes research on trying to reduce the nitrogen and phosphorous in chicken manure using different feed additivies, such as enzymes, to improve utilization of the phosphorous in feed.

Large battery rooms, one measuring 19-foot by 29-foot, and small rooms measuring 13-foot by 16-foot, are used to measure growth rate of the birds, according to Leach. Also included is a special surgical suite with a separate air handling system from the rest of the building.

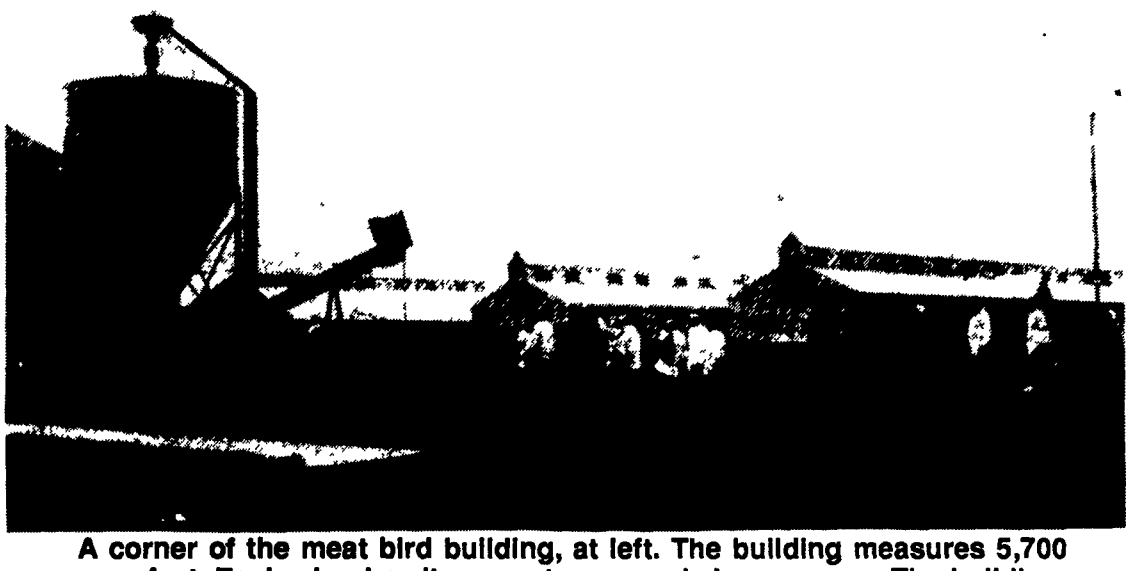
Meat Bird Building

The meat bird building, measuring 5,700 square feet, is shaped like the letter "H." Each wing has its own storage and change room. The building, equipped with a laboratory, has the capacity for four bulk bins if different diets are used.

Ongoing in this facility is a research effort with a major broiler suppliers to look at "the optimum cross of different strains" by certain producers, according to Leach. "As you know, there is a market for fresh-dressed poultry . . . and a big market for breast filets."

The breeding companies are trying to design a bird to sell to the major processors, and processing companies are looking at specific bird genetics "to find out what is optimum for their operation," said Leach.

The building contains four quadrants with 24 research pens each and a laboratory.



A corner of the meat bird building, at left. The building measures 5,700 square feet. Each wing has its own storage and change room. The building, equipped with a laboratory, has the capacity for four bulk bins if different diets are used. At right is the breeder house, measuring about 10,200 square feet, with a capacity of 2,200 birds. Included are large insemination cage rooms for breeders, 48 floor pens, an egg cooler, and a laboratory. Here, visitors at Ag Progress Days tour the site.

Pullet Building

The pullet rearing building, measuring 9,000 square feet with a capacity of about 3,600 birds, contains six small floor/cage rooms measuring about 13-foot by 20-foot each. The building contains a laboratory, four large floor/cage rooms (measuring 20- by 20-feet each) equipped with light control and temperature control above ambient. Pullet cages include two decks with a capacity of about 2,000 pullets. Included is a large feed mixing capability with a one-ton capacity horizontal mixer.

The leghorn laying hen, now measuring less than four pounds, is the primary bird in the industry, which can produce nearly 300 eggs per year. Studies are looking into feed utilization, since most of the feed that a hen eats is used to maintain the body, which takes the biggest chunk out of feed costs.

"The amount of feed that actually goes into the egg is a small proportion" of the total bird intake, according to Leach. "So they keep trying to breed these hens smaller and smaller and still maintain egg size."

Cage Layer And Turkey Growout

This building, measuring 12,000 square feet with a capacity of about 4,500 birds, will soon contain fully automated egg processing equipment, ready to use.

The building includes six floor pens, a cage layer room for 3,000 hens, laboratory, egg cooler, processing, and storage. Twenty-four turkey growout pens measure 10 square feet each.

Layers include a 15-foot by 22-foot storage cooler, egg quality lab, and a 2,655 square foot caged layer room. There are four rows of two deck cages, with 40 cages/deck, at two decks and four rows for a total of 640 cages. Each cage holds 4-5 birds. Included is a pit cleaner and cross elevator for manure removel.

In addition, there are six 12-foot by 17-foot floor/cage rooms for experiments with layers. Capacity is about 600 birds.

Visitors were able to view polts in specially heated conditions to prepare them for growout.

Breeder Building

The breeder house, measuring about 10,200 square feet, has a capacity of 2,200 birds. Included are large insemination cage rooms for breeders, 48 floor pens, an egg cooler, and a laboratory.

Artificial insemination cages measure 16-inches by 18-inches by 20-inches (females) and 16-inches by 18-inches by 24-inches with perches (males). Total capacity with four rows of cages is about 756 females and 252 males.

Included is an egg cooler for fertile eggs, records lab, computers, and record storage.

Floor pens for single male natural matings can be expanded by partition removal. All are freestanding to allow observations of behavior of the birds for study.

Processing Building

The processing building and shops, measuring 2,800 square feet, include a slaughter room with an overhead door to allow truck backup, a shackle chain, and a picker.

For evisceration, available are stainless steel tables, benches, and cabinets.

TV Spots Produced By Lancaster Association

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — No one knows for sure if you get to people's pocketbook by the way of the stomach or through the heart. But the Lancaster County Poultry Association has produced a 30-second TV commercial that promotes the good nutrition of eggs and the good feeling of association with the agricultural heritage.

In the spots, association members Alissa Stolzenbach, secretary and Mark Price, treasurer, make statements about the importance of poultry to the local economy. Twenty-eight percent of farm income, 8,000 jobs, and $175 million in industry activity are atributed to the Lancaster County poultry industry.

In addition, the audience is reminded that members of the local poultry association use ethical and environmental sound farming practices. And "When you purchase Lancaster County poultry products and eggs, you become a part of our agricultural heritage."

The spots aired more than 40 times on WGAL during the last several months.

According to John Schwartz, Lancaster County extension director and advisor to the group, the local board wanted to promote the industry and send the message that the local poultry industry had an impact on the economy.

CAN LITTER ADDITIVES BE BENEFICIAL?

Dr. Michael Hulet
Associate Professor
Poultry Science
Penn State

Increased demand and a dwindling supply of new litter bedding have made deep stacking manure in poultry houses more common. This practice brings with it two inherent problems: 1) it increases the nutrients in the litter for the next flock, and 2) it increases the microbe (germ) load in the house for the next birds. Therefore, unless ventilation and management are improved, problems can and do occur.

One theoretical solution to the problem is to treat litter with chemicals (formaldehyde, ferrous sulfate, etc.) that would change the litter pH or other environmental conditions that would reduce the microbe load and in turn, decrease the release of ammonia into the environment.

Recent research conducted by Dr. Patterson at Penn State has shown that a significant portion of the nitrogen in the litter is aerosolized in this stacking process, and, therefore, is lost for use as a soil fertilizer or cattle feed. Anyone who has entered a poorly ventilated poultry house in the winter can attest to the excess nitrogen loss as ammonia.

Research has shown that prolonged exposure to concentrations of ammonia above 25 parts per million (ppm) is detrimental to the performance of broilers. Research has further shown that ammonia can be a stress that aids in the occurrence of respiratory diseases in poultry (air sac, colibacillosis, etc.). High concentrations of ammonia are not good for the poultry caretaker, either.

Several attempts have been made to reduce microbial growth and bind nitrogen in the litter to preserve it as a fertilizer by reducing the production of ammonia. The litter used as ruminant feed would also be more valuable based on its nitrogen content as long as the additive wasn't harmful to cattle.

Dr. B. G. Ruffin from Alabama has reported that "poultry litter is worth four times more as a cattle feed ingredient" than as a fertilizer. He further stated that only "35 percent of the litter produced in Alabama was suitable for cattle feed."

Good management practices suggest the removal of any caked or wet litter material from under water lines and feed lines and drying the litter by tilling or mixing to promote excess moisture removal. Many have proposed additives that change the pH of the litter; however, most of these products aren't effective for the entire growing cycle.

At a recent scientific meeting in Mississippi, Phillip Moore, USDA-ARS at Arkansas reported the use of "alum" as a litter additive. Alum is a stringent used to stop bleeding. This product, when added to litter, reduces the volatilization of nitrogen as ammonia and can bind all the soluble phosphorus to eliminate its pollution potential into ground or surface water. When used at 200 gms/kg of litter, alum was found to reduce ammonia evaporation by 99 percent.

The average cost to treat a 20,000 square foot facility is about $440 ($220/ton). In subsequent field trials using the litter as fertilizer, the nitrogen binding capacity of the alum was shown to increase crop yields over the control litter (without alum). With higher nitrogen concentrations, proportionally less phosphorus will be added to the soil.

Scientific developments in nutrient management help preserve the environment while efficiently utilizing the valuable nutrients (nitrogen) produced as a by-product of the poultry industry. Additives such as alum could also promote improved bird health and performance during winter production periods.

Referendum To Increase Egg Checkoff

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

WARSAW, Ind. — The American Egg Board is in the middle of a referendum to increase the mandatory checkoff of eggs from five cents a case to 10 cents a case. The original checkoff started in 1976 and Doug Hoffer, referendum task force chairman says the increase is needed to stay effective and competitive. Without the checkoff moneys there would be no national egg advertising and promotion.

According the Hoffer, the referendum dates are September 26 to October 14, 1994. Results will be available on November 1, 1994. The final rule will be published on January 1, 1995, and the effective date will be February 1, 1995.

The national board not only advertises eggs, they are the industry's first line of defense against attacks on eggs. The board gets a lot of credit for its work to make eggs a staple in dietairy recommendations. In 1989, government research shows eggs contain 22 percent less cholesterol than previously reported.

Right now the industry's new "I Love Eggs" television and radio advertising campaign is sweeping the nation with a good message for eggs. This commercial appeals to the mind, mouth and middle (heart) of the consumer. For the mind, a permission statement tells consumers that it is OK to eat more eggs. To appeal to the mouth, the commercial "triggers the crave" with mouth-watering photos that remind consumers how much they love the great taste of eggs. To reach the heart, the commercial connects emotional appeal of families and the positive feeling they have about eggs.

"Studies by the dairy industry, beef, pork, and other commodities prove that generic advertising works," Hoffer said. "Right now, money spent on egg advertising is far lower than other major commodities. An increase in checkoff money is important to stay competitive."

Egg handling and safety education is a high priority area for the American Egg Board. As eggs and egg products can be mishandled, AEB's objective is to educate foodservice operators on proper egg care and handling.

To date more than 84,000 copies of the board's egg safety and quality chart have been distributed. Later this year, a tear-out copy of the chart with additional safety and handling tips is scheduled to appear in a major food service publication that reaches more than 200,000 food service operators.

SHELL DAMAGE AND MONITORING SHELL WEAKNESS WITH SPECIFIC GRAVITY

Dr. Paul H. Patterson
Assistant Professor
Poultry Science
Penn State

The actual cost of shell damage to the egg industry would be a difficult thing to accurately measure, although a recent estimate made by C. F. Strong and R. W. Bastein, suggest that it could cost the industry $200 million per year.

Shell damage can be encountered in a number of places, with the enclosed list clarifying some major causes:

1. Damaged cages or collection trays.
2. Excessive bird density in cages.
3. Operation of egg collection equipment at speeds which are too fast.
4. Stacking egg flats more than six high.
5. Failure to double the bottom flat in stacks.
6. Failure to separate oversized eggs in flats.
7. Careless handling of eggs on flats or pallets.
8. Failure to remove dead birds before belt collection.
9. Rough areas in floors where forklifts or egg carts travel.
10. Excessive disturbance of birds during peak laying hours, e.g.-manure cleanout, spraying, etc.
11. Failure to carefully maintain and clean egg handling equipment.
12. Failure to properly secure egg containers in trucks.
13. Excessive temperature difference between eggs and wash water.
14. Factors which reduce shell quality such as old hens, heat stress, or improper nutrition.
15. Increased body checks due to crowding in cages or extended day length.

A simple thing such as the number of birds per cage can have a dramatic effect on shell quality.

Dr. D. A. Roland, Sr. demonstrated this quite clearly in a 1978 study (Table 1).

Hens/cage	Body checks
2	8.3
3	14.9
4	33.8

Eggs gathered between 6 and 7:30 am.

Table 2

1.065	27.3
1.070	21.0
1.075	11.1
1.080	7.5
1.085	2.4
1.090	0.7

To start a weekly specific gravity testing program, secure a hydrometer that measures the specific gravity of solutions between 1.060 and 1.100. Next get five to nine 5-gallon plastic buckets and add three gallons of water and 3 pounds of salt to each. A dilution of 1 pound of salt to 1 gal of water will give a specific gravity of approximately 1.079. Using the hydrometer, add salt or water to each bucket to reach the desired specific gravity. An eggshell quality score can be assigned to eggs that float in the specific gravity solutions as listed below.

Specific Gravity	Egg Score
1.065	1
1.070	2
1.075	3
1.080	4
1.085	5
1.090	6
1.095	7
1.100	8 (thickest shell)

Place thirty eggs in a wire mesh basket that fits inside the plastic buckets and lower the basket and eggs into the solution having the lowest specific gravity. Remove the sinking eggs to the next highest specific gravity solution and count and record the number of floaters with their specific gravity. Continue moving sinking eggs forward until they float.

Calculate the percentage of floaters in each solution and calculate the average specific gravity of the entire lot of eggs. For best results, standardize the age and temperature of the eggs you evaluate as well as the temperature of the specific gravity solutions (room temperature is easiest).

A good hydrometer for egg testing should be about 155 mm long with 0.001 divisions from 1.060 to at least 1.100. POULTRY NOTES

MAJOR CHANGES ARE PLANNED FOR UNDERGRADUATES STUDYING POULTRY SCIENCE AT PENN STATE

William D. Weaver, Jr.
Professor and Head
Penn State
Poultry Science

Training undergraduate students for the many careers offered by the poultry industry is one, if not the most important, responsibility asked of the Penn State Department of Poultry Science.

Traditionally, many of the students entering the industry from Penn State have received degrees in poultry technology and management, a curriculum administered solely by the Department of Poultry Science.

Although the job opportunities for students trained in poultry science have been excellent (there have been two to three jobs available for each student graduated), attracting students into a purely poultry science curriculum has been difficult. For whatever reason, poultry has an image problem among many undergraduate students.

In an attempt to reach more students and consequently provide more potential employees for the poultry industry, the Department of Poultry Science is cooperating with the departments of Dairy and Animal Science and Veterinary Science to develop a consolidated animal sciences undergraduate curriculum. A steering committee composed of two members from each department is developing course requirements for the major (animal sciences) and its two options (bioscience and production/business).

Students interested in graduate and professional (veterinary medicine) schools will select the bioscience option. Currently, there is a separate major administered by the three departments, called animal bioscience, for students interested in post-graduate education.

Students planning to move directly into the industry are expected to choose the production/business option. Every effort is being made to select, and when necessary develop, courses that will prepare these students for employment in firms engaged in animal production and agribusiness. In addition to the more traditional poultry production and management courses, courses in communications, business and personnel management, finance, accounting, economics, computer applications, and farm building structures and ventilation will be offered.

Dr. William D. Weaver, Jr.

Even though the curriculum will encompass several species of commercial farm animals, care is being taken to maintain adequate course content specific to poultry science. In the lower level courses where basic systems are generally taught, instructors will provide, when appropriate, the comparisons between birds and mammals.

Specific courses and portions of courses addressing various topics specific to poultry will be maintained at the upper level (junior and senior years) to ensure that students receive proper training in poultry science.

The consensus is that, in the long run, the new animal sciences curriculum and its two options, which is planned to start in the fall of 1996, will better serve the poultry industry than the currently underenrolled major in poultry technology and management. The new program should expose a much larger number of students to poultry science than the present major, and therefore will provide the poultry industry with a larger pool from which to select potential employees.

National Poultry Meeting Set

GEORGETOWN, Del.—Close to 600 poultry industry leaders from across the country and around the world are expected to attend the 1994 National Meeting on Poultry Health and Processing in Ocean City, Maryland on October 20-21. The meeting is sponsored by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the trade association working for the continued progress of the Delmarva Peninsula's nearly $1.3-billion-a year poultry industry.

"Meeting Today's Challenges" is the theme of this year's meeting, according to Dr. Mark A. Dekich, meeting chairman. "Our industry has many opportunities in the area of food safety and there will be an emphasis on this important subject at the meeting," DeKich said, "The newly proposed United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) rules on inspection procedures and product quality make our meeting especially timely and pertinent to the poultry industry nationwide."

The opening general session is devoted to food safety topics including an overview by George B. Watts, president of the National Broiler Council. Dr. Charles W. Beard, vice president Research/Technology, Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association, will give an update on food-safety research.

Food technologist Dr. James Jay, emeritus professor, Wayne State University, will discuss food-safety microbiology for the meat industry, and Dr. Donald W. Luchsinger, acting deputy administrator, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA, will address his agency's pre-harvest food-safety initiatives.

An overview of the ratite industry, presented by Dr. Mac Terzich of Perdue Farms, Inc., will complete the general session. All poultry industry personnel will find the general session of interest and importance.

Following the general session, there will be concurrent live production and processing sessions. In the two-day live production sessions, topics are:

- Field Dermatitis
- Chicken Anemia Agent and Dermatitis
- REV-Like Complex
- Multicentric Histiocytosis Mimicking Reticuloendotheliosis
- Reticuloendotheliosis: Known and Suspected Impacts on Poultry
- The Relationship between Nutrition and Immunology
- Disease Syndromes Associated with Arenavirus-Like Particles in Georgia Chickens
- Role of Selenium in Nutrition and Health
- Field Status of Infectious Bursal Disease Viruses
- Mycoplasma Field Issues and Diagnostic
- Mycoplasma Research
- Mycoplasma Biosecurity
- Delmarva Avian Influenza Risk Minimization Effort
- Incidence and Control of Marek's Disease
- Improvement of Marek's Disease Vaccination Techniques
- Procedures for Approval of New Biologics.

The one-day processing session on Thursday, October 20 has topics designed to help processing plant managers and quality control personnel deliver higher quality products while improving their efficiencies.

Speakers from 12 states and the District of Columbia were selected by DPI's Poultry Health Committee and Processing Committee.

For more information about the 29th National Meeting on Poultry Health and Processing, contact DPI at R.D. 6, Box 47, Georgetown, Delaware 19947-9622, (302) 856-9037.
